

SAFE FOR DEMOCRACY

One more instance and then I hasten to catch a train for Seattle, where we hold our next session. On a log at the edge of the lake sat Governor Olcott and Mayor Baker and myself. On a rock nearby was a young lady from the east bathing her dainty feet in the cold waters of the blue, blue lake. Her shoes and stockings were on the bank. After she had satisfied her bathing proclivities she turned around to get her shoes. They were ten or twelve feet away, and she didn't want to walk over the sand to get them. Turning to the mayor, whom she didn't know, she said, "Say, kid, hand me my shoes, will you?" The mayor saw the joke and turning to the governor he said, "Here boy, bring the lady her shoes." And the governor brought them. Oh, the world seems to be safe enough for democracy all right!—C. E. Ingalls in Corvallis Gazette-Times.

the prices of furniture and kitchenware, out of which their high wages are paid.

If an organization of farmers and farm laborers attended one of these meetings, we might, for a change, hear less about food and more about other brands of high priced merchandise.

When President Wilson shook hands the other day with Mrs. H. W. Somers, wife of General Somers of Civil war fame, he was the twentieth executive of the United States to whom she had been introduced. Mrs. Somers made her debut at the White House on the arm of Daniel Webster, when William Harrison was president. The aged lady declares that since that time she has attended many of the social functions given by presidents and that she was intimately acquainted with many of the executives. Washington has been her home for 90 years. Despite her advanced age she is very active and in the stormiest or hottest weather can be seen among her wards—the poor.

President Wilson and wife, and official family were guests of Oregon on Monday of this week, and a right royal welcome they received at the hands of our people regardless of political faith or other agreements or disagreements. He is the people's president and all honor and respect him as such. He is making a tour of the United States in the interests of the peace treaty and delivered a great speech in Portland Monday night. Many Forest Grove people saw and heard the President.

Our friends the French are preparing to turn the horrors of war to financial account. The French government is arranging an elaborate system for touring the battle fronts, and soon the American of means will be invited to step up and satisfy his curiosity and disgorge his wad. He will.

There is one serious objection to incarcerating the profiteers. They would probably own the jails within twenty-four hours.

"The only pearl I ever found was my wife," remarked a local citizen the other day. Can you name him?

BY WAY OF A CHANGE

It is a noteworthy fact that when we hear tirades against the high cost of living, with cogent reasons for reducing it immediately, the commodity to which persistent reference is made is food.

The high cost of furniture, or tools, or cooking utensils, or soap, or bedsteads, or miscellaneous hardware, or even house rent, we hear little about. But it is food all the time—and then perhaps, leather or wool. Sometimes the leather and wool are referred to as shoes and clothes, but generally the reference is made to the raw materials.

It seems more than a coincidence that the articles which must be cheapened are principally those which the farmer sells. Those which he buys, apparently, may remain at their present figure.

The demonstrations and indignation meetings for which our eloquent spellbinders and their friends hire halls are not attended by members of farm laborers' unions—because there aren't any farm labor unions. But cabinetmakers who construct furniture that farmers buy, and other operatives whose handiwork is very largely exchanged for the money which farmers get for their produce—these organizations attend the meetings, and don't say much about
