

LETTERS FROM THE FRONT.

had been killed by shells. On one of my trips to this front, well I guess one of the first ones after the drive just north of Verdun that gave the Americans possession of "Dead Man's Hill." I went up over the road on this hill and I was told on this trip that we were one of the first to use this road in four years.

Well, I went up to the Battery positions here and on my way back, just as I was coming over Dead Man's Hill, Fritz thought he would do some shelling. Well all the way down this hill I could see the shells breaking behind me. This made things pretty interesting, but we got back O. K., ready to haul some more up for Fritz.

Well, after our work here we moved to Montfoucon and here we were assigned to the 32nd for good and when we moved here the Huns were still shelling and we had no billets, so we had to dig in. I had quite a nice dug-out here and hauled ammunition to "Roumain," about Nov. 6 and then on the 11th of the month the good news came of the armistice.

When this news came, believe me, there were some glad boys. Upon the front where you weren't even allowed to strike a match, there were bonfires burning and the band was playing and Old Glory was flying in front of headquarters.

Then on the 17th of November when the news came that we were one of the divisions that were to march on the Rhine, there was another bunch of glad soldiers, and ever since then we have been travelling. Our first town was "Linnv." then Marville, Ville le Chevre, (Athien, Straussen, Walferdinger, Eichwieler. This is where we are now. Don't know where our next stop will be, but will be on our way again in a few days and I don't think it will be very long until we are back on good old U. S. soil again, maybe before this letter reaches you.

Well, Dad, when you write to the rest tell them all that I am in good health and what I am doing. Well, I will close now, with love and kisses for all. Your loving son, V. C. SMITH, Co. B, Ammunition Train 308, American E. F.

the worst case of blues ever in Beaverton. First there will be Charles Ray, that ever popular portrayer of rural life, in an excellent picture entitled, "His Own Home Town," and Fatty Arbuckle will be seen in "A Country Hero." Although many people saw the Arbuckle film when it was shown here last summer, it is one of those films which you can enjoy again and again and it is good for a laugh every time you see it.

Services at All Churches.

Plans are under way to re-open the churches and Sunday Schools with a little extra effort to make up for lost time. Rev. Gray announces a special sermon and the music will be up to the usual standard.

Father O'Neill, the new priest at St. Cecilia's church, will make his first public appearance in his new capacity with the usual services Sunday.

Services at the Congregational church will be the usual Sunday School, preaching and young people's meeting.

School to Open.

School will re-open Monday in all departments and both the high school and grade school are planning to make up the lost time of the past semester in the shortest possible time. The high school plans to start at once on the work of the second semester and to make up the lost time by means of reviews as fast as the pupils are able to accomplish the work. The grade school will begin where the work was broken into, as their work is not divided and will work to the completion of the year's work by the shortest and most direct method.

Red Cross to Meet.

Mrs. W. J. Leonard, chairman of the local auxiliary of the Red Cross announced early in the week that the Red Cross would meet in regular session at the Red Cross rooms next Wednesday if the ban were lifted. She states that the work has accumulated greatly and that there is a large amount to do, so she urges every member who can possibly do so to be present and assist in the very necessary relief work.

HE FINDS FORDSON TRACTOR INVALUABLE

Parties Interested May See it Work and Know for Themselves What it Will Do.

Owing to the fact that some unreliable statements have been made against the Fordson Tractor, I take pleasure in pointing out, I take the pleasure to advise to whom it may concern:

That I am the owner of a Fordson Tractor and if I had to do without it now, taking everything into consideration, I would quit farming. I can plow 8 acres in 10 hours and do that easy, I can plow 16 acres in 20 hours without stopping except changing drivers. I can also plow any time that you can plow with horses.

I dug my potatoes with a Fordson Tractor and a Hoover Potato Digger, and we plowed 4 acres every evening after dark. I put 2000 feet of rough lumber on my wagon and got stuck with the wheels sunk between 6 to 8 inches in the ground and had a 3200 pound team. I hitched on to it with the Fordson and hauled it out the first pull.

I can plow my land for 40 to 50 cents per acre for just what fuel and oil against $2.50 to $3.00 per acre with horses.

In my opinion there is not a better 2 plow tractor on the market today or any comparison to it.

Any one wanting to see it work can come to Witch Hazel station, Southern Pacific Electric, and I will verify every statement.
