After a much appreciated change in the weather, and a long, bright night of Mother Earth, the landscape is again clad in a vestal robe of white. The snow began falling early in the evening Monday and continued long enough into the night to cover the ground with about two inches of white.

Numerous loads of hay are being taken through town these days. Good clover hay is reported as selling for $14 to $15 per ton and timothy around the $20 mark. The hay crop was rather short on many of the farms this year and many stock raisers and farmers are compelled to buy their hay for the remainder of the winter.

Mr. L. B. Snyder who is selling Maxwell automobiles, is a very prominent figure at the automobile show in Portland this week. He endeavored to convince the editor that the Maxwell car really sported a carburetor. When he finished with us we were of the same opinion, but after giving the proposition much thought, and losing much sleep over it, we don't know.

We received a letter at this office addressed to the Beaverton Times in which the writer states that he was told the Times Editor was a dead one! Furthermore, he states, "I should like to buy this plant as I know there is opportunity for a live one." Now the thing which the Times Office cannot get fixed in their minds is this. Who says the Times Editor is dead? It is our express desire to meet the man or group of men who are spreading these dastardly stories abroad. There is only one way to stop this terrible gossip and that is to have the principals publicly guillotined or shot at sunrise.

Report comes to this office of the death of Mrs. Rosanna Anderson, wife of J. A. Anderson a pioneer of Washington county and an old time resident of Beaverton. Mrs. Anderson died at the home of her daughter Mrs. J. T. Davis of Beaverton, Oregon. The remains were brought to Portland and interred in the River View cemetery. Mrs. Anderson was the mother of Ed Anderson, who for a number of years was a partner of F. W. Cady in the general merchandise store of Cady and Anderson. Besides Ed there were five other children in the family. Mrs. J. T. Davis of Beaverton, Mrs. Armstrong of Hemlock, L. H. Alberts of Jefferson, Mrs. Mel Houtt of Forest Grove and Mrs. Perry Fordney of Portland.

The audit of the city business for the past 4 years by Mr. Crandall has been completed. The length of the report forbids publication in its entirety but these are some of the things uncovered.

William P. Scott, an old-time painter well known throughout the Northwest and especially in Portland, died last week at Beaverton, Or., where for the last two years he had been employed as compositor on the Beaverton Times. He was 71 years old, and his death, it is believed, was due to chronic lead poisoning.

Before the linotype came into use in the West 30 years ago, Mr. Scott held a case for years on The Morning Oregonian. He was a member of Metropolitan Typographical Union No. 58. Mr. Scott was deaf and he was affectionately known as "Dummy" Scott among his friends and co-workers. He had a wife and daughter. -Oregonian.

Coal was first noted in the Coos Bay region, Oregon, about 60 years ago. Prof. S. Newberry having reported in 1851 that the coal deposits of Coos Bay had begun to attract attention.

The first cargo was shipped from the Empire Basin, but the discovery of coal near the head of Coos Bay soon transferred the point of production to Newport, which remained the principal mine until within the last decade, since the Beaver Hill mine has been more successfully managed and become the chief producer. The first record of coal production is contained in the census report of 1850, when 42,000 short tons were mined.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, neither can the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarhal deafness is caused by an impaired condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be removed and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Write to Chas. C. Chase, Circulars free. All through the country.

The first settlement on the present site of San Francisco dates from 1776. It consisted of a Spanish military post (presidio) and the Franciscan mission of San Francisco de Asis. In 1836 the settlement of Yerba Buena was established in a little cove southeast of Telegraph Hill.

The name San Francisco was however applied to all three settlements. The United States flag was raised over the town in 1846, and the population rapidly increased, reaching perhaps 900 in May, 1848. The news of the gold discoveries was followed by crowds of fortune seekers, so that by the end of 1849 the city had an estimated population of 20,000. From that time on San Francisco has grown rapidly. The first regular overland mail communication with the East was established by pony express in 1860, the charge for postage being 42 for half an ounce. In 1869 the completion of the Central Pacific Railway to Oakland marked the beginning of transcontinental railway communication.
