CHANGES.

When the new publisher of The Beaverton Times decided to continue the publication of the paper as his own venture after being associated with the people of Beaverton for several weeks as an employee of the former publisher, it was with a feeling of confidence in the future of the town, of faith in the worth of its people and of hope in his ability to be of such service to the town and its people that they would be glad that he came. We have ambitions for ourselves, but these are secondary to our ambitions for the town in which we are to make our home. Beaverton has good schools; but we want to help make them better schools. There are some good roads leading to Beaverton, but there are not enough of them and we hope to be helpful in increasing the number and improving the quality of these very necessary elements in the progress of the community and the prosperity of farmer and townsman alike.

The interests of the various communities in the valley are mutual and almost identical and it shall be the purpose of this paper to further a spirit of co-operation among these communities, the worth of which has been so graphically shown by the successful campaign recently carried out for the location of the Pacific Highway through this part of the county.

Highways are not the only things worth striving for and not by any means the only valuable assets which co-operative effort will secure.

On another page will be found the announcement that this paper will appear next week as a twice-a-week publication. The announcement goes on to state that this innovation is in the nature of an experiment and its continuance will depend upon the reception it is accorded by the readers. Expressions are invited and upon these expressions will depend largely the continuation of the twice-a-week feature. Do you like it? Do you want your local news oftener than once a week? If you do, please remember that one of the most acceptable ways in which you can express that approval is to see that the news items which come under your observation reach us promptly. Will you help to make this paper what you want it to be? Will you make it your personal business to see that the things you want to see in the paper reach us in time for publication? This is your paper and what it is depends largely upon you. This is your county—your community—and what county and community are will depend altogether upon the people who live therein. What outsiders think of county and community will depend largely upon the class of newspapers published therein, for the newspaper is the most widely distributed representative of the community.

The new publisher of the Beaverton Times asks your co-operation in making this the most widely read and most thoroughly representative newspaper to be found in the smaller cities of the state, not so much from selfish motives of personal gain as from the good that it will do for this part of Washington County and incidentally to each one of us individually.

Beaverton people should not overlook the opportunity afforded them to support the budget for the county road expenditures to be discussed at the courthouse in Hillsboro tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Beaverton has enjoyed the fairest treatment that any community could ask at the hands of the county court in the road matter and no resident of this vicinity or any of those of our neighbors who are in any manner interested in the establishment of the highway, should let anything stand in the way of attendance at the budget meeting tomorrow morning.

The members of the court should not be permitted to feel that there is any lack of interest on the part of the residents of this part of the county. This is a meeting called for the benefit of the taxpayers and residents of the county and those who are interested in the establishment and construction of the highway should be foremost in attendance at the budget discussion.

J. Frank Stroud and W. C. McKell have been boosting for attendance at this meeting, but if they haven't asked you it is not because they don't want you to attend. And besides, it's as much your meeting as theirs, anyway.

By appointment through Gov. Withycombe, all members of the bar of Washington county have recently been made associate members of the local legal advisory board. Registrants may therefore feel free to at any time call upon any lawyer of Washington county for information with respect to the selective draft act, and assistance will be rendered by the attorneys without compensation. Beginning with the 15th of this month there will be one or more attorneys present throughout the entire day, and for a period of thirty days, at the office of the sheriff, for the purpose of rendering assistance to registrants in filling out their questionnaires.

The local legal advisory board consists of John M. Wall, Thos. H. Tongue, Jr., and Wm. G. Hara. The following associate members have been selected:

Geo. R. Bagley, E. B. Tongue, M. B. Bump, D. D. Bump, E. L. Perkins, Benton Bowman, H. T. Bagley, R. A. Im-lay, E. J. McAlear, R. F. Peters, W. D. Smith, Edward C. Luce, all of Hills-boro, Oregon; D. D. Hall, of Sherwood, Oregon; L. M. Graham, Manche Lang-ley, W. P. Dyke, J. M. Hoffman, W. H. Hollis, Roy E. Bigham all of Forest Grove, Oregon.

RURAL CARRIER EXAMINATION.

The examination will be open only to male citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of a post office in the county and who meet the other requirements set forth in Form No. 1977. This form and application blanks may be obtained from the offices mentioned above or from the United States Civil Service commission at Washington, D. C. G. W. Baker came into town last evening with samples of oats grown on a ten acre tract in Fruitful Land, now known as Sorrento, which he secured not long ago from J. T. Melloy. The oats were sown with vetch and produced an excellent crop of hay, showing the value of early seeding as this crop was sown in February. The oats were slightly over 5 1/2 feet tall. As Mr. Baker has two tracts, he left the oats in the office of Stroud & Tucker who will offer the tract for sale. Mr. Baker also has the thanks of this office for some fine apples as we have seen this season. Mr. Baker has several bushels of them left.

Jacob Jenne of Cedar Mills was in town Thursday for feed. He reports everything in first-class shape in his section of the country.

ELMONICA NEWS.

Miss Ella McLeod was in Beaverton today for a short stay. She says there is no sign of the highway yet, and the streets are as muddy as ever.

Rickard Donovan is in the aviation corps at Vancouver. He has two brothers in the army.

It is reported that the Barnes school pupils intend to hold their Christmas program at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. It is not yet known whether the churches will hold their programs at the same time, but if they should do so it will disappoint several people as many of the pupils are on both church and school programs.

Mr. and Mrs. John Trachsel and children visited with Santa Claus in Portland Wednesday. This neighborhood is visited very frequently now by people looking for Christmas trees.

A number of commuters were late to work last week owing to a tree falling across the high tension wires of the Oregon Electric. The power had to be shut off as the tree was large and it took quite a time to clear the track so trains could proceed.

The four schoolboys who attended the Beaverton schools have quite a time wading through the mud to the train so early these mornings.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Keehn expect their daughter, Elizabeth, home for the Christmas holiday. She expects to arrive Sunday evening.

Mrs. Albert Brant has been confined to her bed lately on account of a severe illness.

Mr. Hoisheimer paid a visit to Fort Stevens to see his son Philip. Needless to say, they were both pleased.

Safety First.

The teacher wrote on the board the following: "Don't light matches; remember the Chicago fire." Little Willie erased it and wrote in place: "Don't spit; remember the Johnstown flood."

Some of the chickens are beginning to lay now. It has been a long molting season.

Many flowers and berries are picked for wreaths and decorations. It is said that the snow-berry and the Oregon Grape make a fine combination. There are quite a number of wild plants and berries that are poisonous.

The farmers and old-timers are predicting snow before New Years. A let has been made that here will be an average of an inch of snow on the ground before January first.

Merry peals of delighted laughter in the smoker of the train the other night attracted the attention of fellow passengers to two men who had undoubtedly met after a long separation. One proved to be County Clerk H.A. Kuratli and the other a lifelong friend. The happiness of both was contagious and a number of gleeful reminiscences of the "good old days" of the "Bethany Cornet Band" were overheard and enjoyed.

Elmonica community extends Christmas greetings to all readers of The Times.

Want a Watch Dog?

Want to buy a good watch dog? D. Rigetto has a big red dog that he gave ten dollars for when it was just a puppy. It is now 14 months old, but he doesn't need a watch dog any longer. So make him an offer and take the dog.

You can do a little bit every day, at every meal, to help win the war. Waste none, and remember to conserve the meat, wheat, fats and sugar.

C. B. Buchanan of Hillsboro was in Beaverton Wednesday evening to see if he had anything left in the warehouse of Buchanan & Co., presided over by Jacob Stroud. He found that Mr. Stroud is living up to his reputation as a salesman just the same this season and that foodstuffs are being hauled out just about as fast as they can be shipped in. Mr. Buchanan is one of Washington County's live businessmen and we are always glad to see him in Beaverton.
