

WHAT THE PORTLAND EVENING TELEGRAM SAID:

"A business education is something which no one can take away from you, and which in future may prove of more value than a money prize. The Behnke-Walker Business College is an institution of sterling worth, which turns out more men and women fitted to enter commercial pursuits, each year, than any other college on the Coast."

Paying Positions for Graduates

Newspapers and business houses recognize the superiority and thoroughness of the training Behnke-Walker students receive and demand more of our graduates than we are able to supply. In a single year, we received 1451 calls for office help. This makes it easy for us to guarantee our students positions.

No Rest For Him.

"This extravagance has got to stop," said the head of the family wrathfully. "You are spending money faster than I can make it."

"If you'd stick to your office instead of going out to play golf every afternoon perhaps you could make money faster," replied his better half.

Held Responsible.

"That dog of yours seems to have human intelligence!"

"He ain't that lucky," answered the proprietor of the dog. "If he was to lose his temper an' turn hisself loose to hurt somebody he wouldn't have a chance in the world of pleading insanity."—Washington Star.

Telling in Time.

A farmer lived on a lonely place and eventually a railroad was run through the district. There was one train a day and it stopped at the farmer's station on signal.

The farmer one day set the signal and the train drew up. But he did not climb aboard.

"Well, get on!" shouted the conductor. "Get on, can't ye?"

"Excuse me," said the farmer. "I don't want to get on. I only want to say that you are to stop here at this time tomorrow, as my wife is going to town to do some shopping."—Buffalo News.

That "Sport Shirt."

It is not known who invented the "sport shirt" and wished it on misguided youths. The garment has a V neck, giving it a lovely effeminate air, and the broad, flowing collar is trained over the outside of the coat collar. It only needs some embroidery or lace insertion to look as picturesque as possible. One gets the firm impression that the grown-up wearer of a sport shirt is not old enough to vote, whatever the records may say or whatever his size and face may indicate. Perhaps it is one of the "American fashions," but in any event it suggests melancholy reflections.—Providence Bulletin.

A Glimpse of Heps.

"I hear that Bilter's daughter has eloped with his chauffeur."

"Yes, and Bilter wired his forgiveness."

"What did he do that for?"

"He said he thought now there might be a chance for him to use his car."

Chances to Shine.

"Well, wifey, I am now a judge. And you know that famous divorce case now coming up?"

"Yes."

"I'm to preside."

"Oh, goody! I'll invite all my society friends to act as patronesses and I'll snub some cats I know."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Looking Backward.

Crawford—What's that perpetual-motion crank working on now?

Crabshaw—A machine that will enable a woman to lace her own shoes.—Judge.

Not Necessarily.

"Do you think baseball can be made more popular by lowering the price of admission?"

"Decidedly not. Look at the churches. They charge no admission at all, and still they can't get the crowds."

A Poor Excuse.

"Van Lusche says his wife keeps him in hot water all the time."

"I suppose that's how he accounts for getting stewed so often."

Nabbing Him Quick.

Mr. Singleton—Do you believe in divorce, Miss Yellowleaf?

Miss Yellowleaf—Oh, you men are just awful! You haven't even asked me to marry you yet!—Judge.

Little Fred—I'm awfully hungry. I didn't get half enough dinner.

Little Susie—What did you have for dinner?

Little Fred—Why, we had company!

Honors Are Even.

"My pop is a financier," boasted one little boy.

"Well, you needn't brag about it," retorted the boy next door. "I've got an uncle in jail, too."

Excusable Inadvertence.

Machinery seems almost endowed with intelligence.

"That's right," replied Farmer Corn-tassel. "Sometimes I ketch myself usin' the same language to our automobile that I use to the mule."—Washington Star.

Placed.

"So you're looking for a job in the chorus, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

"How is your voice?"

"Well, I'm a little hoarse now, but—"

"All right. I'll put you in the pony ballet."

Beating Him to It.

"Well, how about that little bill?"

"But I told you to call at 4 o'clock, and it is only 3 now."

"I know it. I wanted to catch you in."—Houston Post.

How It Was.

"Your wife came from a fine old family, didn't she?"

"No; she brought them with her."—Judge.

A Real Success.

"What is a food expert?"

"Any man who can make his wages buy enough for the family table."—Life.

As Warranted.

"Say," said the man as he entered the clothing store, "I bought this suit here less than two weeks ago, and it is rusty looking already."

"Well," replied the clothing dealer, "I guaranteed it to wear like iron, didn't I?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Treat for Ma.

"Yes, we girls are going to camp out."

"You'll find cooking very irksome." "Oh, we are going to take mother along to cook. She needs a vacation."—Judge.

He Was It.

"My grandmother left a large progeny," he was saying.

"Of course, you expect to share in it," chirped the sweet young thing.—Buffalo Express.

A Fair Guess.

"Who was it prophesied that the war would be all over by the first of August?"

"I don't know, but if he meant all over Europe, he wasn't so far wrong."

Used to Compliments.

"I suppose you have something pretty in ties, miss?"

"Oh, yes," said the rosy-cheeked girl, taking a box from the shelf; "here's some pretty blue silk ones for $2; just too sweet for anything."

"I think you are a little dear," he said, with a pleasant smile.

"You are complimentary," she replied, blushing. When he thought how he'd been misunderstood, he blushed and stammered:

"Oh, I beg your pardon, miss! I didn't mean to say you were a dear, I—"

"Never mind! there are plenty of young men who think so. Good day, sir."

When he turned away her blushes were gone, and his face looked as if he had stood on a lady's train.

'Twas Ever Thus.

First Debutante—How on earth did you manage to make such a hit with Mr. Writeleigh? I told him I'd read every single thing he ever wrote and that I thought he was better than Kipling, Shakespeare and Balzac put together, and it didn't seem to impress him at all.

Second Debutante—I told him he danced better than Vernon Castle.—Puck.

A High Position.

Bill—They say he has taken up aviation.

Jill—I should rather say that aviation has taken him up.—Yonkers Statesman.

Perfect.

"Was the picnic a success?"

"Sure. The man who sat down on the huckleberry pie had a palm beach suit on."
