BEAVER THEATRE

SAT., FEB. 1ST.

Miss Mary Welter is spending the week at home from her work in Portland. She recently completed a course in nursing at St. Vincent's Hospital and has been kept quite busy ever since by the great amount of sickness and the scarcity of nurses in the metropolis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stroud have moved to the Mitzel House which was recently closed down and in consideration of the scarcity of houses and rooms, have agreed to let the men continue to occupy the rooms on the upper floor. Mrs. Mitzel, feeling no longer able to do the work of the hotel since the death of her daughter left her alone, decided to close the hotel and visit her married sons and daughters for a time, so Beaverton again has but the one hotel.

Mr. Jacobsen is home from the shipyards. Since arriving he has been improving his property here.

Mrs. Bloomquist and Miss Kaufman were in the Rose City Saturday.

Leo Sams was home from Oregon City the last of the week.

Thomas Mitzel has been making some substantial improvements to his home property the past two weeks.

George Davis has fall-sown wheat four inches high and still growing.

Bernice Barron has been taking a course of music lessons with Miss Dee Darling of Forest Grove with good results.

James Sams is going into the fur business. He likes to trap and will "catch 'em going and coming."

Messrs. David and Dewey Walker are now employed at the Oregon City paper mills.

Otto Bertch, one of Portland's popular street car operators, was home on a visit Saturday.

Mr. Bloomquist has been ill the past few days with the quinsy.

Kemmer Brothers are getting out many cords of A-1 wood this winter.

In the second annual spelling down at the school Friday, Millie Jacobsen won the prize for best speller.

Louis Leonetti has purchased a searchlight for his bicycle. He now can travel day and night.

Cooper Mountain school is one of the fortunate schools of the county, having lost only a few days on account of influenza.

Ross Hiddleston, brother of Mrs. C. L. Barron, has returned home after 18 months' service on board the U. S. S. Nebraska. They were kept busy conveying troops across the Atlantic.

Walter Walker and Robert Bertch had some excitement riding a bronch the other day, but managed to stay on board.

The bridge south of the Hyland place that was burned out last fall is now replaced with a

Tucker & Shreck sold the E. A. Hendricks place last week to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sanner of Moffett. The consideration was $4000 for the ten acres and Mrs. Sanner and her daughter, who have investigated all sections near Portland state that it is the best value and the most reasonably priced property that they could find. It faces the new Pacific Highway, lays well, has a choice lot of fruits and berries, and will make an ideal home. It will be occupied for the present by Mr. and Mrs. Bingman of Portland, as Mr. Sanner is an electrician in charge of the O. E. sub-station at Moffett. Mrs. Bingman is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sanner and her husband is city salesman for an Eastern pickle factory. Mr. Hendricks expects to buy another but smaller place near here.
