The Christmas tree is rooted deep in love,
Its verdant branches tower far above;
Its fruits are emblems of a fairer clime,
Its odors whisper of a happier time.
'Tis planted in all lands to spread and grow,
And faith and hope among its treasures glow,
Till the green Life Tree in our midst shall stand,
And earth once more becomes an Eden Land.

CHRISTMAS WEEK IN ENGLAND

Time When Scattered Families Are United and Tender Memories Are Revived.

MANY and great are the changes which have occurred in England since Dickens wrote "A Christmas Carol," but they have not affected the national love for the festival and the determination to preserve unimpaired the traditional warmth and heartiness of its celebration. Christmas week is still the great week of the year for the English people. It is the one week when scattered families are reunited, when tender memories and old associations are revived, when friend greets friend with a cheery expansiveness in striking contrast with the characteristic reserve of the English nature, so unobtrusive to those who do not know it well, apparently so distant and unsympathetic.

From Wednesday all business will be suspended, not to be resumed till Monday morning. The whole nation will give itself up to good cheer and good fellowship, and for a brief season, all strife and controversy are hushed, and peace, charity and concord reign supreme.

Substitute for a Tree

We are not going to have a Christmas tree, writes a correspondent. To make them brilliant many pretty little ornaments are needed and they cost a good deal. My plan is for a barrel in place of a tree. I have the barrel now in a closet. It is covered with old fish-green canisters and fish-bone between the great holiday I am going to get a couple of seagulls and hang over it. It will look pretty gay I think, when it is filled with the gifts that are being put into it now, all pretty things and small things, and my own little old money chest stands out in my way to its mystery and to command me to be generous to those who are in need. I am sure we will enjoy our barrel as much as we would a tree.

GENERATION AT VERNONIA WHEN MAN IS LOST

Vernonia, Ore., Dec. 5, 1920.
One day last week some men were in the upper Redd Creek woods in a very rough locality, probably hunting. One of the men, with whom I was conversing, was seen rucking his gun, and though his aim was to kill some game unconsciously he hit a companion. The would-be game kill-

CHAUTAQUA OPENS WITH MUCH SUCCESS

First Number, The McCords, Greeted Last Night with Crowded House Which Applauded Liberally.

Beaverton's Chautauqua opened last night with an enthusiastic audience filling the high school auditorium to greet the McCords, musical entertainers, who fully lived up to their advance notices.

Mr. McCord was an especially versatile impersonator. He made quick and satisfactory changes in presenting a wide range of characters, portraying in succession the young husband, the "old maid" village teacher, the bashful red-headed girl, little Johnny, the village belle, the old-fashioned and a veteran of the Civil War who could play the fiddle.

Mrs. McCord is pretty, clever and witty. She has a good voice and judges her audience well.

Additional numbers will be given this evening, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday evenings.

The committee is showing excellent enterprise and will probably make a financial as well as a social and literary success of the venture.

$20,000 Appeal Gets Nothing

The suit of James McNulty vs. Otto Hartrampf for $20,000 for alleged alienation of affections of McNulty's wife, which was tried in the Circuit Court this week, resulted in a verdict for the defendant.

The suit was the outgrowth of a lurid romance which occupied the daily papers some months ago in which McNulty enticed the girl to a room in a Portland hotel on the pretext of visiting his sister and then secured the services of a pseudo-policeman to frighten the girl into a marriage which took place in Vancouver.

Judge J. P. Kavanaugh of Portland presided. Twenty talesmen were examined before a jury made up as follows was selected: Z. T. Cole, J. B. Trullinger, C. W. Bloom, H. L. Robinson, S. A. Walker, R. Hunziker, J. B. Buck, J. J. Ingram, L. L. Crawford, James Churchill, J. W. Mulloy and H. P. Roberts. A large crowd had been attracted by the case and with numerous witnesses the court room has been filled daily.

New Suits Filed

Cora Wetherell vs. D. Reghito et al. is a suit to foreclose a mortgage covering property in and near Beaverton securing a note for $3100 made January 30, 1917.

Papers in the appeal of Fred Myers from an order of the county court of Clackamas county establishing a county road and sent to Washington county on a change of venue were filed in the circuit court this week.

Henry Becker has brought suit against Henry Huenergardt to collect a note for $400 made September 1, 1919.

Two suits have been filed by R. M. Wade & Co., in one of which J. Soper is defendant and in the other Gail Soper and J. Soper composing the Oregon Implement Co. to collect notes for $272 and $253.84, respectively.

Empire Investment Co., sues C. F. Flgard as administrator of the estate of Edgar Henry Thompson, deceased, to foreclose a contract for the purchase of property in Cherry Hill Acres. The complaint alleges that $1000 of a $1500 purchase price remains unpaid.

Encampment Initiates Big Class

The storm Saturday night had no effect on the three-hill men, for one of the largest gatherings in the history of Hillsboro Odd Fellowship met in Odd Fellows hall and work did not end until 3 a. m. the next morning. The occasion was work in the Encampment degree and there were 25 candidates which included members of the order from Portland, Forest Grove, Sherwood, Scholls and other points. Portland sent a large delegation to help in the work and with local members and visitors from county points 175 were present. Elaborate refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed in the intervals of the work.—Independent.

so did not return. Becoming uneasy this gentleman went to his third number of the party and reported what had happened. The two men set out on the foot man's trail. Failing to find him they came to the help. Up to late yesterday nothing had been discovered of the lost man. It is rumored that as many as fifty men have been in search of a time. It seems that there has been some agreement to discover the lost man, but an exact list of conditions is not in the expenditure of money. The case seems to be shrouded in mystery.

Building is going slowly these rainy days.

Railroad grading closed here for days weather and (perhaps) lower wages.
