

THE CONDON GLOBE.

FRIDAY, APRIL 29, 1892.

NOTICE.

The yearly subscription to the GLOBE is $1.00, invariably in advance. No deviation from this rule. The paper will be stopped at the end of the time for which it is paid unless further ordered and paid for. A blue pencil mark around this notice indicates that your subscription has expired, and if you wish the paper continued you should remit the amount as soon as possible.

GLOBOSITIES.

County court meets next Monday.

It may be an early spring, but it is a little late in getting started.

Sheriff Wilcox and Howard Tobey went over to Fossil on Wednesday.

Mrs. D. S. Brown has been on the sick list this week, but is recovering.

Born, April 25, 1892, to the wife of Wm. Pierce, near Idea, a daughter.

Miss Dora Downing visited the family of C. Schott on Rock creek this week.

The festive campaign liar will have his auger in from now until June 6th.

Remember the big dance at Condon next Monday night, May 21. It will be a grand affair.

See the ad elsewhere of Ed Palmer's beautiful stallions. Also of J. E. Downer's fine horse.

T. L. Donoho began teaching a term of school at Paulina, Crook county, last week.—Prineville News.

The GLOBE has several thousand blanks—mortgage and warranty deeds, chattel mortgage, etc., for sale cheap.

Rev. A. S. Mulligan and wife of Fossil, and Rev. Morehead of Waldron, visited Condon and vicinity this week.

J. H. Nelson this week had horse bills printed for his fine stallion, "Tom," one of the best horses in the country.

Felix Stricklin returned to Condon this week, after disposing of a band of horses which he took to the valley last fall.

We are compelled to hold over two interesting letters—one from Crown Rock, the other from The Dalles, until next week.

Born, April 19th, to the wife of Chas. W. Burton, near Condon, a bouncing son. By careful nursing, Charlie will recover.

Several arrests were made at Condon the first of the week, and as a result, the school fund weasel skin contains a few more $.

H. M. Hoss and family moved into the Thurnagle building this week, where they will reside until Henry builds a dwelling this fall.

Albert Halstead, another of Herbert's brothers, came up this week from Coos county, and expects to work in Harry's sawmill in Lost Valley.

T. G. Johnson and John Maddock made a trip to Forest Grove last week, where Johnnie expects to remain a couple of weeks for medical treatment.

Pat Skelly has just had placed in his saloon a "pigeon-hole" table, for the amusement of the boys, and they're not slow about "catching on," eye-ther.

This week, Jas. Weaver and father, of Prineville, and Ed Raner, B. Pettijohn and D. M. Walton, of Mayville, all went up to work a couple of months on the Yakima ditch.

Mrs. Shaw's house caught fire Tuesday morning from a defective flue, and but for the prompt application of water, Condon would have suffered another conflagration.

Masonic Lecturer Samuel C. Donaldson, Chas. Branson, G. J. Caven, Elmer Barnard and Dr. Palmer, all of Fossil, were visible to the naked eye on our streets this week.

Rev. Wise will preach at Fossil next Sunday, morning and evening. Rev. Mulligan of Fossil will preach at Condon next Sunday, morning and evening. Also Saturday evening, April 30th.

Sheriff Wilcox and deputy Anthony returned home Thursday evening from Salem, where they escorted F. M. Judd and B. F. Lackey to board and lodge at the state's expense for one year each.

We are about to begin building, and everyone knows that it takes lots of money to build. Therefore, we will have to kindly ask all who know themselves indebted in any way to the GLOBE, to please settle as soon as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucas visited the family of B. T. Snell on Rock creek the first of the week. Mrs. Lucas became very sick Sunday, and Dr. Nicklin was hastily summoned. She will probably remain on the creek a few days or a week.

Tom Johnson bought two more lots in North Condon this week. Tom has been brushing around lately in a very suspicious manner. Our readers may expect him to furnish a first-class item for this official weekly in a very short time.

The Condon people feel proud over the honor bestowed upon them by the nomination of our fellow townsman, Geo. W. Rinehart, for joint senator of Wasco, Sherman and Gilliam counties. Mr. Rinehart is composed of the proper material for a good statesman, and will make a very strong run.

A few of the boys became a little wild and woolly Sunday night at Condon. On Monday morning Henry Hawk had a warrant sworn out for the arrest of Ben Pettijohn, the complaint being for "assault with a deadly weapon"—a chair. Ben waived examination, and Squire Tatom bound him over to appear before the grand jury in the sum of $100. The proceedings were recently finished.

Herbert Halstead received official notice this week from the Postmaster-General that Matney postoffice will be discontinued after April 30th—next Saturday. All mail heretofore sent to that office will now be delivered at Condon.

The financial statements of the county officers this week occupy a good deal of our usual news space, but these statements will prove very interesting news to the taxpayers. Read them carefully, also all the other advertisements this week.

We acknowledge a pleasant call Saturday from our respected friend, Mr. Caleb Perin of Pine creek, and his daughter and niece, Mrs. E. A. Stinchfield and her daughter, Miss Mary Rippey, of Mayville. They were all over to the county seat on business. Mr. Perin says there will be doodles of fruit of all kinds on Pine creek this season.

Commenting on Mr. Rinehart's nomination for joint senator, the Eugene Guard, the leading paper of Lane county, says: "George W. Rinehart, an old citizen of Lane county, formerly a resident of Crewell precinct, has been nominated for joint senator of Gilliam, Sherman and Wasco counties by the democrats. He is a first-class man, and his old neighbors in Lane county, irrespective of politics, wish to see him elected. He is an honest, upright man."

This week John Meek bought 80 more acres of railroad land, adjoining his mother's place on the west—the 3 1/2 NW 1/4 sec 33 tp 3 s of r 20 e. Mrs. Meek and sons now own over 1000 acres of as good land as there is in Ferry Canyon, all being well watered and tillable. There are yet thousands of acres of excellent government land in that vicinity, and as it is among the best land in the country, it will not be long until all of it is gobbled up.

Several wells in town are being "erected" this week. Several feet of excellent water has been reached within ten feet of the surface on Tom Johnson's lots a few rods from the county buildings. Work was begun Tuesday on J. H. Miller's well on his property in the south end of town. Should water be secured there, it will be a valuable addition to that part of the town. The silly gush about "no water at Condon" has been most effectually knocked in the head for a long time. Abundance of water can be found anywhere in the entire town by digging for it, within a few feet of the surface. Sufficient water—the best in the country, can be secured in Condon, from wells, to supply a city of 5000 people—just the number we expect to have here within five years.

As we stated last week, we can not give the news unless we hear it. No matter what happens that you think would make an item, tell us about it. If you buy a lot anywhere in town, let us know it. If you have bought it "on the square"—that is, had it recorded by the clerk, we shall always be glad to mention it as a matter of news—even if it is more of an advertisement than anything else. Do not think we are here to run the paper for fun and accommodation. We can't buy paper with that kind of pay. If you have real estate or anything else to sell, advertise and pay for it. We are not under obligations to boom up any certain portion of real estate, simply because the owner is anxious to boom his part of the town. We are not in that line of business.

A. Henshaw is levelling off the ground this week preparatory to commencing work on his new furniture store. J. H. Miller is making preparations to build an addition onto the south side of his store building, his rapidly growing trade making it necessary to enlarge his store. Geo. Knox will begin the erection of a large livery stable next week on his two lots which he just purchased north of where the Glasgow barn stood, and a number of other new buildings will be built here this spring. Altogether there is more push and vim at Condon than at any town in the state for its size. The way real estate is changing hands, and the deafening roar of the hammer and saw, indicates that Condon is destined to be the largest and best town in Eastern Oregon within five years. It is the kind of a town people are not afraid to invest their money in. Now is the time to invest your money and go into business here while property is cheap.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Several wells in town are being "erected" this week. Several feet of excellent water has been reached within ten feet of the surface on Tom Johnson's lots a few rods from the county buildings. Work was begun Tuesday on J. H. Miller's well on his property in the south end of town. Should water be secured there, it will be a valuable addition to that part of the town. The silly gush about "no water at Condon" has been most effectually knocked in the head for a long time. Abundance of water can be found anywhere in the entire town by digging for it, within a few feet of the surface. Sufficient water—the best in the country, can be secured in Condon, from wells, to supply a city of 5000 people—just the number we expect to have here within five years.

As we stated last week, we can not give the news unless we hear it. No matter what happens that you think would make an item, tell us about it. If you buy a lot anywhere in town, let us know it. If you have bought it "on the square"—that is, had it recorded by the clerk, we shall always be glad to mention it as a matter of news—even if it is more of an advertisement than anything else. Do not think we are here to run the paper for fun and accommodation. We can't buy paper with that kind of pay. If you have real estate or anything else to sell, advertise and pay for it. We are not under obligations to boom up any certain portion of real estate, simply because the owner is anxious to boom his part of the town. We are not in that line of business.

A. Henshaw is levelling off the ground this week preparatory to commencing work on his new furniture store. J. H. Miller is making preparations to build an addition onto the south side of his store building, his rapidly growing trade making it necessary to enlarge his store. Geo. Knox will begin the erection of a large livery stable next week on his two lots which he just purchased north of where the Glasgow barn stood, and a number of other new buildings will be built here this spring. Altogether there is more push and vim at Condon than at any town in the state for its size. The way real estate is changing hands, and the deafening roar of the hammer and saw, indicates that Condon is destined to be the largest and best town in Eastern Oregon within five years. It is the kind of a town people are not afraid to invest their money in. Now is the time to invest your money and go into business here while property is cheap.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.

Nearly every time this powerful and popular weekly is issued, a half-dozen people or more (who know exactly how a paper ought to be run) call the editor's attention to something published that "don't just suit them," etc., that such and such item should not have been published; that such and such candidate ought to be literally roasted by the paper; and in fact they don't know themselves what they are scouring about but they want to scour anyway. There isn't a paper in the world that can please everybody, and we have no desire to be an exception from all the rest. However, we are proud of the fact that the people are anxious each week to see what the GLOBE has to say. A paper that hasn't enough life about it to keep up such an interest, isn't the kind the public care to read. Yet all our readers who have any judgment at all, admit that the GLOBE is doing more good right along for Condon, in the way of attracting people and capital here, and increasing the value of all the town property, than all the other factors combined. What more ought any reasonable man expect of the paper? Some people would kick if they were to be hung.