CHARLES OTTO HILL SUFFERS SEVERE BURNS FROM CAUSTIC

Thirteen Months Old Son of Popular Mechanic Finds Concentrated Lye While at Home of Grandparents.

While visiting at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Adams, Charles Otto Hill, the thirteen-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Hill, on Saturday evening climbed to a shelf and from a can of concentrated lye ate enough of the caustic to seriously burn his mouth, throat and stomach and to affect his breathing organs. He was rushed to the home of Dr. Mason and everything possible was done to relieve his sufferings, but the burns seemed fatal and on the advice of the physician, he was rushed to Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland. Even there the specialists held out no hope, but the young man had inherited a strong constitution from the sturdy mechanic who fixes your car at the Stipe Garage and in spite of the fearful burns he hung onto life and at latest reports he is reviving strength and has excellent prospects for complete recovery.

New Cedar Mills Store is Dedicated.

With appropriate good cheer and a liberality that showed he appreciated the patronage he had enjoyed, E. S. May, the Cedar Mill merchant, dedicated his new store Saturday evening. He has a spacious new building and a choice selection of new and attractive goods and when the two are combined the attraction to the customer need be only courtesy and service and Mr. May and his estimable family are adepts at both of the requisites.

A goodly crowd went over from Beaverton and report a royal good time with plenty of refreshments and a royal welcome for all.

Oregon Cows Make World Record.

The highest average ever reported from as many as 3366 cows in five testing associations was made by Oregon herds for May, says E. L. Westover, federal and O. A. C. dairy extension specialist. The cows averaged 950.4 pounds milk and 39.79 pounds fat. When it is understood that 40 pounds of fat a month puts cows of America in the honor class, the Oregon dairy cow performance is seen to show up the average as good as specials in other states. The best cow was Dot, owned by Joe Durrer, of Tillamook, which made a record of 2210 pounds of milk and 103.87 pounds of fat in May—the best of any cow west of the Mississippi River.

Only Morning Service at Methodist.

The regular morning service will be held at the Methodist church Sunday morning, but there will be no evening service account the Oregon Holiness campmeeting in Portland which many wish to attend.

Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Gray are attending the campmeeting of the Oregon Holiness Association in Portland this week.

Paved streets certainly make a difference.

PAVING PROGRESS PLEASES: HIGHWAY HEADWAY HURRIES

Local Street Work Will Be Completed Next Week—Canyon Road Next Highway Camp Moved to Aloha.

"Col." A. B. Fassett of the Warren Construction Company has been in Beaverton practically every day this week hurrying the work of paving on our streets along. He says that the job will be completed next week and that the next job is the Canyon Road. The crews will go from here to the road and the grading crew will commence work early next week and hurry their job to completion.

On Monday he was accompanied by J.C. Beck, a leading attorney of the metropolis and owner of the Beck building, who has property interests here also. He inspected the progress being made, expressed pleasure at the forward-looking appearance of the town, and "may decide to move his building out here."

Work on the highway is making good progress, although halted to some extent by the necessity of moving the camps and laying new track.

The concrete had been laid to the center of Reedville Wednesday forenoon when the machines were stopped and the camps moved to Aloha, from which point the operations will go forward until Beaverton is nearly reached when the camps will be moved again and the third lap of the work completed.

While the people of this section are very much disappointed by the failure to rush this work through in order that the present summer might see some use of the new highway into Portland, the prospects for its readiness by the first of the year are of a pleasing nature and the paving of the Canyon Road in addition to the new highway will make it of double value to local people.

BIRTHS.

Dr. Mason reports the following additions to population:

KEPRO — At Emmanuel hospital in Portland, to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kepro, of Beaverton, Saturday, July 19, an 11¼-pound boy. Mother and babe are doing nicely.

BERENS—At Cedar Mills, Thursday night, July 17, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. V. Berens, a son.

WRAY—Monday morning, July 21, to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Wray, of Beaverton, a nine-pound girl.

Hurt at Rock Crusher

While working at the rock crusher north of town, Louis Reghitto, well known gardener of Beaverton, was struck by a flying rock and knocked down. He suffered a severe gash on his right knee and the fracture of one of the small bones of his left leg. Dr. Mason attended his injuries.

Two Services at Congregational.

Rev. J. W. Price, former pastor of the local Congregational church and now pastor of the West Seattle Congregational church, who is spending his vacation visiting here, preached twice last Sunday at the Congregational church to appreciative audiences and will hold services both morning and evening this coming Sunday.

BEAVERTON REALTY MOVING FAST THIS SUMMER SEASON

Coming of Highways and Paving of Streets, Coupled with General and National Prosperity, Produces Many Changes.

Beaverton's real estate continues to move rapidly. During the past week a number of realty deals have been consummated and a number of others are still in the formative stage and may be announced at any date.

Messrs. Stroud & Pegg, the motive power behind the most of these sales, announce that inquiry is brisk and that property is readily moved. The incoming buyers know definitely what they want and the proximity of Portland makes the Beaverton section an ideal residence section. The combination is irresistible and whenever a Beaverton resident has grown surfeited with the good things he enjoys and hankers for a change in a way that indicates a willingness to sell out at a reasonable profit on what he paid for the best home on earth, he has but to whisper the fact to these live realty dealers or put a small ad in the Times and his wishes will come true before he has time to change his mind.

South Dakota Man Buys Baker Place.

Martin Gleason late of South Dakota, came in the other day and told Frank Stroud just what he would like to own. Frank listened a while and then gave Mr. Gleason a short ride in his new Scripps-Booth automobile. The result was that Mr. Gleason now owns the G. W. Baker five acres in the south part of Beaverton and will take possession the tenth of August where he will live with his three children and his sister. Mr. Gleason is a stockman and this is his first attempt to grow berries and fruit. He says he thinks he can become a horticulturist and may decide to dabble a bit in rabbits and chickens.

Mr. Baker has another ten-acres out south of town on which he has been building a house. He will hurry it to completion and he and Mrs. Baker and their son, Jesse will move out there and improve that property.

McGee Buys Wert Residence.

W. P. McGee, Beaverton's new merchant in the Hedge building, has purchased W. M. Wert's residence which the latter bought from Mrs. S. J. Robinson some months ago. The deal has been somewhat delayed because of a difficulty with the abstract, one of the heirs to the property at some time in its past history having mysteriously disappeared, but the attorneys think that this can be readily overcome. This property is close in and convenient to both school and store and with the improvements to it that Mr. Wert has made will give Mr. McGee an ideal home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Havens, who came here recently from Indiana and last week bought the James I. Hoopes place south of town, are visiting at Aloha with the family of their daughter, Mrs. William Clifton, while waiting for some preliminaries to be arranged before they move to their new home. Mr. Havens and his grandson, H. C. Kingsbury, who is Mrs. Clifton's son, were in Beaverton Tuesday inspecting the new prop-

BAKERY SOLD TO JOHN DAVIS: MR. EVANS WILL TAKE REST

Popular Confectionery Will Continue To Serve Light Lunches Soft Drinks in Connection with Sale of Bakery Goods.

The Beaverton Bakery was sold on Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. John Davis who will continue to serve light lunches, ice cream and soft drinks as in the past, with the sale of bakery goods, cigars and confections.

W. E. Evans, who has conducted the place for the past two years, will take a much needed rest and will then probably identify himself with some other Beaverton business. He has not yet decided just what he will do, and says that he will give it no thought until he has first had a vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis are well known in this locality and will undoubtedly meet with success in the conduct of the business, receiving the same liberal patronage that has come to Mr. Evans in the past. They will continue the business just as Mr. Evans carried it on for the present, but contemplate some added features in the future.

Every town has its unassuming and unadvertised heroes, those men and women who unselfishly do the will of the Master without thought of reward or compensation. Beaverton has its full share of these and yet there are often, thoughtless remarks made in censure of these when if the truth were known the critical one would be ready to humbly beg the forgiveness of the one subjected to the unjust criticism. This came to us very forcibly when a thoughtless one spoke a criticism of Dr. Mason. Perhaps this would have passed unnoticed if we had not learned a short time before now he had readily paid the hospital bill of a patient who was in need of the better service which lack of sufficient competent help rendered it impossible for him to give here. There was slight chance of the ability of the patient to repay promptly if ever and yet he did not hesitate nor wait to be asked to give his guarantee to the bill.

C. R. Craig, after spending some months in Portland, is back with the North Coast Power Company in this county. He was in Beaverton this week assisting with the moving of poles made necessary by the paving of Front Street.

Alfred Davies went to Portland Monday to visit with his sons.

erty. Mr. and Mrs. Havens are from Monticello, Ind., where they lived on a farm, but he is an old railroad man, having spent more than 30 years on the various roads in the United States.

Thorne Property Sold to S. P. Man.

W. C. Curruthers, a Southern Pacific train dispatcher from Portland, has bought the Thorne property in the south part of town and will occupy it as soon as Mr. and Mrs. Eden, who are now living there, can find some other place to move. Stroud & Pegg conducted the sale.
