HEAR WITHOUT EARS
 Police and Detectives Are Using Lip Reading in Place of the Dictagraph.

Thousands of deaf people are today throwing away all hearing devices and enjoying all conversation. This method is easily and quickly acquired through our system. Absolutely the only thing of its kind in the country. Our proposition is entirely original. We guarantee results, or will refund. Cost is trifling. See what new New International Encyclopedia says on Lip Reading. Hundreds of people with normal hearing are taking up Lip Reading with for the many additional benefits gained. You can understand what the actors are saying in the moving pictures. You can understand what people are saying just as far away as you can see them. The eye understands beyond the range of hearing. Send no money, but mention this paper and state whether or not you are deaf. All particulars will be sent to you absolutely free and with no expense to you. Address: School of Lip Language, Kansas City, Missouri. (Pd Adv)

STRONG MEN NEEDED.
 It is to be hoped that Multnomah county will send a good representative delegation to the legislature this year. Such matters have usually been allowed to go by the board. The places have been filled by self seekers and lawyers who too often represented special interests or sought special legislation that was not always in the interest of the public.

This year the representation should be general. If there is need of lawyers they should have their proportion of representatives but no more. Every class and interest should receive due recognition and get its representation in the legislature. At the same time it should be recognized that the need is for strong men who know what they want and the delegation should be united to get it. Multnomah county rarely gets what it is entitled to for two reasons, first because it is a divided delegation and secondly because of the united front of the combination against it. This year should prove an exception to the rule.—Telegram editorial April 4.

Not only Multnomah county but Washington county and every other county in the state should bring out their best men and elect them, and then not send them to the legislature with the idea that they must fight the whole state. The trouble heretofore has not been that the other counties have united against Multnomah but that Multnomah county has combined with other counties to further her own interests as against the interests of the state at large.

When there is a powerful organization there is then too much of a spirit of "You scratch my back and I will scratch yours," for the best interests of the taxpayers.

CAMPAIGN ARGUMENT.
 When a candidate tells you that one of his opponents is making a poor run and has no show to be elected, mark it down that it is told for a purpose and the reason is plain. No one would use such argument unless he considered that the candidate referred to was looked upon as a likely winner.

This argument is being used against Mr. Applegate, candidate for sheriff and a likely and deserving winner. If Mr. Applegate was really a weak candidate there should be no reason for such argument but as a matter of fact he is looked upon as a pretty sure winner.

We have no hesitancy in announcing our preference for Mr. Applegate. He has been an accommodating and painstaking deputy. He knows all the ins and outs of the office and is in a position to serve the taxpayers economically and efficiently. He has had the small end of the pay check and now deserves the other end for a while. If his ability is such as to deserve a deputyship under two sheriffs he is deserving of and should be entitled to the nomination for that office.

How would it seem for a change if every member of the legislature was elected upon a promise to pass no new laws except appropriations absolutely necessary for the running expenses of our state institutions.

A Chance for Local Talent.
 We are in receipt of a letter from J. H. Mulchay telling of the chances for live, wideawake boys, to do a little outside work under the best of circumstances, and for good remuneration. There is nothing in the world so good for a boy and his development as to earn the money he spends. It makes him more self-reliant and brings him in touch with the great outside world in which he must some day seek a livelihood either great or small, depending mostly upon the ambitions of the youth. We quote Mr. Mulchay in part:

"I do not know of anything that is better for young boys than serving in the capacity of caddy on the golf course—they come in contact with nice people, the work is not difficult and they are out in the open, in fact they are being paid for what is good exercise. Certainly it would serve to keep particularly some of the idle ones out of mischief. The more I have thought of this the more I am impressed with the idea that the boys around Beaverton should take advantage of this opportunity and combine pleasure, exercise and financial return, and I think it is an item of interest in the community that you might well give a little space to in the next issue of your paper.

Further, I believe the golf course is going to be of benefit to us in that it will be an incentive to take the people over the hill and see what we have west of Portland."

There is a chance for numerous local boys to earn good wages for at least one day in every week, and the boy who is always on hand will, no doubt find himself the possessor of considerable pocket money at the end of each seventh day. Several boys have already acted upon the suggestion of this office and are now reaping the benefits. Mr. Mulchay has stated that $1.00 to $1.50 per day can be earned.

These positions have been filled, although only partially, by boys brought out from Portland, but, in all probabilities, the local youth will stand just as good a chance, and with a little effort he can soon have the preference.

TRADE AT HOME.
 Trade at home. Why? Because this is the place where your taxes are paid. Because this is the place where you live, and this is where your interest centers. Lastly, because the home merchant can sell the same class of goods, at the same price that the man in the city asks.

Then why trade away from home? Ten to one the man who raises his voice above the multitude and makes a loud noise about the other fellows town being the best, is the man who spends all his time and money buying money orders to help the mail order house pay tax and build up the other fellows city; or perhaps he is paying out good money for a ticket on the railroad so that he can go to the other fellows town and buy his supplies, which cost him just as much, when he gets done, as they would at home—he has paid the price plus car fare and time, and generally plus the freight charges beside waiting two or three weeks for the stuff to arrive.

What has he gained? Nothing. But he has spent money in a place where it will never return, except to help the other fellow build up his town. Try trading at home and if you can not get the desired results then you are at liberty to go elsewhere.

BALDHEADS vs MO(R)EHAIR
 The Oregon Voter seems to have observed that the "bald head" is handicapped in the race for office because of the antipathy of the gentler sex for that class of animals. Then why is it that "their friends keep urging them to run for office?" Then again why is it that so many women have husbands with shining pates? We will hope that Mr. Chapman's observations are wrong and that the women are not so frivolous as he would have us believe.

L. A. Fernsworth.
 L. A. Fernsworth, of Banks, publisher of The Banks Herald and The Cornellus Tribune, has announced himself as candidate for state representative from Washington county.

Mr. Fernsworth will have been in the county nearly four years by the time of the next legislative session, and he has taken an active part in the discussion of matters of state and county economy. He has had nearly 10 years' newspaper experience in Oakland, San Francisco, Sacramento and Portland, and was a member of the Oregonian reporterial staff. Through his newspaper experience at Sacramento and Salem he has had unusual opportunities to familiarize himself with methods of lawmaking.

Last year he was chairman of the legislative committee of the state editorial association, and his statement of principles is along the lines advocated by the state association. His slogan is "Uncompromising economy, clean-cut, fewer laws, and the public interests ahead of politics."

His statement of principles says: "Four distinct tendencies of legislation constitute a danger to the well being of the state. I shall oppose them.

"They are: Unnecessary restriction of the freedom of the people; the ever-increasing burden of taxation created by multiplying expenditures out of proportion to the increase in wealth and actual needs; a multiplicity of laws, frivolous and conflicting, which only bring the law into disrepute; laws hampering and restricting, instead of encouraging capital and development."

Industrial Notes.
 Baker—New railroad proposed between here and Pine and Eagle Valley.
 Petitions are to be circulated for $370,000 road bonds in Coos county.
 Prineville votes $100,000 bond issue to start railroad to connect with Oregon Trunk line near Redmond.
 Myrtle Creek man has invented engine to run by air instead of gasoline.
 Halsey ships ton of eggs in a day to outside markets.
 Lebanon paper mill running full time with full force, first time in months.
 Roseburg will regulate jitneys, will charge license fee and require $2000 bond.
 Echo will have sheep shearing plant to handle 5000 sheep daily.
 Farm products shipped from Baker, Haines, and North Powder for 1915 were worth $793,200.

Corvallis—Three churches will be built here this summer.
 Oregon City—Due to enlargement of Halsey paper mill trade expands, buildings vacant for months now full and new stores start. All the result of enlargement of one industry. This is certainly a striking illustration of what payrolls mean for a community. If politicians would spend their time encouraging instead of discouraging a few industries, how much better off we would all be.
 Improvement in lumber business helps all lines of trade in northwest.
 The first train over the Willamette from Eugene to Co's Bay was greeted with enthusiasm at all points. It took nearly to put $11,000,000 into this enterprise during the past three years of depressed business conditions.
