Requirements of the New State Tax Is Stressed

Salem.—Failure to receive one of the 65,000 blanks mailed out by the Hoss in Minority on Plan to state tax commission this week does not excuse anyone from making a return under the intangibles or personal income tax laws if they are subject to either of these taxes, members of the commission warned Sun-day. Returns under both of these taxes are due in the office of the commission by June 15.

Individuals who receive no interest or dividends must file a personal income tax return if their net income exceeds $1500, if single, or $2500 if married, the commission explained Individuals who receive their entire income from interest and dividends must file an intangibles tax return if their gross income exceeds $500, if single, or $800 if married.

Single persons who receive interest and dividends and income from other sources must file a return if the net income from all sources exceeds $1000 or they must file if the gross interest and dividends exceeds $500.

Married persons who receive interother sources are required to file a return if their combined net income from all sources exceeds $1700 or and dividends exceed $800.

Interest on federal obligations is exempt from the intangibles tax. Interest on other securities, including foreign, state, county and municipal bonds, corporation bonds, notes, mortgages, contracts and savings accounts are taxable under the intangibles tax but all interest earned prior to January 1, 1930, may be excluded from the 1930 returns. Dividends declared after January 1, 1930 , are taxable in the year paid.
