NATIONAL PREPAREDNESS

The question of military training in our public schools is gaining favor throughout the country and will be more and more a question of expediency as the people come to realize that if we are to maintain a nation in the first rank of nations we must have a militia large enough to defend or maintain it.

Some high schools throughout the country are installing military training for those who desire to take it. As yet it has not become compulsory and being popular compulsion is hardly necessary.

We take great pride in our public school system and willingly support our schools because we realize that education is essential to good citizenship, especially in a republican form of government, but there is one form of education that has been rather neglected and that is the kind that teaches us how to defend our country against invasion by a foreign foe. The old saying that "in time of peace prepare for war" is as applicable now as it was years ago. Any nation which leaves out of its curriculum an education in military tactics invites trouble from foreign foes.

Leaving out the question of national defense there still remains good and sufficient reason for military training in our schools. Anyone who has had military training will testify that the drill required is conducive to good health and will change the awkward boy into a graceful young man. It will fill out the hollow chest, straighten the shoulders and change the shambling gait to one of ease and grace. It, in fact, does for the body what education does for the mind and should be a part of all educational programs.

We hope that the time is not far distant when every high school will arrange its curriculum so that some time may be devoted to military training.

The Beaverton officials are going after the water problem in a business like way, and all taxpayers will uphold them in their effort to compel all water users to pay up promptly. There is also an effort being made to stop unnecessary waste in the use of water. The city ordinance is liberal enough in the use of water and every citizen may have enough water for all legitimate purposes but the wanton waste of it works a hardship upon the taxpayers. If those who were in the habit of misusing their rights were made to pay for it, the city water bill would be considerably lessened.

The Beaverton Times office has been moved into the Fisher block, on the ground floor, where our friends may find us at home during reasonable hours. We trust no one will hesitate to call on us for we are anxious to meet all our subscribers and become better acquainted. We are launching a live campaign for a larger subscription list as well as more business for our advertisers and expect the coming year to be one of mutual profit and pleasure to us all.

It looks now like a reunited republican party, stronger and better than ever. Sometimes a little refining fire is a mighty good thing.

President Wilson will take the stump in defense of his policies and Bryan threatens to follow him up on his own little hobby horse, "peace at any price."

If any one thinks we are not going to be a live issue let him here and now take heed.

Ford may come and Ford may go but the war goes on just the same.
