THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

NURSING THE VIPERS.

Grants Pass Courier: Evidence multiplies daily to prove that this country in throwing her doors open so wide to "the oppressed of all nations," has put her foot in it and has cast pearls before a whole lot of pigs. Wherever foreigners have been allowed to concentrate in any great numbers, Americans have had to move. American liberty has been trampled upon, bigotry and intolerance established and open anarchy has reigned in its stead. The late assassination of Frick at Homestead, Pa., by a nihilist shows the kind of stock the "refuge of oppression" has been harboring. Yet, when will congress be brave enough to restrict our immigration laws in such a way that paupers, criminals and anarchists may be kept out? After the steed of liberty and equality has been replaced by anarchy, oppression and intolerance, there will be very little use of trying to lock the door. The doors will be locked on the lovers of true liberty themselves, and they will have to find some other clime where property rights will be respected, and murder in all its forms condemned.

In conversation with one of our enterprising farmers the other day the News man was informed that Grant county, instead of offering a bounty on squirrel scalps—which Morrow county tried and found ruinous—should protect badgers, skunks, wildcats, and even coyotes, by making it a misdemeanor to kill them. These animals are all great destroyers of squirrels, and before their wanton destruction became so common, the farmers' grain fields and gardens grew unmolested. Now, if they are destroyed, it is the farmer's own fault, for he has been instrumental in the death of the animals that destroyed thousands of squirrels every season. This farmer also said that he had often met his neighbors, who would boast of having just been instrumental in the ignominious death of some unoffending badger or skunk, and who in the next breath would whine about the squirrels eating their crops, and want the county court to fix a bounty and pay them for killing squirrels. Farmers and sheepmen, protect the badgers and skunks, as well as other useful animals. They will not be apt to eat your chickens while squirrels are plenty.—Grant County News.

Professor Burggrave, of the University of Ghent, Belgium, has just published a book in which he shows that salt is possible for all persons to use. He recommends salt as the universal cure for all physical ailments. Long life, he says, is secured by the proper use of salt. Good health, in his opinion, does not depend upon chance or physical makeup. The laws which regulate human life are silent, natural agents, and we must see to it that they are allowed free development. Salt, according to his theory, is the principal regulating power. If the blood in a human organism is too thick, salt will make it thin. If it is too thin, salt will strengthen it. The Belgian scientist further asserts that salt is an infallible safeguard against consumption and cholera. The Russian peasants are protecting themselves from pestilence by drinking milk seasoned with salt. Should Professor Burggrave live to be 100 years old, or older, by following out his theory, his book will have more weight with future generations than it will have with this.

The world's fair is to be closed on Sunday. That will make a rich harvest for the dive-keepers of the city who are bound to thrive when thousands of strangers are turned loose, with no respectable place of amusement to go to.

President Harrison informs us that he has issued a proclamation appointing Friday, October 21, '92, the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus as Life imprisonment in the Oregon state penitentiary does not mean life by a great deal, if the prisoner has any desire to earn marks of credit for good behavior. The code defines a life sentence as follows: If for the term of fifteen years any person has been sentenced to be imprisoned for life is reported by the superintendent to the governor to have earned two-thirds of the time that he or she is confined, and if the governor in his opinion believes the facts so reported warrant, he may grant a full pardon to said convict.

It is the habit of congress to allow one year's salary to the family of a senator or representative who dies during his term of office. This was offered to the wife of the late Senator Plumb and it was refused. We would like to know what right congress has of doling out the people's money in charity, anyway? Mrs. Plumb deserves credit for thus mildly rebuking congress, and has set a good example for others. Congress is entirely too free in squandering the people's money.

The boy who fools with a wasp will most assuredly come to a bad end.
