EDUCATIONAL NOTES. Estimate of the Cost of an Education at Harvard—Mrs. Logan Undertakes a Great Task.

India is starting technical schools. The oldest English public school is Winchester, founded in 1837.

Laundry work is now being taught in some of the schools of England. The Queen of Italy is at the head of an industrial college for women, founded by herself.

Providence is to have a permanent exhibition of Rhode Island industries and in connection a school of technology. The coming year at Harvard University a new dormitory, costing $150,000, is to be built for the accommodation of students.

Miss Dora Miller, a teacher in New Orleans, has been offered $5,000 for the right in a black-board eraser she has patented. Among the additions to the faculty at Amherst College this year will be the filling of the chair of romance languages, which was endowed last year.

Daily papers are now published by seven universities and colleges—Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Brown, Michigan, Cornell and the University of Wisconsin. James Richard Cooke, who graduated from the Boston University school of medicine last June, is the first person totally blind from infancy to receive a degree as physician.

There are 68,963 pupils registered in Boston this year, of whom 36,218 are boys and 32,745 girls. The average cost per pupil is $24.55, an increase of 7 cents over the cost last year.

The most idiotic college yell is probably that of the senior class of the Kansas State University. It is: "Johnny take a bite, Susie took a chew. Rock chalk, jaw hawk, class of '92."—Minneapolis Journal.

Miss Brownell has been teaching Pima Indian children at Tucson, A. T. In four years her class increased from 4 to 165. This is her verdict: "It pays to teach them, as they do just as well as white children."

An English physician, who has made a study of bronchial diseases, says that women teachers are subject to a peculiar throat affection. He recommends that they be taught in training schools how to manage the voice.

The cost of an education at Harvard is estimated from $372 (low) to $1,000 (very liberal) a year; at Princeton it is from $311 to $645; at Cornell from $350 to $590. The Lawrence University puts the yearly expense as low as $175.

The results of the midsummer examinations of the Royal University of Ireland have just been announced. The successes of the women students far exceed the most sanguine expectations. No fewer than 132 have passed their matriculations.

Mrs. John A. Logan has undertaken to raise $1,000,000 from the women of this country for the American University, the national institution founded by the Methodists at Washington. The university expects to secure $10,000,000 for buildings and endowment.

The following American colleges have been represented in the office of President of the United States: Princeton, Bowdoin, Williams, Dixon, Hampden, Sydney, Kenyon, University of North Carolina, West Point and Miami. William and Mary College has supplied two Presidents; Harvard two.

In the death of Rev. John Wilder Eton has lost one of its firmest friends. Mr. Wilder was Vice Provost and Fellow of the school. He was appointed assistant master at Eton about 1824, and had been connected with the school for sixty-eight years. Mr. Wilder was a munificent benefactor to the school.

PURELY PERSONAL. Stonewall Jackson's Widow Devotes All Her Energies to the Education of Her Two Grandchildren.

W. W. Astor's daily income has been estimated at $23,000. Bismarck weighs 210 pounds. Not so very much for a man of iron.

Arthur McKee Rankin, the well-known actor, has been denied a divorce from his wife. Blackburn, Knott and Buckner, three eminent Kentuckians, smoke the corn-cob pipe.

General Greely, the head of the signal corps, ridicules the idea of signaling the people of Mars. Ex-President R. B. Hayes has purchased a lot for a summer residence at Raupond, near Wilmington, Vt.

Mrs. Ole Bull makes her home in Boston with her brother Joe, who married one of the poet Longfellow's daughters. Emanuel Lasker, the chess player, who recently defeated Mr. Blackburne, the English champion, is only 24 years old.

Senator Dawes of Massachusetts once had a chance to take stock in the Bell Telephone Company, which would have made him a millionaire had he accepted. Parson Kneipp of Germany, the basis of whose medical system is water and going barefooted, has been called upon for advice and treatment by the Empress of Austria.
