It has been a wonderful week for Oregon.

They are setting the stage at San Francisco now. As soon as the Shriners and the Rose Show pass into history, the California city will claim the spotlight privileges.

Just a little more effort on the part of local residents and property holders is all that will be needed to insure the city delivery of mail. It has its advantages and it is worth the effort necessary to get it.

We notice that Senator Beveridge says that Harding is progressive enough, but that the platform is not, so he will make his own, which reminds us of the street car conductor's reply when asked what a platform was for: "It's something to stand on until you get in."

AS IT SEEMS TO ME
H. B.

That it's no wonder a typewriter gets rattled when a pretty girl is working it.

That the original family tree was of the apple variety.

That time is always represented by a man. Woman is shy of the calendar.

That many a man's good reputation depends on what isn't found out about him.

That some men's heads are like vacant rooms—they lack furniture.

That if widows are in weeds, grass weeds must be in clover.

That bacterium trisereus is a new germ found in Utah that performs on rats and men. Don't put yourself out to find it. If it gets lonesome it will page you.

That money maketh the mare go, Or as they say, and I guess it's so; But it's different with an auto though. An auto maketh the money go.

That no one is too poor to afford the luxury of doing good.

That genius defies eugenics. No earthly power can stop a conjunction of the stars.

That marriages would be more successful if fewer men and women were faultless.

That the next day after a man weds an angel she begins to shed her wings.

That women are judged by their accomplishments, and men by what they accomplish.

THE SHRINERS
Balaam! Here's to the Shriners. They now furnish all the news for their folks. Fill up all of the front page. Everyone in town is happy. No one seems to have the blues. They all forget about position and age.

They have landed here by thousands. They come from every state. For their national convention is held here. So we have put out their emblems. Everywhere we decorate. So they will not regret that they come this year.

So our town is dotted over with their famous sea of red. And dangling from it there is a tassel small. Never saw a band together. With such covering on their head. And Al is seen upon the front of them all.

While their caravan was passing. With their suitings all so bright. And we listened for the music of their band. Looking at such gorgeous colors. All were dazzled at the sight. And they were remarking everything was grand.

In New York we hear them saying. That in eighteen seventy two. They organized the first temple of the Shriners. Now one hundred forty seven. And a membership that's true. Of more than three hundred thousand at this time.

Some in Portland now are camping. After a cross-country ride. Taking in at the same time our big rose show. And the gates to this fair oasis. We have thrown them open wide. Letting them behold our roses as they grow. O. O. SMITH

Malinda, aviator, aged 30 years, with a record of service in France, was killed at Fort Bragg, Calif., a week ago Sunday when the plane which he was driving collided with another plane at a height of 1000 feet and fell to the earth, catching fire as it fell. Malinda's two passengers, Clarence and Wallace Johnson, of Inglenook, Calif., were also killed in the fall. The other machine was badly damaged but managed to land safely. Malinda was a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ennes, of Hillsboro, having married Miss May Ennes some eight years ago. Malinda was in the service in France and returned about the time of the armistice. Mrs. Ennes, who was in Portland, left Monday for Fort Bragg. Interment was at San Francisco.

M. F. Hanville, formerly a teacher in the Hillsboro schools, who sued the Oregonian for alleged libelous articles appearing in connection with his resignation from the Astoria schools, was dismissed in the Circuit Court of Multnomah county when a directed verdict in favor of the newspaper was given instead of his petition for $50,000 in damages. A. C. Shute was called as a witness, having been a member of the Board of Directors during Hanville's employment in the local schools, but was unable to give any evidence bearing on the Astoria matter.

The roads between Forest Grove and Gaston are to receive attention immediately from the County Court and the State Highway Commission. State machinery has been loaned for the purpose and Commissioner Hesse and L. Melquist have brought a part of the equipment here already. This road is to receive a heavy coating of crushed gravel and will then be opened up to traffic for a time before the hard surface is put on. This is said by the engineers to insure a better and more permanent road.

A suit from Clatsop County, heard in Judge Bagley's court on a change of venue, gave Fred C. Faldachan a verdict for $21,614.88, for road work done in that county. The contractor claimed that he could not perform the work because of interference from the county road master and the county set up that the contractor was incompetent and lacked equipment. The Washington County jury found for the contractor. Attorney Wm. G. Hare assisted in Faldachan's case.

Representatives of the "jinnys" were present at the meeting of the council at Hillsboro last week to protest that they had nothing to do with the circulation of handbills attacking the proposed jitney amendment which was approved by the people at a special election week before last. They seemed to fear that something in the way of retaliation would be attempted and were assured that the protection of the public was the only desire of the council. The city attorney was instructed to draw a jitney ordinance, a curfew ordinance, a regulation for dance halls and park improvement ordinance. These will come up for passage on July 6.

FUNDS RAISED TO BOOST OREGON

In an initial effort Portland has raised more than $35,000 a year—a total exceeding $105,000 for the next three years—towards the $450,000 budget sought by the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce to carry on its intensive state-wide development work.

Last month has been tentatively fixed for the resumption of the Portland campaign to increase the present figures to $80,000 a year, which is Portland's quota. The fact that two big conventions are in progress at the present time, and that the Shriners will convene here next week, makes this recess desirable. Despite these handicaps, however, many of the workers in the Portland canvass favored continuing at work. But the opinion prevailed that better results would be achieved after the conventions.

The majors and captains have retained their lists of prospective subscribers and are expected to turn in several thousand dollars before the canvass is actively resumed.

The intensive canvass throughout Oregon began June 15th in six cities, Corvallis, Eugene, Bend, Enterprise, Marshfield and Klamath Falls. These places are thoroughly organized for the effort and early reports indicate that they will more than meet their quotas.

Other cities where the canvass will be conducted during the next two weeks include North Bend, Newport,
