Crabbing is present or can be present in practically every phase of life. It is more evident in public life than elsewhere because more people are offered opportunity to witness and criticize. It would be hard to give a correct definition of crabbing that would be logical and true. However, crabbing is very undesirable; it is not necessary to the extent that it is often carried, it combines never being satisfied and trying to lay the blame elsewhere. It is present in the school room and the athletic field. In fact we can detect it everywhere. It becomes a habit that is extremely hard to break but if we desire to be successful and to be looked upon with respect it must be broken. Always blaming somebody else, never admitting himself entirely in the wrong is the way of the habitual crabber. "His teacher is no good." "He doesn't get a fair break on the athletic field." "His father won't lend him the car." "It was his fault." It soon gets tiresome to listen to and even more so to be connected with the crabber. If no one else will take them in hand, it may be necessary to apply a little force. This extremely bad habit can be broken by self control and the aid of ones friends.

Athletics

The Athena boys defeated the Grizzly high team from Helix last Friday night by the score of 33-26. The Helix team started the fireworks by looping a field goal and foul basket while the Athena boys were trying to get started. This seemed to make the boys a little bit "sore," anyway they took the lead and held it for the rest of the game. The game was worth seeing as both teams showed good basketball both on the defensive and offensive.

Eldon Myrick was high point man, making 18 of the 33 points. Walter Huffman was put out on fouls in the fourth quarter.

The starting combination was: Huffman, center; Myrick and Jenkins, forwards; Crowley and Rogers, guards.

The substitutions were Hansell for Huffman and Moore for Rogers.

The Athena high school team plays at Pilot Rock tonight.

Girls Basketball

The girls basketball team defeated the Helix team with a score of 18 to 15 on the local floor in a hard fought battle.

It's a Wolverine!

Bends Like Rubber—
Outwears Any Other Shoe!

A FLEXIBLE sole that's kind to your feet . . . that yields quickly and cradles your foot comfortably when you stoop or kneel—that's what this Wolverine Horsehide Work Shoe does to make your day's work easier.

If you've never worn a Wolverine Horsehide Work Shoe you have a treat in store for you. You'd hardly believe work shoes could stay so soft, wear so long. Wolverine uppers do stay soft. They are scuff-proof. Acid conditions that quickly eat the uppers of ordinary work shoes don't faze a Wolverine upper. And they wear longer because they're made of the recognized longest wearing leather—Shell Horsehide.

We suggest that you come in today and try on a pair of Wolverines without obligation to buy. Your favorite style is here, too—ankle lengths to knee highs. And all these extra features cost no more than you'd pay for any good work shoe.

Secret of Composition of China Long Sought

The making of china is an intricate and long drawn-out process. It once required 25 different operations and four weeks' time to make even the clumsy white plates which are found in cheap restaurants. The finer chinas require the highest of skilled labor and materials, and their decoration is an art in itself. Many tried in vain to discover the secret of the composition. Eventually various attempts were attended with success in Italy and France. In 1709 a German alchemist named Boettger discovered the process after years of study. By the end of the Eighteenth century Germany had not less than seventeen potteries. It was, however, the Oriental and East India companies that placed the charm of chinaware, which for centuries was so rare that only princes, kings or nobles could possess a piece of it, within the common reach of the average family.

Recent Whites' Curiosity

The tribesmen of Africa know that the white persons they come in contact with view their rituals and ceremonies with curiosity and are not duly impressed with the significance and for this reason an impenetrable veil of secrecy surrounds most of these occasions, according to a returned traveler who spent many months in Nyasaland, hoping to learn something of an authoritative nature about these customs.
