HOW TO CAN THE COCKEREL IS TOLD BY COLLEGE EXPERTS

Meat May be Packed Either After or Before Cooking, Then Sterilized and Sealed.

Time-table for canning chicken—
Water bath, 3½ hours
5-pound pressure cooker, 2½ hours
10-pound pressure cooker, 1 hour

O. A. C., Corvallis, June 12.—Here is how lots of Oregon people are canning chicken during the "Can the cockerel" campaign, as recommended by the College home economics specialists:

Draw the fowl soon after it is killed, wash carefully and cool then cut into convenient sections. Can by either of these methods.

1—Place meat in wire basket or cheese cloth and boil until meat readily parts from the bone; lift from boiling liquid and remove meat from bones; pack closely into sterilized jars; fill with hot liquid after it has been concentrated one-half, add level teaspoon salt per quart of meat; put rubber and cap in place lightly; sterilize as per time-table.

2—Sear meat in hot oven or hot fat in frying pan, and steam or simmer until it can be torn apart. Pack meat in jars, fill the space with stock and add a teaspoon of salt to each quart of meat. Sterilize according to time table.

3—Free meat from bone and cut into pieces to go into jar easily; pack raw meat into tested clean glass jars to within ¾ inch of top; add teaspoon salt to each quart of meat, but no water. Celery leaves, onion, pepper or other seasoning may be added. Sterilize according to time table.

A fowl weighing two pounds dressed should make a pint jar of solid meat and a pint of stock thick enough to jell.

Canning surplus cockerels saves feed, provides substitute for meatless meals next winter, and makes a convenient food for unexpected visitors.

Mrs. W. F. Poole of Wallowa, Oregon, reached Beaverton Sunday for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Leo Reed, and family. Mrs. Poole states that the season is very backward in Eastern Oregon and that many people have just begun planting gardens. Before returning home she will visit her mother, Mrs. A'llard, and her sister, Mrs. M. O. Potter, of Sherwood.

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Mason are the proud parents of a boy born Sunday morning.

Donald Hennesv, who has attended Christian Brothers' Business College the past winter, is working at the shipyards.

James I. Hoopes and T. A. Anker returned Tuesday from an extended auto trip through the southern part of the state and as far as Crescent City, Calif. A total of 920 miles was covered by way of Grants Pass, Crescent City, Curry County, Bandon and Corvallis. Mr. Hoopes is much pleased with the Port Orford district and may return there to locate.

Miss Ola Boyle is again third trick operator at the S. P. depot.

Prof. Phillips has accepted a position in the shipyards for the summer as a patriotic way of doing his bit to help win the war.

Freight rates will advance 25 per cent the 25 of this month.

Gerhardt Claussen was home over Sunday from Camp Lewis, where is a member of the medical corps, and attended the Honor Guard dance.

As there was not a quorum at the Parent-Teachers meeting last week there is another meeting called for Friday evening June 14 at the High School Auditorium.

F. L. Maass was a business visitor in Beaverton Wednesday. Mr. Maass is a brick and cement contractor and has decided to do the patriotic thing and help his neighbors through harvest.

The Scouts are in need of a room to meet in. If anybody has a vacant room he is willing to let them use, the Scouts would appreciate it very much.

Misses Alpha Williams, Fern Lindsay and Edna Hocken are new members recently added to the Beaverton Honor Guard.

The scouts have received their certificates for the new troop year.

FOR SALE—Gray mare, 8-years-old, weighs about 1,200 lbs., or will trade for good young cow. W. B. Emmons, Route 3, Box 6, Beaverton. 20tf.

Beach rates on rail lines have been advanced 20 per cent.

Mrs. P. M. E. Carstens was in Beaverton yesterday from her new home in Portland.

A large crowd, good music and spirit in accord with the purpose for which the event was given, made the Honor Guard Girls' dance Saturday night a decided success. About $60 was realized and half of that amount was added to the treasury for war work.

Mrs. Charles McElligott of Ione, who has been visiting here, will return home Monday, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. G. Holboke, who will make an indefinite visit in Eastern Oregon, and by Mr. and Mrs. Carlson of Ione who have been the guests of Mrs. Swan Pearson of Swedeville.

Committees serving for the dance to be given June 22 are: advertising; Margaret Fitzpatrick, Vena Gaskill, Violette Spraner; music, Jennie Fitzpatrick; floor; Ormo Emmons, Margaret Lewis, Sophia Holboke; punch; Lucile Jones, Goldie Vincent.

The Little Check

"You don't need to give me a very large check book," said a young lady who had just opened a bank account. "I will not write any large checks."

Of course that's just a joke but did you ever stop to think what a powerful thing a little check can become when properly filled out with your name at the bottom? It will buy your groceries, pay the business transactions, and safeguards your savings. It stimulates commercial confidence and signifies success. "The Check's the Thing."

$10.00 will start a checking account and we do not make any charge for this service. 4 per cent interest compounded semi-annually on Savings. Safe Deposit Boxes for Rent.
