WHY NOT PAVE YOUR STREETS THIS YEAR?

Discussion at Council Meeting Monday Night Shows Cost is Less than Macadam.

Why not pave this year and have a good street in front of your property? That's the question being put to those who are adding that a macadam street be laid in front of their properties and it was forcibly shown at the council meeting Monday night that the cost of paving is actually less than the cost of the macadam. Recent construction of macadam roads in this vicinity have proven that the cost of macadamizing a road ten feet wide is about $1.00 per lineal foot and experience in maintenance of roads has brought out the cost at approximately 50 cents per lineal foot per year. As the $1.00 per foot must be paid practically cash in advance and as the paving can be bonded and paid in ten annual assessments, the first year cost of paving is less than the first year cost of macadam and the total ten year cost is less than the first cost and maintenance of the macadam.

When these facts were brought to the attention of petitioners for the improvement of the street leading from the highway past St. Cecilia's church, members of that parish who were instrumental in bringing the petition before the council decided to go back to property owners in an attempt to get a petition for paving put through.

The same argument appealed to property owners south of Broadway, who led by F. W. Cady, had asked that the street leading south from the highway to the school grounds be extended to W. H. Hunter's property, thence east to Watson street and connecting at the Methodist parsonage, run south to E. D. Haines corner and thence east to Watson street.

No definite action was taken in regard to any street improvement other than to request the city attorney and city engineer to bring in estimates as to the cost of paving on the various grades of improvement needed.

The financial statement of the city, covering the incumbency of Mayor Erickson and Recorder Thynge, was read and approved and ordered published.

A complaint from P. G. Fordney regarding the sewerage which comes down the drainage ditch and deposits its filth on his property was considered and the council as a committee of the whole agreed to visit the site at the first opportunity and determine means of correcting the fault before another summer.

H. A. Concannon presented a request for road improvement that would permit himself and others in his vicinity to drive to town during the winter months and was advised to bring a petition signed by property owners.

Discussion of the sidewalk situation brought a very positive statement from City Attorney A. C. Allen that the town can do nothing toward enforcing sidewalk repairs under the present charter.

Advantages of Beaverton as Site for World's Fair Impresses All Who Investigate.

Beaverton as the site for the World's Fair in 1925 appeals to everyone who investigates its possibilities. Enthusiastic reception of the idea by many individuals of influence and wealth was reported by each individual member. Plans for extension of the good will and influence which invariably follows an exposition of this town's advantages were discussed and the committee was increased to 15 and made to include H. E. Weed, N. G. Freeman, W. C. McKell, W. E. Pegg and V. A. Wood in addition to the ten previously appointed and Chairman R. H. Jenkins was authorized to appoint as additional members of the committee such other individuals as might be willing to assist in the promotion of the site, without regard to whether such individuals were members of the club or not.

CHIEF PURPOSE OF THE FARM BUREAU

Head of Oregon Federation Quotes Literature to Show Efforts to Improve Conditions.

Since the organization of the Farm Bureau in Washington county many inquiries have been sent to County Agricultural Agent O. T. McWhorter, asking information as to that body. Being anxious that all should thoroughly understand the matter, Mr. McWhorter has asked the News-Times to publish the following explanatory article which was written by George A. Mansfield, president of the Oregon State Farm Bureau Federation.

"In order that the reader may know just what the American Farm Bureau Federation is, uncolored by my own ideas, I will quote literally from the literature issued from the offices of the federation, of which it contains two. General offices at 5 South Wabash avenue, Chicago; legislative offices, 1011 Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, D. C.

"I do this for two reasons: First, because it is only by reading this carefully that the reader can really be in a position to say for himself, 'What is the American Farm Bureau?'

"Second, because I am proud of the declaration of principles and the same sound, constructive platform adopted, and invite all my readers carefully to read and compare this with platforms and declarations from any sources on the same subjects and see if they do not agree with me that the men who could draft such a document are citizens of trust and to be proud of.

"The objects of the American Farm Bureau federation are to develop, strengthen and correlate the work of the State Farm Bureau federations of the nation; to encourage and promote co-operation of all representative agricultural organizations in every effort to improve facilities and conditions for the economic and efficient production, conservation, marketing, transportation and distribution of farm products; to further the study and enactment of constructive agricultural institutions co-operating with farm bureaus in the determination of nation-wide policies, and to inform farm bureau members regarding all movements that effect their interests."

Farm Bureau Federation

"The American Farm Bureau federation is a league of the farm bureaus of the nation in which the common interests of county organizations are united in the advancement of agriculture, economically, educationally and socially, as a constructive basis.

"The American Farm Bureau federation was organized March 4, 1920, at Chicago. Twenty-eight state Farm Bureau federations were represented at this meeting.

"The affairs of the American Farm Bureau federation are directed and controlled by farmers through a board of directors, consisting of one official and one additional representative from every state for each 20,000 members or major portion thereof, and by an executive committee consisting of three members of the board of directors from each of the four regional districts of the United States, all of which directors and officers shall be actually engaged in farming.

Is Representative

"The American Farm Bureau federation is purely representative through the various state Farm Bureau federations:

"1. It represents thirty-five states, which have been accepted into the organization. The total membership in the thirty-five states is over 1,500,000.

"2. It represents 1500 county farm bureaus, each of which has an official board of farmers.

"3. It represents every community. Each county farm bureau provides for a director from each community or township, a co-operator from each school district and a well distributed membership.

"4. It represents all agricultural interests. The members, officers and directors of the various county farm bureaus include individuals engaged in all of the general and specialized lines of farming, and all are united in the advancement of agriculture, economically, educationally and socially.

Organization Encouraged

"5. It represents the various agricultural organizations. The farm bureaus do not aim to replace any other organizations. They include among their membership representatives of all farmers' organizations in the country. The federation encourages community organization and co-operation.

"The American Farm Bureau Federation is not a political organization, believing that more can be accomplished in safe-guarding and promoting the agricultural interests most vital to the welfare of the entire nation by the united action of all concerned on measures of common interest regardless of factional or political differences.

"The American Farm Bureau Federation is not a panacea or a cure-all. It depends for its strength upon the kind of support given to it by the local, county and state organizations and the quality of co-operation it receives from the various agencies interested in the welfare of agriculture.

Uses Referendum

The American Farm Bureau Federation is representative of its membership by using the referendum in getting the view point of its membership upon all great public questions.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES
By Ursel Narver
Last Friday night, Feb. 4, at Pank's our girls' and boys' teams took easy victories from their quints with the scores of 16 to 8 and 23 to 20, respectively. Owing to the slick dance floor our players were handicapped but we showed them a good time anyway. They certainly had a good debater for a referee for the boys' game. For further particulars about this person see Erickson.

The lineup and scores were as follows:
Beaverton 29 Banks, 20
Erickson, 12 F. Anderson, 12
Narver, 2 F. Drexlin, 4
Hicks, 9 C. Schramel
Merrill, 4 G. Garrigue
Schraeder, S. Edmondson
Masters, 2 S. Gribner, 4

Friday night, Feb. 25, our basketball team play Forest Grove on our floor. This will be some game as they beat Hillsboro and we have cleaned up on the latter team. Be sure to see B. H. S. "amster" for that is what we are going to do. So far we have made a good showing as our boys have piled up 259 points to our opponents 129, and our girls' team has 113 points to 54 for opposing teams. That is a good record considering that only eight games have been played.

Wednesday debate tryouts were held before the following judges: Mr. Nash, Mr. Cochran, Mr. Cook and Mrs. Wilson. Those trying out were: Alpha Williams, Edna Hocken, Elmer Erickson, Ursel Narver and LeRoy Craig, with the result that the first four were the lucky ones who made the team. Two of the above team will go to Tillamook and the other two will meet Banks here. The proposition is, "Resolved, That the 6% limitation amendment should be repealed." The teams will debate the same time which is next Friday, the 18th. Hard work is being put on the question and some good arguments will be heard at that time.

Mr. Cochran, as coach, is putting lots of time and energy on the proposition and certainly is working hard for B. H. S.
Last Saturday night, the play "Looking for Mary Jane," was given at Kinton to a packed house. Although the cast was somewhat handicapped by the small stage and stage settings they put across their parts well. In fact some say that it was better than the one given at the High School auditorium. The audience surely showed their appreciation and overlooked any minor mistakes which occurred. Special mention should be given Crete Gray for taking her part well, as she had only gone through the play once in rehearsal. She took the place of Della Allen, as the latter was ill, which was the character of the opera singer. You may ask any of the play cast if the Kinton people don't know how to put up a real feed. They sure did stuff them. Also ask Shorty Erickson for the new horticulture name of peaches.

We wonder what happened to the idea, started by some business men, of securing a new curtain for the High School Auditorium. We would like to see this taken up soon, as we have numerous plays scheduled for the remainder of the year.

Hillsboro Men Have Ambulance
Organized as the Bell Ambulance Service, A. H. Baumgassner and Glenn P. Bell, of Hillsboro, have purchased a Pierce Arrow ambulance and are now giving the people of Washington County a 24 hour service with equipment as good as can be had anywhere. Both are experienced men, they have careful drivers ready at a moment's notice and a nurse is at all times available. This is a service which is sadly needed in this county and as these two men have supplied the need with the best possible equipment, are ready at a minute's notice and the cost is no greater and the time less than required for any of the Portland ambulances, it is hoped that the new firm will receive a liberal amount of local business and that the venture will be more than justified by the returns.

We are all anxious to keep away from the ambulance as long as we can, but when the need does arise it will be convenient to know that a Washington County service is available.

LOCATION "JUST WEST OF COUNCIL CREST"

Ample Room and Ideal Grounds for Exposition Found at Foot of Portland Heights on West.

That there is ample room and an ideal location for the Atlantic and Pacific Highways and Electrical Exposition in 1925, at the west foot of Council Crest, just a mile and a quarter from Portland and less than five minutes from the heart of the city and that sufficient and suitable grounds and perfect landscaping for all exposition purposes abound between the west foot of the Council Crest heights and Beaverton, just slightly further west and all within four miles of Portland was emphasized at a meeting of the executive committee of the Beaverton Commercial Club Thursday night which was largely attended by residents of Raleigh, Olson, Shattuck and other points affected by the proposed location.

It was pointed out that this territory is already served by two highways and two electric lines and that transportation difficulties are not unsurmountable with present facilities but that the amplification of these facilities is a simple and easily accomplished matter that pales into insignificance when compared with the difficulties to be encountered in reaching any of the other proposed sites.

Traffic congestion is entirely avoided in getting to this site. All travel runs in parallel lines and there is no cross traffic from the time the heart of the city is left. Movement of cars and vehicles is facilitated by the knowledge that no cross roads and streets lead into the principal thoroughfares. It is a one-way traffic with no delays as soon as properly planned.

Each preliminary work was done which will bear fruit in the near future and committees are busily engaged today in activities that will produce tangible results before the end of another week.

PIONEER OF COUNTY PASSES TO REWARD

Paul D. Shackelford Answers Summons After Nearly 95 Years of Usefulness.

The grim reaper, on February 9, brought to a close a long and useful life when he called to the last rest Paul D. Shackelford, of Cedar Mills. Death followed a rather prolonged illness which was neither so sudden nor was the end unexpected by the patriarch and those who watched beside his bed.

Funeral services were held today at 10:00 o'clock from the funeral establishment of W. E. Pegg and the body was shipped to McMinnville where interment was made in the McMinnville cemetery.

Had he lived until March 26, Mr. Shackelford would have been 95 years of age. He is survived by two sons, Delbert and William, and by one daughter, Miss Mary E. Shackelford.

He was one of the pioneer citizens of this county, having made his home here for more than 68 years.

The Times will give a fuller biography next week.

NEXT WEEK IS PRUNE WEEK IN OREGON

Governor Olcott Issues Proclamation. Approved by State Leaders in all Activities of Life.

The idea of setting aside a week to be known as Oregon Prune Week, during which time efforts will be made to induce every resident of the State to consume a quantity of Oregon grown prunes, or to send to Eastern friends a quantity of the fruit, is credited to Fred A. Kurtz, son of G. Frederick Kurtz, the pioneer of the prune industry in Oregon. Plans for the campaign include a proclamation by the Governor, in which he will ask the co-operation of the people of the State to get behind the movement to boost one of Oregon's leading products; the active support of the leading clubs and commercial organizations; publicity through the press of the State, announcing the address of the grower's agents where orders may be sent for quantities of the fruit which will be laid down at any railroad station or postoffice at a price within the reach of all; special prominence given by the hotels and restaurants in serving the fruit during the campaign, and many other forceful ways of bringing the prune prominently before the people.

This year's prune crop is given as 30,000,000 pounds. Of this amount there remains approximately 23,000,000 pounds, unsold and in the hands of the growers and packers. The growers have decided to sell their product at a reduced figure in order to close out their holdings and to leave a clean slate for next year's crop. By this method, it is claimed, both the grower and consumer will be benefited.

Leading men of the State, in all lines of activity, have given their hearty approval to the plan and are unanimous in their prediction that when launched the campaign will be a great success, resulting in unending good to the prune industry.

Prune Week is February 14th to 19th, and if successful will be made an annual event.

February 5, 1921. To the People of the State of Oregon: The prune industry is one of the greatest horticultural industries within the state of Oregon. Nearly forty thousand acres of our finest agricultural lands are planted with prune trees. Last year, despite adverse weather conditions, thirty million pounds of prunes were harvested in the state. Of this number but eight million have been sold. The twenty-two million pounds unsold represent an enormous asset to the State of Oregon if they can be moved and placed in the hands of consumers. The fact that they are lying idle jeopardizes this enormous industry. The people of the State of Oregon should give widest co-operation to the prune growers to meet the grave situation.

I hereby designate the week from February 14th to February 19th, inclusive, as Prune Week within this state. I call upon the good spirit of our people to join in a movement to assist this great industry, not only for the good of the industry itself, but for the good of the people of the state as a whole. I urge that every home in Oregon take advantage of the opportunity which is presented by the prune growers to become well stocked with this nourishing and healthy fruit. I ask co-operation from hotels, grocers, restaurants, or from any other source which may give assistance, and I also bespeak the hearty co-operation of the press, which is always freely given in the furtherance of every proper and beneficial movement. This is a serious situation, involving the welfare of thousands of our best citizens. Prompt and hearty response from the people of Oregon in the purchase of one of our greatest home products will relieve the situation and bring about a quick betterment of conditions. I am certain the appeal of the prune growers will not be in vain.

Very sincerely yours,
BEN W. OLCOTT,
Governor.

NEIGHBORS GIVE HELP WHEN FIRE BRINGS LOSS

Friends of J. A. McLeod Give Substantial Assistance When Burn and Crop Burns.

Honest helpfulness and sincere substantial sympathy are not lost virtues and material aid in adversity still lives in our locality. Such was amply proven when a few weeks ago a fire destroyed the barn, team, cows and crop of J. A. McLeod. Knowing that such a loss at this time means a severe blow to the unfortunate farmer, friends came to his rescue and without the knowledge of the fire victim, raised a substantial sum to help repair the loss. Mr. and Mrs. McLeod and family desire to express their fondest appreciation to their friends through the columns of the Times.

ALL STAR CAST IN YUKON PLAY

Three principal roles, all portrayed by featured players, mark the production of "Under Northern Lights," Jacques Jacard's story of the Canadian Northwest, which will be shown at the Pacific Theatre next Sunday. Leonard Clapham, Virginia Faire, and William Buckley enact the three leading characters. Buckley plays the part of Douglas MacLeod, corporal in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police; the Virginia Faire is seen in the role of Susanne Fouchard, and Leonard Clapham as her brother, Jacques Fouchard.

William Buckley is the veteran of the trio as far as experience in the films is concerned, for although this young fellow is still below the score and five mark, his screen career dates back to 1912 when he first played young boy parts with Essanay. Before that time he was the juvenile member of the stock company playing at the Bush Temple Theatre in Chicago. And just to illustrate what a busy fellow Buckley was while he was growing up, he attended high school while he was acting and later went to Northwestern University Law School in the evenings and carried away an I.L.B.

On the stage, Buckley also appeared in stock in Denver and Kansas City, and in road productions of "Brown of Harvard," "The boys of Company B" and other plays of youth.

On the screen the young player has supported Mary Pickford, Mabel Normand, May Allison and other well known stars.

Leonard Clapham has spent the last four years in the films doing most of his acting in Universal pictures. Virginia Faire is the winner of the recent Fame and Fortune Contest in New York.
