Yes, it pays to sort potatoes. It is well nigh imperative that such be done if a market is to be found at all, while the government regulations make life miserable for the fellow who happens to load a car with too many culls therein. Ed. J. Boring has just learned this to his sorrow, for he loaded a car Saturday and then had to resort to the entire car for the government inspector wouldn't pass it and the railroads would not pick up the car without this little formality.
Yes, it pays to sort the spuds—pays from a market standpoint, pays from an immediate dollars and cents point of view, pays from the angle of future markets for Beaverton's product and pays for the interests of the town, for we now have the starch factory to furnish a profitable market for the culls, while the better price and less freight for the marketable potatoes will more than take care of the cost of sorting.

The immediate case which prompts these remarks was that of a car of potatoes bought for W. S. Hearst & Co. of Portland, in this locality by Mr. Boring and turned down by the State Inspector because they were below grade. They were not inferior potatoes. They simply were lacking in uniformity and could not be classed in any one grade.

This brings up the question of grading. The Public Service Commission's order for the grading of potatoes became effective the 15th of last month. It is comprehensive and defines three grades of potatoes of marketable quality and the seed variety.

Every grower and shipper of potatoes should thoroughly familiarize himself with these grades and be able to take advantage of the favorable location and excellent shipping facilities afforded here and the home market for culls afforded by the starch factory and make Beaverton a foremost source of supply for quality potatoes.

Good Things for Beaverton

We don't know just why in the great nation-wide campaign for prohibition that a man of such wonderful eloquence and international prominence as Lewis Albert Banks should be assigned to Beaverton but we do know that we are going to show our appreciation by packing the high school auditorium Sunday afternoon Feb. 17, to its utmost capacity.

Charles Parkhurst says of him: "He is fearless as a reformer, having been shot down by the infuriated saloonist, mobbed by the anti-Chinese rioters * * * always willing to imperil his life in defense of the oppressed."
He is a man for the hour in the church for the times.

JUST RECEIVED—A large shipment of Fresh Chocolates and Candies. We are serving Ice Cream again. To those who wish a nice Sunday Dessert we can offer Ice Cream Bricks, if the order is given to us Saturday. It comes to us Sunday morning in splendid shape for Sunday dinner.
Come in next Saturday and give us a trial order.

NEED BIG HERDS

Europe's Meat Supply Must Come From America.

Warring Nations Have Depleted Live Stock at Enormous Rate, Even Killing Dairy Cattle For Food.

American stock breeders are being asked to conserve their flocks and herds in order to meet Europe's tremendous demands for meats during the war and probably for many years afterward.
The United States food administration reports that American stock raisers have shown a disposition to co-operate with the government in increasing the nation's supply of live stock.

Germany today is probably better supplied with live stock than any other European nation. When the German armies made their big advance into France and then retreated virtually all the cattle in the invaded territory—approximately 1,800,000 head—were driven behind the German lines.

But in England—where 2,400,000 acres of pasture lands have been turned into grain fields—the cattle herds are decreasing rapidly. One of the reasons apparently is the declining maximum price scale adopted by the English as follows: For September, $17.75 per 100 pounds; October, $17.25; November and December, $16.08; January, $14.40. The effect of these prices was to drive beef animals on the market as soon as possible.

In France the number of cattle as well as the quality have shown an enormous decline during the war. Where France had 14,807,000 head of cattle in 1913, she now has only 12,541,000, a decrease of 15.6 per cent. And France is today producing only one gallon of milk compared to two and one-half gallons before the war.
Denmark and Holland have been forced to sacrifice dairy herds for beef because of the lack of necessary feed.
Close study of the European meat situation has convinced the Food Administration that the future problem of America lies largely in the production of meat producing animals and dairy products rather than in the production of cereals for export when the war will have ceased.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT HELPS PAY FOR BREAD

There has been much misunderstanding about the bread program in England. It is true that the Englishman buys a loaf of bread for less than an American can, but it is poorer bread, and the British government is paying $200,000,000 a year toward the cost of it.

All the grain grown in Great Britain is taken over by the government at an arbitrary price and the imported wheat purchased on the markets at the prevailing market price. This is turned over to the mills by the government at a price that allows the adulterated war bread loaf of four pounds to sell at 15 cents, the two pound loaf at 9 cents and the one pound loaf at 5 cents.

MAKING MEATLESS DAYS PERMANENT.

In the meatless menu there is a fertile field for developing new and nourishing dishes, according to E. H. Niles, writing in the Hotel Gazette, who believes that the present shortage of meat and fats will not end with the coming of peace, but may grow more acute and continue for five or six years, thus making it worth while to develop menus of grain, vegetables and fish on a more or less permanent basis. Meat can be replaced by cereals and other protein foods, or may be served in very small portions as a flavoring for other food. In making up meatless menus this author finds our American Creole and southern cuisines a broad field for investigation.

STARVING SYRIANS AND ARMENIANS CRY FOR ASSISTANCE: BEAVERTON PEOPLE MUST AID OR THEY PERISH

The suffering hordes in the empire of the Sultan are appealing to the people of Beaverton through the medium of the Armenian relief work and have enlisted the aid of six Beaverton's fairest and most accomplished young ladies in this mission of humanity. M. McDonald of Orengo is county chairman of this relief work and he has named W. E. Pegg as chairman for this vicinity and told him to raise $250. Now you might think that because Mr. McDonald selected an undertaker to lead the effort here that the issue is a dead one, but it is proving very much alive. Just witness what has been done already.

The very first thing Mr. Pegg did was to enlist the support of J. Frank Stroud and anyone who gets the support of Mr. Stroud must have the liveliest kind of an issue. Here is proof that such is the effort to raise $250 for the starving Armenian and Syrians.

These two live hustlers got their heads together and the result is that you will be asked to save a life by the most charming and enthusiastic young ladies in the community and if you have the heart to refuse aid to the 2,500,000 naked, starving people who have been rendered destitute by the unspeakable ally of the Kaiser it will be because you are either hard and soul in sympathy with the enemies of America or are so hardened and calloused by the bitterness of war that you have lost all sympathy for suffering humanity and can turn a deaf ear to the appeals of youth, the charm of beauty and the logic of cold reasoning.

For here is the committee who have the work in hand: W. E. Pegg, chairman; J. Frank Stroud, assistant; and Misses Edna Hocken, Alva Williams, Margaret Lewis, Velma Norris, Vivian O'Connor and Margaret Fitzpatrick serving as committee.

Considering that the appeal is for only $250 from Beaverton, just one dollar per family to save the lives of the only Christians in the empire of the Sultan, if you can withstand the enthusiasm of J. Frank Stroud, the calm logic and dry humor of W. E. Pegg and the ardor, beauty and charm of these six young ladies, you are a hopeless case, a fit ally for the Kaiser, a suitable companion for the unspeakable Turk.

Now the easiest and best way out of it when you see them at your door is to make up your mind to give liberally as you have prospered and take just a little of their time as possible, for the longer they have to talk for it the more they expect of you.

There is just one better plan: that is to drop down to the bank or to go direct to the chairman and make your contribution freely. Then you can get off for a dollar, whereas if you wait you may be asked for an extra half dollar to make up for the fellow who needs help himself and could give only half a dollar.

Yes, the Armenian and Syrian relief campaign in Beaverton is going to be a success.

Mrs. T. J. Hannigan returned home to San Francisco Saturday after spending a week with her daughter, Mrs. B. A. Rohse. The visit was a complete and delightful surprise to Mrs. Rohse.

Now
That the holidays are over, let me call your attention to those photographs which you intended to have taken before Christmas. I am prepared to do the work now better than ever.
