THAT ROAD QUESTION AGAIN

The dispute arising between this section of the county and the one lying contiguous to Hillsboro, and represented by the Independent, is of little value to our readers unless some good may follow from it. The Independent asserts that it is a dead issue. It may appear dead to that editor, but we assure him that it is very much alive, and will remain so until it is finally settled, and settled right. No one blames the editor of the Independent for wanting all the best things all the time at the expense of all the people, and if he and his followers are oversupplied with that human trait we call selfishness we do not suppose they should be blamed for it. We are charitable down this way, and are inclined to overlook faults in other people when they do not tread on our toes too hard, but we do not propose to be the goat all the time. This section of the county is not alone in the belief that other sections of Washington county, besides that about Hillsboro should receive some attention in the way of public improvement.

This controversy started in the first place when all this public money was proposed to be spent in hard-surfacing the road between Hillsboro and Forest Grove, and the Beaverton Chamber of Commerce protested against it. It was our contention that other sections of this state highway needed attention, and should be improved first. If it is only a question of what part of the road is used the most then we have the best of the argument, or on the other hand if it is only a question of where the greatest amount of taxes comes from then again are we upheld, or if it is a question of serving the greatest number of people then our contention should prevail.

Then, again, if it is a question of what section of the road is in the worst condition, they do we have the best of the argument. Any one of these points alone should decide the issue in our favor. These points are all in support of our contention, but still they are arguments that must be shooed away with the editorial apron and termed "dead issue." The arguments that we are sure most appeal to him, and those responsible for this trouble have not been presented, and will not be for the reason that they come from a selfish motive, and will not appeal to the people at large.

YOUR TOWN PAPER

The support which a community gives the local paper is, in a way, the reflection of its own destiny. Invariably the town which loyally supports the editor in his untiring endeavor to build up the community in which he lives, is the community whose future is unquestionably a bright one. A paper, though filled to overflowing with advertising, can exert little or no influence upon the surrounding territory unless there are subscribers.

The East end of Washington county, has been unheard-of, so far as general news is concerned. Once in a great while a item will manage to sneeze through the lines of our West end papers, but it is very seldom. In truth one never can tell whether or not our very important events will receive proper mention.

With all this in view, we have taken control of The Beaverton Times, and will endeavor to give the people of the East end of the county what is rightfully coming to them—publicity. Publicity is the very thing that has been lacking throughout all the years that have passed.

What does the world know of Beaverton? Very little if the truth were known, but many towns no larger than we are have a reputation that would require a book to enumerate. This sort of publicity can never be gained if the community takes no interest in thrusting the name of their town forward. The community must co-operate with the paper. They should not only give their subscriptions, but also pass in news when they get it; the editor cannot find it all, although he may spend unlimited time searching it out.

"BUNK"

Our young and versatile friend, the editor of the Banks Herald, takes occasion in the last issue to designate the reasonable and just commendation we bestowed on the County court for the good work they are doing on the roads as "bunk." Now he will, no doubt, admit that things of this kind are not argument, nor is ungrounded abuse evidence of neglect of duty in a public official. If the statements we made, that the County court was using intelligent, earnest efforts to build and maintain the very best possible roads in this county, and were doing everything reasonably possible under the antiquated system of roads laws we have to build permanent roads, are untrue, we would be glad to have our friend submit some tangible evidence of the fact. Sensational, unfounded, ridiculous attacks on public men and measures, a la Portland Journal, may "get by" in the big city, but it will not be swallowed by the people of Washington county. Forest Grove News-Times

We are pleased to find Mr. Doy Gray's name back on the Citizen's ticket voted for at the coming town election. Mr. Gray at first refused to run for councilman, but later, upon the urgent request of many citizens, consented to allow his name to appear upon the ballot. The ticket therefore stands as first nominated at the caucus. The selection of this ticket was done wisely, and the people will make no mistake in placing the management of the town in their hands for the ensuing year. Of course, it goes without saying that these positions are a nuisance to any one, but nevertheless some one must perform the duties pertaining thereto, and what is needed most is business ability. This kind of ability we feel will be brought to the disposal of the town by the election of the ticket named.

The people most interested in the construction of the Beaverton high school may rest assured that we are going to have a splendid structure, absolutely safe, and one of the best arranged buildings in the county, notwithstanding what the critics have to say regarding it. The School Board have had the plans and building inspected by the Portland building inspector, Mr. Plummer, and the building has been approved by him, subject to a few minor changes to be installed by the architect.

The county budget meeting to be held at Hillsboro, December 17 should be largely attended, not alone by the ones who intend to register a kick, but by others as well, so that the County court may get a fair and intelligent idea of what the taxpayers desire. It too often happens that none but the "kickers" attend these meetings. Those who have no complaint stay away, so it becomes a difficult matter to sift out true public opinion. A meeting that does not express public opinion is a detriment rather than a guide.

We note that many school districts have voted a liberal tax levy. Forest Grove twelve mills, Hillsboro nine, Tualatin seven, and others a good liberal tax. Bandon, Oregon, went these one better and decided upon a twenty mill levy. We do not believe in extravagance at all, but a cut in taxes should not start with the schools.

It looks like a foregone conclusion that an extensive National Defense program will be inaugurated by the Democratic leaders. This is stealing a good deal of Republican thunder.

Champ Clark has been re-elected Speaker of the Lower House of Congress, and everything is now in readiness for the law mill to set in motion.

War is a terrible thing and much to be deplored, but just the same the Democratic party would have lots of explaining to do were it not for the trouble over there.

Let's see! Did the Independent decide to hard-surface the Forest Grove road?

The East side would like to shake hands with the West side over the Hillsboro road hog policy.

It seems as though the rains would never cease, but never mind; it will be dry next month.

Did you ever get a brilliant idea and tell it to your wife, then watch her pour cold water on the poor thing?

OLD SHEFFIELD PLATE.

None Made Now Even in England by the Ancient Method.
"Old Sheffield plate" is not manufactured in England at the present time—at least not the real old article in the real old way. The method formerly used was to brass or weld a thin sheet of silver on either side of a thicker sheet of copper and then to roll this combined metal to a sheet of the thickness required, which would result in a sheet of copper coated on both sides with an actual surface of silver.
The process of electroplating is much cheaper and quicker and has superseded the old method to such an extent that articles manufactured by the old process would now cost quite as much as the same articles in sterling silver. In some parts of England, the United States consul at Sheffield says in Consular and Trade Reports, unscrupulous manufacturers do not hesitate to produce copies of old patterns by the electroplating process and then palm them off on unsuspecting purchasers as genuine.

A Sheffield company successfully prosecuted two leading dealers in the United Kingdom for selling this imitation ware as "old Sheffield plate," and it has been decided by the courts that the term "old Sheffield plate" means articles made from metal consisting of silver fused upon copper and not copper electroplated, and that any dealer applying the term "old Sheffield plate" to an article made in any other way than by the fusing process is guilty of fraudulent description and may be proceeded against.

There is any quantity of electroplate made which would be entitled to the name of "Sheffield plate." The decisions of the courts referred to have particular reference to the term "old Sheffield plate," which today is the only safe description under which to buy plate if one expects to secure genuine examples of the old process.

Social Progress.

"Have you interested yourself in any social problems?" asked the man of severe ideals.
"Yes," replied the tractable man.
"Thanks to my wife, I now almost know how to keep score in a bridge game."—Washington Star.
