ACCIDENTS IN FILLING SILOS

Practically All Are Result of Carelessness and Can Be Prevented—Three Excellent Rules.

(By W. E. MARKEY, Iowa Experiment Station.)

With the opening of the silo filling season there will be frequent reports of serious and fatal accidents. The manufacturers of silage cutters have greatly improved their construction in recent years, and most accidents nowadays are the result of carelessness; practically all of them can be avoided by the exercise of reasonable care. In addition to the exercise of common sense at the feeding end of the machine, here are some things that the inexperienced man should do:

1. Be sure that the machine is being run at the proper speed.
2. Take care that corn is never put into the machine until the motion is up to full speed.
3. In stopping, be careful not to shut off the power until the elevator is empty. If the elevator is not empty, the cut material will fall back and lodge in the fans. Then when the machine is started again, the cut corn jams the fans, and as a result they are bent or broken.

EFFECTIVE AS SCARECROW

Inflated Bags Tied to Arms of Ordinary Ragman Will Materially Aid in Keeping Birds Away.

The ordinary ragman used as a scarecrow can be made more effective by adding to it something to make it move, or some part that flutters in the wind. This can be accomplished in one way by blowing up paper bags to expand them to their full extent, tying the openings as if they were filled with some commodity for the household and fastening them to the arms of the dummy as shown, says Popular Mechanics. These will swing and flutter about in a way that will materially aid in scaring away the birds that damage the crops.

RAKE FOR STIRRING ALFALFA

Side Delivery Tool Rolls Hay Up Loosely So Air Can Get Through It Without Sunburning.

The side delivery rake is about the best tool to use in stirring alfalfa. It rolls the hay up loosely so that the air can get through it without "av"ing it burned by the hot sun. Great care should be exercised in handling alfalfa so as not to lose the leaves, the most important part of the plant. They are worth as much, pound for pound, as wheat middlings, so it pays to try to save them.

Alfalfa hay can be handled in much the same way as clover, except that a little more care must be observed to prevent it from getting too dry. In handling alfalfa cut it down in the afternoon after the dew is off, let it lie until afternoon then rake into windrows with the side delivery, and either put into cocks that evening, or the next morning after the dew is off. It is preferable to let the hay do most of the curing in the cock as a little better feed can be produced in this way. It can be put into the cocks when quite green and if the weather is at all favorable it will cure in a day or so and make fine hay.

An Angel of the Aeroplane.
Andrew Carnegie said the other day at Bar Harbor:
"How war sours the sweetest of us! I was talking this morning with a little girl whose father is a member of the British legation, and she clasped her little hands and looked up at the blue sky devoutly, and sighed:
"I wish I was an angel!"
"And what would you do, my dear," I asked, "if you were an angel?"
"I'd fly right over those Germans," she answered, "and drop poison bombs on them night and day."

Hamlet Had His Reasons.
The late John B. Herreshoff, the famous blind yacht builder, once said at Bristol:

"It is hard to explain how I, being blind, can design yachts—hard because the average man is so ignorant of yacht construction.
"When I talk yacht construction to the average man I'm in the position of the critic to whom a chap said:
"I went to see Hamlet last night."
"H'm. Indeed!" said the critic, wrinkling his high brow. "And now tell me, my good fellow, do you think Hamlet was mad?"
"I know darn well he was," said the other. "There weren't three dozen people in the house."
