WASHINGTON COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

Public School News.

Messrs. Davis, Pike and Hocken, school directors, did a fine thing for Beaverton when they had the hot lunch system established in our schools last fall. With a warm dinner every day, the lit folk feel fine this winter and study better than ever before.

Miss Cecil Smith, a former student, was a welcome visitor last week.

The girls organized a basket ball team Tuesday evening. Miss Sylvia Arnold was chosen captain and Miss Hazel Barnes was elected treasurer. Practice will be in the high school gym Thursday afternoons at 8:40.

The Public School Library has been overhauled, re-indexed and books properly catalogued. Misses Velma Davies, Crete Gray, Marian Jones, Noreen Nelson, Dorothy Davis and Ruth Jones are our efficient librarians. From now on the library will be run on an up-to-date plan.

Marion Fry brought the first bouquet of pussy willows of 1918 to school Monday. Spring is here.

The second oratorical contest will be staged next week. From present indications this will be one of the big events of the term. Medals and prizes await the winners.

A novel experiment was carried out last week by the seventh grade geography class. To determine the destination of the swift currents of the Willamette River, a roster of all the names of the seventh and eighth grade students was drawn up, properly signed and later placed in a bottle and thrown off the Hawthorne bridge in Portland. Three pennies were enclosed for the finder to write and tell us when and where the bottle is picked up. Here is hoping a "bon voyage."

Any boy or girl having trouble with arithmetic ought to attend

Beaverton school. We have the greatest system in mathematics in the state. Come and see how things go in the speed tests. The tables, 2's to 20's, "lightning addition," and a new method for measuring lumber that makes the "carpenter's smile." Arithmetic is the foundation of a business career. Come to Beaverton school. You will like our system.

Last Friday Clare and Elsie Schaffner started for school. They glanced down the road and saw a coyote coming for them, so they ran home. Mr. Schaffner came out and found that the East Mountain Night Musician was a pet coyote belonging to Dom Leis which had broken its chain during the night. But the girls do not like these Little Red Riding Hood experiences very well.

EN LOADING SHELLS FOR THE ALLIES

Two women at Lisbon loading a vessel with shells for shipment to the Allies, which weigh about 90 pounds each, are made in the factories of Portugal.

Every week we receive hundreds of kind words. We did not expect them when we came and hence we appreciate them at their highest worth. Life is never so sweet as when we are praised. But it must have occurred to you that we cannot live on kind words any more than the farmer, the merchant, or the butcher can do so. Somebody is paying for this paper. Somebody puts up for the ink and the type and the machinery to publish the paper which you praise and appreciate.

Now all this impertinent preamble is by way of suggesting two things: first, that there are many of our readers who are profitably using the want ads in this paper and that there are many more who could profitably do so, thus not only adding to their own income but to ours as well and thereby insuring a better paper than the one you are now getting. Make this paper the market-place for your needs and your surplus and needless articles of value and you will reap a double harvest by so doing. The other suggestion is this: we receive a great surplus of news and contributions from our readers late Thursday afternoon with the result that a number of contributors are disappointed at not seeing their articles in print. But on Tuesday morning when we start in to set up the paper, we have the hardest kind of time to find anything to write about. Now, if you want to help this paper, if you want to boost it along and have it one of the factors for the upbuilding of Beaverton, use the paper for every purpose to which it can be put and think of it when you see news items early in the week. We can handle all the news of this locality every week if we get the news that happens in the early part of the week as soon as it happens.

And lastly, but not least, patronize our advertisers that they may profit by supporting this paper and tell them about it that they may know that they profit.
