OREGON SHOES MAY SAVE ARMENIAN CHILDREN

The relief party of which J. J. Handaker, State Director of Near East Relief for Oregon, is a member, sailed Wednesday by special relief ship from Constantinople to Batoum. Mr. Handaker will furnish articles for the News-Times while on his trip.

Batoum on the Black Sea is the seaport gateway to the heart of Armenia and the Caucasus region. It was at Batoum last April where just ten bags of flour remained in the whole city when the first relief ship permitted to enter for four months arrived, while at Alexandropol, one hundred and thirty miles inland, in the largest orphanage in the world, eight-hundred orphans and seven American relief workers were on their last day of half rations, when the first train load of American flour arrived. They had been reduced to half rations for thirty days and one hundred and sixty-five children died of under-nourishment during the last week.

A recent cablegram from this same section states that thirty-five thousand Armenian orphans are now being cared for by the Near East Relief in Transcaucasia and that according to H. C. Jaquith, Near East Relief Director, eighteen thousand of these children are faced with the prospect of having to go barefooted during the coming winter unless timely aid arrives from America. This is a region of zero weather and heavy snow in winter.

Oregon shoes may play their part in preventing such a tragedy, as Mr. Handaker will spend the summer in relief work and expects to distribute personally many of the supplies contributed by Oregon friends to Near East Relief.

The Montana department of the American Legion is investigating the disappearance of F. A. Woodard, of Sidney, Montana, who has been the object of a three weeks' search. Woodard disappeared from his room at a Great Falls Hotel, where he had stopped over on his return from the convention at Lewistown. He had been one of the active delegates to the convention and was considered as a candidate for state adjutant.

Do You Know?

That unless the soft drink peddlers reduce their prices, the public should insure a buyer's strike and go back to plain water?

That enough money changed hands over the result of the big fight to pay the interest on the national debt for one year?

That it is estimated that it costs an average of $1,000 a year to own and keep up a high priced car, taking depreciation into account?

That we have been informed by a Forest Grove grain buyer that the price of new wheat will probably not be more than $1.00 a bushel?

That one of Henry Ford's former employees states in a recent magazine article that Henry manufactured during the month of May, 1913, 900 automobiles, which he sold at a profit of $18,000,000? That this would be a profit of nearly $200 on a machine, and if this story is true, Henry is a profiteer the same as the rest of us?

That the automobile industry is now the biggest in the world and all the manufacturers are making barrels of money?

That every garage in every city and town in the United States has all the work it can do repairing and keeping the automobiles in order?

That a truck farmer in Texas sold a ton of spinach to a dealer for $5, which the railroad delivered in Chicago for $20.50, and the consumer in Chicago paid 15 cents a pound for it, or at the rate of $300 a ton?

That the farmers inaugurated a "buyers' strike" on farm implements last spring and are still keeping it up, as every farm implement dealer can tell you?

That about $12 worth of farmers' wheat bring about $587 when made into bread?

That a year ago a bushel of oats bought three gallons of gasoline and today it buys less than a gallon and a half?

That a good big cow hide will bring about 75 cents on the market but it still costs about $1.50 to half-sole your shoes?

That there is barely $2.00 worth of wool in a "woolen" suit of clothes, but such a suit still costs from $30 to $65?

That if the cotton growers gave their cotton away, it would reduce the cost of cotton shirts only seven cents?

That a dozen of eggs a year ago bought two pounds of coffee, but today it takes two dozen eggs for only one pound of coffee?

That, within the last few weeks cheese has dropped to the producer, but the retail dealer charges within a few cents of the price paid during the war? That this is not the fault of the retail dealer, but of the jobbers and middlemen, who are profiteering on cheese the same as they are on nearly every food commodity?

That it takes a mighty good beef steer to bring $7.75 a hundred on the market, but the retail price of beef is nearly as high as it was when fat steers sold for $19 a hundred?

That a noiseless, smokeless gun has been invented that will hurl a 5-ton projectile from 200 to 300 miles. That an ordinance expert says this gun will do more eventually to bring about peace than the peace conference, as it will make war too terrible for nations to engage in war?

That during the first five months of 1921 there were 7,715 business failures in the United States, compared with 2,278 for the corresponding period of 1920?

That the same thing is said about the new poisonous gases that have been invented, called the "law of death," which can destroy a big city or a regiment of soldiers in a few minutes?

That it is a sad commentary on modern civilization when the fear of being annihilated is the only thing that keeps them from fighting each other? Yet Robert Burns once said, "The fear o' hell's the hangman's whip, to hold the wretch in order," and this applies to nations as well as to individual wretches!

That there are many facts indicating that the business pendulum of the United States is returning in the direction of business recovery?

That if the per capita consumption of meat and meat products were suddenly returned to normal the demand for meat would be far greater than the supply?

That there are about 3,000,000 persons ordinarily employed in the industries of the United States, now out of employment?

It has been demonstrated that the family of a man who has employment consumes three times as much of the things people eat, wear and use, as it does when the head of the family is out of employment?

Latest information indicates, according to E. T. Meredith, former Secretary of Agriculture, that the number of unemployed has probably reached the maximum, and that unemployment is now on the decline?

That a merchant who doesn't go in search of customers should not expect the customers to search for him?

That a colt is almost a curiosity now?

That the National Horse Association reports there are 115,463 less horses at work in cities, towns and villages in 1920 than there were in 1910?

RURAL ENTERTAINMENT REQUIRES LITTLE CASH

Rural entertainment is an important means of fostering community spirit, in the opinion of Miss Norma Olson, instructor in expression and dramatic art at the Oregon Agricultural College.

"When persons are brought together and each one gives something to do, more community is aroused," said Miss Olson.

"One person with a knowledge of dramatics can do much in a small town or farming community. By means of the drama the school can be made the center of interest, and persons who have no time or money to go to the larger towns can have in a small way, the art and beauty they crave.

"Little cash outlay is necessary. Electric lights are not necessary. Someone in the community will know enough of electricity to work out a system for lighting with the use of batteries. Expensive scenery is not required because green denim can be used effectively. Anyone who likes to sew would be glad to design and make costumes.

"What is more important the people learn to appreciate good plays and those who take part lose their self-consciousness and are able to appear before the public without fear. When there is community spirit and entertainment people become more satisfied with their life in the small community."

FOREST FIRES REPORTED IN OREGON FOR JULY

The total number of fires reported to the State Forester up to August 1 was 99. These fires burned over 2220 acres, destroyed 35,000 board feet of merchantable timber and damaged logging and other property to the amount of $4,897.

Practically all wardens are now on duty and appointments issued aggregate 407. An unusually small amount has so far been spent by State and Associations for suppression. The bulk of fire fighting cost has fallen on operators. Slight rains have been experienced in few sections but at present the woods are dry and great care must be exercised.

County Fire Patrol Association states that extensive slash burning on the part of operators has been conducive of excellent results and that loss of timber has so far been very slight.

In Central Oregon territory Mr. J. H. Haner reports hot, dry weather but no fires of consequence. Klamath county experienced the loss of a saw-mill valued at $40,000 but no standing timber has been damaged.

The Northwestern Association of which Mr. C. C. Scott is secretary have had no fires resulting in loss of timber although fire causing considerable outlay on the part of operators have occurred.

Douglas County Association has had 28 small fires and one conviction for burning without permit has been secured.

The Forest Service (District 6) embracing Oregon and Washington reports 237 fires since July 1, only 15 of which were class C fires. Cost of fires was $1133.00 and a total of 23 convictions for violation of fire laws were secured.

SPRAYING POTATOES FOR BLIGHT IS RECOMMENDED

Spraying potatoes for blight in certain sections of Oregon is important this time of year, says M. B. McKay, associate plant pathologist, of O. A. C.

"Producers living in western Oregon, particularly in the lower Columbia and Willamette valleys, and also in the coast counties should be especially watchful of their crop for late blight," suggests Professor McKay. "One grower near Salem lost his entire crop last year on account of this disease. It rarely attacks the crops of the upper valley sections.

"Bordeaux mixture, 5-5-50, is considered the best spray for the blight. This solution will not kill it but will check its spread. When the blight is expected to appear the first applications should be made every 10 days or two weeks, if the disease seems extremely destructive."

Copper sulphate, diluted 1 pound to 10 gallons of water, is also good spray according to Professor McKay, provided Bordeaux mixture has not been used. It should be sprayed well on the vines and soil on the surface of the ground. Potatoes can be dug a few days after this application, but after the last spraying of Bordeaux mixture one should not dig until two weeks after the vines have died. This is to give the germs a chance to die out so the potatoes will not become infected.

"The benefits of spraying offset by far the cost and trouble," says this specialist. "Spraying increases the yield whether or not potatoes have blight. It makes the plant more vigorous, and increases the yield of tubers. It also repels flea beetle which is a common potato pest."
