

Corporal Elmer Stipe was at home Tuesday and Wednesday on a short furlough from the training camp at Benson Polytechnic in Portland. Elmer was one of seven favored ones of the 300 in the previous camp to be retained as instructors for the next training camp. The other members of the first camp have been assigned to cantonments in all parts of the country.

FORGER CAUGHT.

out Lieutenant Dean who deputized him for the purpose.

Thus armed with authority, and assisted by Pete Vandehey, he sought the room of the fugitive. But Brown had heard of the bustle in town. It was too early and too suppressed to fool him. As the sleuths approached his door he made a get-away by way of the second story window. But the broken arm which he had sustained at a previous time hung heavily in his way and he fell and sprained his ankle. Soon the arms of the law were upon him.

He stoutly maintained his innocence but the Beaverton men detained him while the Portland police were notified. Held in the office of Mr. Stroud, Brown continued to argue his case until he looked from the window and saw the Portland officers arriving. Then he calmly admitted his identity and returned to face the charges against him.

So far we have not heard that any of the local people concerned in this case have been cited for gallantry, but if any distinguished service emblems are put out in the case the local volunteer guardians of Justice are of a certainty entitled to them.

Late Picking is Best.

That there is a correlation between the time of picking pears and the quality of fruit is pointed out by C. I. Lewis, J. R. Magness and C. C. Cate of the Oregon Agricultural College Experiment Station, in Bulletin No. 154 just off the press, a "Preliminary Report of Pear Harvesting and Storage Investigations in Rogue River Valley."

"Fruit from the earliest pickings," say these authorities, "tends to be astringent and puckery, but that from the third and fourth later pickings is of excellent quality and nearly uniform in flavor and texture. These results were even more pronounced in the later keeping varieties than with the Bartlett. Early pickings of Clairgeau, Anjou, and Bosc were practically worthless because of flat insipid taste."

"From the first year's investigation it would seem best to leave all of the crop on the trees until the best time to pick, and then to remove the entire crop at once, or at least as much as is going to be marketed fresh. Letting the fruit hang longer will mean deterioration in keeping quality."

ZEROLENE

The Standard Oil for Motor Cars

The Popular Motor Oil

More ZEROLENE is used for automobiles on the Pacific Coast than all other oils combined. Leading motor car distributors praise ZEROLENE, correctly refined from selected California asphalt-base crude, because it maintains its lubricating body at cylinder heat and gives perfect lubrication with less wear and less carbon deposit. Get our lubrication chart showing the correct consistency for your car.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(California)

Engines are either water-cooled or air-cooled. This, the air-cooled type, like all internal combustion engines, requires an oil that holds its full lubricating qualities at cylinder heat, burns clean in the combustion chambers and goes out with exhaust. ZEROLENE fills these requirements perfectly, because it is correctly refined from selected California asphalt-base crude.
