

WILD HORSES TO BE ROUNDED UP

Will Be Gathered Late in April or the First Week in May.

Walla Walla.—Albert Baker, local national forest ranger, stated Saturday that the first spring roundup of wild horses in the Walla Walla district of the Umatilla National forest would be held either late in April or the first weeks in May.

These horses, many of which are domesticated stock that have heeded 'the call of the wild' and escaped into the inaccessible parts of the forest, have been roaming the hills for years and increasing their numbers at a very rapid rate. They eat a vast amount of forage that otherwise could be devoted to the bands of cattle and sheep that are ranged in the Blue mountains, and although the forest service has long wanted to rid the timber lands of these animals they have not been able to do so through a technicality of the law.

A few years ago an attempt was made to roundup these animals but the ranger in charge was arrested and considerable effort was expended by the government in getting him freed. Now, however, the law has been changed in order that the roundup can be held without interference.

Stock owners of the district will be notified prior to the drive so that they can secure any horses belonging to them before the drive starts. The others will be sold to the packing plant located in Echo, Oregon, and there will be slaughtered and packed in tins which will be shipped to France and Russia, where the people consider horse meat a rare delicacy. Some will be sold in this country for dog meat, and the fisheries along the coast almost universally use horse meat for feeding the young fish.

Plead Not Guilty

INVISIBLE BIFOCALS FOR YOU!

You may be annoyed because the reading segment you have in your bifocals interferes with your movements in-doors or on the street. It may cause missteps when going up or down stairs or over curbs.

The type "C" bifocal lens has a very small reading portion which is so placed that the wearer may look either above, around or below it.

The type "C" bifocal lens has the advantage of incomparable invisibility of reading segment, freedom from color aberration, sharp definition and practical absence of "jump of the image."

Recommended for housekeepers, salesmen, inspectors, farmers, chauffeurs, and for general out-door activities.

W. L. Thompson Will be a Candidate for Senate in the Campaign of 1932

William L. Thompson, formerly of Portland but now engaged in the salmon packing business in Astoria, is going to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator in the primary election of May, 1932. That is unless he changes the state of his mind as it existed Thursday night when he confided to close friends that he intended to make the race.

It will be remembered that Thompson started to run for the United States senate once before, when he parted a long association with R. N. Stanfield, whom he had supported in his candidacy for the senate at the time of his election to the senate. He had supported Stanfield in 1916 when he first ran, that time against McNary, and again in 1920, when he entered an apparently hopeless fight against George E. Chamberlain and won. But in 1926, when Stanfield came up for reelection, Thompson started out against him and then stopped.

Now, it seems from what is reported from the huddle held Thursday night in the Marion hotel, Thompson has gained the impression that Senator Steiwer is not going to have such easy sledding in the campaign of 1932 and that it is necessary for some strong man to get out into the field and stand as a Republican bulwark between the senate and the danger of a Democratic senator.

Carrying Charge Plans Made by the Corporation

The East Oregonian gives the following announcement as made in Spokane in behalf of the North Pacific Grain Growers association:

After conferring with Mr. Henry W. Collins, vice-president of the Farmers National Grain Corporation, Chicago, an agreement has been reached with the National Corporation whereby we are able to make the following offer to members:

Members desiring to carry their wheat until June 15, will be protected against carrying charges until June, not to exceed the sum of 2c per bushel. This rate is intended to cover all charges of whatever nature, including interest, storage, taxes and insurance. Rather than compute the individual member, the full 2c per bushel will be added to the supported price that will be paid for wheat delivered in May, but as a refund of carrying charges and not as an increased market price.

Carrying charges will not be paid for non-members. It is a service rendered by the North Pacific to members of its Locals only.

This is in no wise to be construed as an increase in stabilized prices. It is a service being undertaken by the North Pacific for its members only, and is not to be confused with any activity of the Grain Stabilization Corporation or the Farm Board.

This enables members of the co-operatives to carry their wheat to be sold during the remainder of this present crop season. Through his membership the grower is placed in position to benefit by whatever favorable markets may yet appear, and likewise will receive the advantage of any freight rate adjustments that might come about.

Mr. Adams spoke highly of the assistance given by Mr. Collins and the other officers of the Farmers National, through whose efforts this service is made possible.

VOTE MAKES BONUS LOAN BILL LEGAL

President Issues Order to Give Priority to Men in Actual Need.

Both house and senate passed the bonus bill over President Hoover's veto. Immediately after the bill became a law, the president issued an order to give priority to ex-service men in actual need.

The vote in the senate was 76 to 17. The vote in the house was 328 to 79.

Shouts and hisses came from the galleries during the debate when Senator Hastings, Republican, of Delaware said there were veterans who would "steal the certificates from their wives and go out and borrow money to spend the night with another woman."

Immediately there were cries of "No, no, no!" and Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, who was presiding, called loudly for order. He had just previously warned against applause. Attendants rushed about the gallery quieting the visitors as a storm of senatorial reproof descended on Hastings' head.

President Hoover in his veto message assailed the theory and practice of the loan proposal. He said it would be a serious burden on the treasury, would help the veterans relatively little and would set up a dangerous precedent.

The bill as enacted provides a flat loan value on adjusted compensation certificates of 50 per cent, of the maturity face value, less the principal and interest of any prior loans. It also reduces the interest rate to 4 1/2 per cent. In order to negotiate a loan, a veteran must have had his policy at least two years.

Thus a veteran whose policy calls for a full value of $1000 can borrow $500 at 4 1/2 per cent interest compounded annually. If he has borrowed in the past, the full amount due on his previous loans will be deducted.

Previously a veteran was able to borrow a maximum of 22 1/2 per cent, with the exact loan value based on actual statistics. The interest rate was fixed at 2 per cent above the current federal reserve rediscount rate for the district in which the loan was made.

Senators voting against the bill were: Republicans (16), Bingham, Borah, Fess, Goff, Gould, Hastings, Herbert Metcalf, Morrow, Moses, Phipps Reed, Smoot, Walcott, Waterman, Watson.

Democrats (1), King.

Request that World war veterans not in actual need delay their applications for loans under the new law for a few days until veterans in poor circumstances can be cared for, was issued by Colonel George Ijams, director of the U. S. veterans' bureau. Newspapers and broadcasting systems were asked by Ijams to give wide publicity to the request.

Anticipating final passage of the bonus bill, the bureau had prepared telegrams for immediate dispatch to regional offices authorizing increases in the forces of workers. Additional funds in the regional office also are being provided for prompt payment of loans.

"Every effort has been made in advance to build up a machine which will work smoothly," Ijams said. "The bureau is prepared for its new task."

The announcement to the veterans said: "The law increases the loan basis of adjusted service certificates which have been in force more than two years to 50 per cent of their face value. The veterans' bureau has made arrangements to handle the new loans as expeditiously as possible, but in order that those veterans who are in dire need may be served first, it is requested that other veterans who are not so unfortunate withhold applications for loans until their less fortunate comrades may be served."

"If you have already secured a loan, application for a new loan should be made to the office from which you received your first loan. You are urgently requested not to communicate with the veterans' bureau in Washington or its regional offices after your application has been filed, as such correspondence will serve to retard the service to veterans."

A New Stunt Tried on Pendleton Merchants

Pendleton.—Pat F. Carey, alias F. Bochoffski, 51, of Klamath Falls, now in the county jail, tried a new one on the local citizenry.

Carey came here last week and went by stage to Athena. He then called several local stores under the name of Ed Cornell and told them a man named Carey would be in town during the day and that he wanted him back on the ranch for work.

At the first store the Carey and Cornell voices sounded alike and the pinch was made.

Municipal Utilities, No Tax
By way of indefinite postponement the House Friday killed the Taylor bill, which would have assessed municipally-owned utilities engaged in the generation, transmission and distribution of electric energy. The bill came in with an adverse report from the taxation and revenue committee and the report was adopted.

High School Notes

Editorial Betty Eager

Why does each state of the Union have laws? Is it so the people of each state can break them? No! Everyone knows that each state has certain laws for its people to abide by, attempting to make our country as a whole better. Can this be done if the people insist on breaking the laws and paying no attention to them? It is very doubtful. In Oregon and many other states drivers of automobiles are supposed to stop when they come from a side street onto the main highway or the main thoroughfare. If you look closely when you come to the end of one of these streets that leads onto a highway you can see a post that has been put there to beautify the surrounding country. Such people as these drive on and pay no attention to these signs. People such as these are a detriment to our country because if they break this law they will break others that are just as important. These people will get by the officers of the law for a short time and maybe a long time but in the end they will be caught and they may wish they had obeyed the laws of their state but this is very doubtful. Our country is not benefited by people who break the laws and much less are they themselves who are breaking the laws. If each one of us would do our part in observing these laws it would help much and maybe in time this country will be what we are working for.
