POULTRY CULLING EXHIBIT AT CLEMENT'S JULY 24

County Agent and Prof. Brewster Will Stage Demonstration that Will Enable Poultrymen to Pick Layers from Loafers Infallibly.

A poultry culling demonstration that will enable any poultryman attending to go home and cull his own flock, separating the layers from the loafers without mistake, will be held at the home of J. Clement on next Thursday afternoon, July 24, at 2:00 o'clock by County Agent N. C. Jamison, assisted by C. S. Brewster, assistant professor of Poultry Husbandry at O. A. C.

Prof. Brewster is an undisputed authority on the subject. Last year he handled between 30,000 and 40,000 chickens in Maine to the entire satisfaction of the growers. Since coming to O. A. C., he has been investigating Oregon flocks and finds that in a great many instances as high as 30 per cent. of the flock are non-producers.

Prof. Brewster will cull Mr. Clement's flock, but he will do it in such a way and will explain his method so thoroughly that any poultryman attending can go home and cull his own flock without difficulty. Any person with a dozen chickens will find the plan worth the time necessary to attend, while those with larger flocks cannot afford to miss such an opportunity.

This is only one of a number of such demonstrations to be held in the county next week.

Prof. Brewster insists that each flock that he culls shall be placed on record for a week previous to the demonstration and that during the next week a record be kept both of the culls taken out and the flock pronounced good ones.

GRANGERS MEET AND ENJOY GOOD PROGRAM AND DINNER

Six New Members Added at Special Meeting Tuesday Night After Regular Meeting on Saturday—Debate is Entertaining.

An impromptu debate on the question of wealth or education for the young provoked a lively argument and furnished no end of amusement at the regular meeting of Beaverton Grange Saturday afternoon. The affirmative, or wealth side, was led by J. W. Barnes while the opposition was ably started by Mrs. Elizabeth D. McGowan. Many members joined in the tilt and the question was ably handled and greatly enjoyed. Mr. Barnes contended that he had the better of the argument but he doubtless had the unpopular side, judging from the expressions following the debate. There were no judges.

The regular meeting and dinner of the grange was well attended and plans were made to attend Pomona Grange at Cedar Mills on Wednesday, July 23.

A special meeting called for Tuesday night was held and conferred degrees on Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Colt, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Shellenberger, J. E. Davis and W. J. Leonard.

Ice cream and cake were served following the initiation.

Miss Olita Cooley was out from Portland Wednesday.

RECEPTION AT CEDAR MILLS

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. May will hold a reception in their new store building Saturday evening, July 19, to which their many friends and patrons are invited.

A general good time for the whole community is expected. Good music and plenty of refreshments have been provided and the affair will be a social good time for the old and young. Everybody is welcome.

NEW RESTAURANT FIRM CHANGES MEMBERS

Sam Bianchi, of Portland, Buys Interest of R. Rossi and Title of New Firm is Rossi & Co.

The Beaverton Restaurant will hereafter be conducted under the name of Rossi & Co., the interests of R. Rossi in the new venture having been secured by Sam Bianchi, of Portland, who will be associated with Sam Rossi under the firm name of Rossi & Co., so instead of two Rossi's the firm now has two Sam's. The new business has enjoyed a good trade and as Mr. Bianchi is a practical cook and restaurant man and will take an active interest in the business, the new proprietors plan to make the restaurant the most popular eating house west of Portland.

J. W. Effinger, of Nehalem City, former publisher of the Nehalem and Wheeler papers, was a business visitor in Beaverton Monday and looked over the town with a view of investing. Mr. Effinger is a promoter of several very successful business enterprises in the Coast towns.

Miss Margaret Debbio, of Sacramento, is the guest of her brother, John Debbio and wife. She will spend the summer here.

NEW TEACHER ELECTED

Miss Ella Gunderson was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Jessie Leiser in the high school faculty. She was chosen at the Board meeting Tuesday evening. Miss Gunderson is a graduate of Reed College and is most highly recommended to the local board. She will teach French, English and history.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Becker spent the week-end at Woodburn.

3 NEW COURSES POSSIBLE FOR BEAVERTON HIGH

If You Would Like to See Five Instructors Where We now Have Only Three, Read This and Help Us Get the Students Pledged.

Patrons of the Beaverton High School now have an opportunity to see three new courses added to the high school curriculum and five teachers where there are now employed, without any additional expense to the taxpayers, if they will act quickly and take advantage of the provisions of the Smith-Hughes Law, a Federal statute which provides Federal and State aid to encourage the teaching of Agriculture, Home Economics and the industries.

Fifteen students above 14 years of age are required to form a class and the Federal Board will pay half of the teacher's salary.

It looks like a good thing for Beaverton to take advantage of this summer.

TO THE PATRONS AND FRIENDS OF THE BEAVERTON HIGH SCHOOL:

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of District No. 48, the City Superintendent was authorized to make a canvas of the district and the surrounding territory to determine if sufficient interest existed to warrant the introduction of the courses provided under the Smith-Hughes Law.

Under this law the State and Federal Government will pay one half the salary of all teachers employed in teaching the courses provided by that law. This district is now in a position to offer courses in Agriculture, Home Economics, and Printing and Industrial English without incurring any appreciable expense to the taxpayers of this district beyond that now necessary to maintain the Standard High School.

The course in Agriculture will include instruction in soils, crop management, farm mechanics, dairying, market gardening, and, in fact, all problems of diversified farming such as is practiced in this locality. It is essential that pupils taking this course conduct actual farm operation, either at home, upon the farm of the person with whom they live, or upon ground rented and used for this purpose.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

The Boy Scouts met at the High School building as usual Friday evening, but the meeting brought two very pleasant surprises for us, which were much appreciated. Mr. Raymond Cook presented the Scout troop with a large First Class Scout emblem in the Scoutmaster's colors and mounted on a fine staff. The gilt parts were painted with leaf gold and it is sure the boys won't forget his little talk on Scout Life, or the meaning of the gift.

We Scouts would have called that enough to make the evening one to be remembered, but the next surprise gave us as much joy.

It was a large wool bunting United States flag on a fine staff that gave this added joy. The flag was a present to the Scout Troop from the Parent Teachers' Association, of Beaverton, and presented by their President, Mrs. Cook, with a talk on Scout Ideals.

Mr. Cook then called on Mrs. A. T. Wilson, who responded with a talk on Scout morals that pleased and sent every Scout home thinking.

Following this Mr. Cook gave a wonderful speech of acceptance telling the finer points of Scout Life and the meanings of the flag.

HIGHWAY WORK NEARS REEDVILLE

Work on the highway had reached the crossing between Witch Hazel and Reedville Tuesday and good progress is being made. The contractor expects to reach Beaverton in about four weeks, according to announcement made to local residents.

LEWIS MINOR IS HOME

Saddler Lewis W. Minor, son of Mr. and Mrs. James I. Minor, a former student of Beaverton High School, returned home from France, the morning of July Fourth.

He enlisted in the 21st Cavalry a few days after the United States entered the war and was later transferred to the Supply Co. 79th F. A. and was in the army of occupation before being ordered home.

His brother, Sergeant James E. Minor, of the 829th Aero Squadron, is still stationed at Romarantin, France, and from a recent letter, did not expect to be sent home until late in August.

Holiness Camp Meeting

Many Beaverton people are planning to attend the camp meeting of the Oregon Holiness Association at Portland, beginning Thursday, July 24, and continuing for ten days. Drs. Babcock and Henderson are the leading preachers of the gathering. The grounds are reached by a short walk from the end of the Broadway carline.

Regular Services at Methodist

Regular services will be held next Sunday at the Methodist church, but on the two Sundays following the evening service will be dropped on account of the Oregon Holiness Camp Meeting at Portland.

Mrs. J. D. Gray, of Portland, visited Tuesday and Wednesday of last week with the family of Mr. and Mrs. Doy Gray.

BEAVERTON IS PROGRESSING

Beaverton is coming into its own with the coming of the Highway. Not only are there new stores, but the old ones are taking on new life. The old charge that you can't get a meal in Beaverton, has passed into ancient history. There is as live and up-to-the-minute a restaurant as one might wish to see in a small town, while the old Commercial Hotel, after passing through many vicissitudes, announces the employment of a chef and the service of an excellent and appetizing Sunday dinner. And Earl Evans continues to serve as fine lunches as heart could wish or appetite desire.

Two new stores have made their appearance and have announced a progressive policy that will win for them the instant approval, not only of those residents who have always traded here, but of those others as well who have for the most part bought their supplies in Portland or Hillsboro. We have an exclusive hardware and furniture store that promises to fill a long-felt want. Other improvements are in line with the near approach of better transportation. The Times is keeping pace with the growth of the town. We cordially invite every reader to cooperate with us.
