

BEAVERTON TIMES

VOL. IV.

BEAVERTON, WASHINGTON COUNTY, OREGON, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1916.

NO. 24

WHAT BEAVERTON HIGH OFFERS

The Beaverton High School is now offering courses conforming to the law for standard high schools of Oregon. All courses are really elective, except English, and history and civics in the senior year. All students must take at least three years of English for this is considered fundamental for any line of activity a student may wish to pursue after leaving school.

The course offered is considered a well balanced one and in conformity with the tendency and demands of the time. No frills or fads are offered. Below the high school course as now given is presented:

First year—English, Algebra, General History, Bookkeeping, Physical Geography.

Second year—English, Algebra one-half, and Geometry one-half; General History, Physiology one-half, Botany one-half.

Third year—English Geometry one-half and Arithmetic one-half; Physics, German, Penmanship.

Fourth year—English, History and Civics, Chemistry, German optional.

Manual work is given a half day every Friday. None excused from this.

Pupils are expected to carry four studies each year, but special permission must be obtained from the faculty to carry more studies besides the regular manual work once per week.

Penmanship may be taken in any one year, and also some other subjects may be taken any year when the sequence of the subject is not essential; but subjects like the mathematics must be taken as presented in the foregoing curriculum.

The course of study is so proportioned that it fits the greatest demand. A pupil may major in English, mathematics, science, history, taking each three years, or get two and one-half years of commercial work. Here bookkeeping is a prerequisite for commercial arithmetic.

To save the expense of hiring a third teacher in the high school, the alternating plan of presenting some subjects is used. For example, Ancient History is given one year, Medieval and modern history the next; beginning German is given one year, and second year German the next, etc.

In this way, every pupil has the opportunity of getting any subject he wishes, while the number of classes each day is reduced five or six, thus dispensing with extra teaching force. By this plan, three classes in English, three classes in mathematics, two in history, two in science, one in bookkeeping, one in German, one in penmanship, and one in optional subject makes fourteen classes to be given daily. While only fifteen credits are required for graduation, it is possible for a student to earn 18-20 credits in the school, but this can scarcely be done in four years. In other words, the school is offering four and one-half credits in excess of graduation requirements. Of the fifteen credits required for graduation, eleven of these must be academic subjects, and four may be industrial ones. The plan as outlined above presents the maximum of subjects and advantages to the pupil with the minimum of teachers and expense to the district, for by this plan about $700 per year is saved to the district.

Graduates of the Beaverton high school are admitted to any state institution of learning in Oregon or to any college in the state without examination. Beaverton appears in the list of standard high schools in the catalogue of the University of Oregon.

The new Beaverton high school building is one of the best high school buildings west of Portland. It has an extra good auditorium whose capacity may easily be increased thirty per cent by opening accordion doors. English and language room, mathematics room; science laboratories, (physical sciences) domestic art, domestic science, and manual training laboratories; history and civics room; library well situated with splendid list of books especially selected for high school work besides the new International encyclopedia, and new dictionaries; plenty of well selected physical apparatus for the physical laboratories; a splendid equipment of manual training tools and benches for boys, and domestic science and art equipment for the girls. Besides this, the spacious gymnasium the best in the county can take care of the physical welfare of the youth who attend. In close proximity with the auditorium are shower bath facilities for those who wish. The building is modern in every respect, and admirably arranged for the uses intended. The school has a well selected course of study; and an experienced faculty who can present this course properly.

The attendance of young men and women within reasonable distance of Beaverton is solicited this year. This is the only standard high school in this part of the county offering so many advantages to prospective students.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Zimmerman accompanied by friends enjoyed an outing in the foot hills if the Cascades the first part of the week.

Mrs. Chas. Craig and children are at Ashland visiting. She expects to be gone some time. Charley may have a lean and hungry look before her return.

Miss Oma Emmons came home from the hospital last week Thursday. Miss Oma has suffered a great deal as a result of the broken bones of the shoulder not healing satisfactorily. It has been necessary to perform two operations to put the fractured bones in place, but now it is hoped that she will soon recover.

The contract for the new parsonage is expected to be let within a week.

The school houses are being overhauled and cleaned preparatory to taking up of school.

The threshing around this vicinity is well under way and the yield has somewhat exceeded expectations and is all of good quality. Oats run from 80 to 90 bushels and wheat from 80 to 81 bushels per acre. All ensilage corn looks good as does other feed for dairy cows. The outlook is very promising along the feed line.

Mr. James Hoops left Tuesday morning for Oregon City where he joins his brother John and some friends for a hike to the head waters of the Molalla to hunt and fish and otherwise enjoy the quiet of the mountains. Jimmie believes in peace but nevertheless he was prepared to war upon the game and here's hoping that he retains his reputation as a successful hunter.

A party consisting of Warren and Archie Ferguson, Will Campbell, Gayhart Classen and Charles Essex spent a few days at Meadow Lake, Yamhill county, the fore part of the week. They claim they went fishing but were compelled to subsist on Crawfish and for once our illustrious fisherman, Billy Campbell, did not have the goods to show. They all returned Monday evening but Charles who was last seen astride a log in the lake trying to get rid of two salmon eggs. He hasn't returned yet and it is presumed that he is still fishing.
