

DEMAND THE DIFFERENCE.

In buying baking powders, as well as anything else, insist upon having the worth of your money. If another brand is urged upon you in place of the Royal, bear in mind that it has from 27 to 50 per cent. less leavening strength than the Royal, as shown by the official chemical tests, which is equal to from 13½ to 25 cents per pound less value than the Royal. If you buy a low class powder, see that you are charged a correspondingly lower price.

A Firm of Females.

Touse a slang expression, the women are "getting there in great shape" in every part of the world. There is in London a firm of women tea merchants who have bought an estate in Ceylon, and carry on their business entirely through women blenders, tasters, packers and agents. The rooms where this essentially feminine luxury is dispensed in London are marvelously decorated and daintily appointed and are becoming a favorite rendezvous for women.

"August Flower"

"I am happy to state to you and to suffering humanity, that my wife has used your wonderful remedy, August Flower, for sick headache and palpitation of the heart, with satisfactory results. For several years she has been a great sufferer, has been under the treatment of eminent physicians in this city and Boston, and found little relief. She was induced to try August Flower, which gave immediate relief. We cannot say too much for it." L. C. Frost, Springfield, Mass.

Nature gives an interesting account of an incident illustrative of animal instinct which recently took place in Scotland. The supply of water from a neighboring lake had been interfered with for ten successive nights. On an examination being made each morning a number of eels were discovered in the sluice, where the water was ten feet deep. Thirty altogether were found, all females. One of these, thirty-two inches long and about two pounds in weight, was examined. The ovary, which was about twelve inches long in situ, and about thirty inches long when unraveled, was calculated to contain 10,000,000 eggs in various stages of development. There is little doubt that these eels formed a part of a band migrating to the sea (the smaller specimens escaping and the larger being caught), and judging from the condition of the ovary it would appear that they were impelled by the instinct of reproduction.

Looking for a Job at 65.

A farmer not less than 65 entered the office of one of our cotton mills the other day and asked the genial agent for a job at bookkeeping. He said he'd farmed it from a boy up, and that he had decided to try something easier the rest of his days. He said, too, that he had not been educated in keeping books, but he was confident he could do it. The agent who tells of the incident says he heard the old gentleman's story and kindly told him that he saw no vacancy then, but that he would remember him.—Lewiston Journal.

A Successful Novelist.

Mr. Rider Haggard belongs to an excellent Norfolk family of Danish extraction, and is a tall, slight, handsome man, with full blue eyes, fair complexion and brown hair. From 18 to 23 he lived in South Africa, and probably knows more of the country and its languages than any other living Englishman. He was a briefless barrister before he flowered into a successful novelist, and although he has published eleven long stories he is barely 34 years of age.—Exchange.

McCusick—Poor old Maj. Jones died last night. He was a good man.

Ferguson—Dead? There he is walking on the other side of the street.
McCusick—By Jove, that's so! He could not have read of his death in yesterday evening's paper, or he would not be prowling about the streets that way.—Texas Siftings.

Watering Plants.

In watering plants under glass avoid extremes and give each part of the house just the amount of water that is required. Considerable good judgment is required in this, else some plants in the same house may suffer from dryness, while others are injured by overwatering.—Christian at Work.

PUT DOWN BY THE DOG

HOW A REVOLUTION WAS SUPPRESSED BY A PLAYFUL PUP.

The Bull Pup Thought There Was a Grand Opportunity to Have Some Fun and Started in to Enjoy Himself—Consternation Among the Revolutionists.

Another revolution has been suppressed in Hawaii, and the supporters of the queen are congratulating themselves on the strength of the government. Other people recall the fact that the first Wilcox rebellion was suppressed by a baseball pitcher after the king had been driven to the royal boathouse for protection. A few who know are also telling the merry tale of how Harry Gillig's bull pup put down a revolution, saved a throne and scattered the leaguer armies of the rebels—all in the opera bouffe kingdom of the Colorado Maduros. This is the story George Nagle tells:

"We were at the islands a year or two ago—Harry Gillig, Frank Unger, myself and Pierrot. Pierrot was Harry's bull pup, the joy of his owner's life, the pride of his heart. He was a fierce, bloodthirsty looking brute, and whenever a true sport would pass him the covetous regard which the man would show for the dog would make the cold chills of apprehension play leapfrog in Gillig's spinal marrow. As a matter of fact, though, Pierrot was as playful and quite as harmless as a kitten. He never bit anything in his life except the sweetbreads, chateaubriands and such delicacies with which his indulgent owner pampered him.

"Well, at the islands David Kalakaua was king—and a kindlier man never lived. He showed us marked attention; arranged feasts in our behalf, made me governor of an island for a day, and lost his money to us at poker. He spent nearly as much time at our cottage as he did at the palace, which was close at hand. We grew to have a genuine regard for him, because, whatever his faults, he was every inch a king in the generosity of his impulses and the love which he bore for his subjects.

"There was a condition then prevailing at the islands somewhat similar to that preceding the arrest of Wilcox, Ashford and the other conspirators. Discontent muttered on the corners. An indefinable strain was in the political atmosphere. Without knowing why, the onlooker felt that rebellion might set the alarm bells ringing at any moment. The wrecking of a government might have been precipitated by the jostling of a man on the sidewalk.

"The king was uneasy, though he kept a smiling face and his customary affability. Feeling as we did toward him, we shared in a measure his anxiety, and awaited the denouement with feverish impatience.

"The army was giving trouble. It had felt its power by putting down (with the aid of the baseball pitcher) the first Wilcox revolution. It became unreasonable in its demands, and the king was soon involved in trouble with his own troops.

"You know the Hawaiian army consists of about sixty-seven men and half as many officers. But though small, it is the one military prop of the island kingdom, and it has relatively as much power and importance as the Kaiser's marshaled millions. And so it was that when fierce discontent and whispered denunciation were rife in the army the people's faces blanched and apprehension mingled in the merriest rout.

"At last it came. One night, as Gillig and I sat on the porch of our cottage, we heard 'the roll of the stirring drum' and the clangorous marching of armed men.

"The revolution has begun! The army is marching on the palace!" shouted Gillig.

"Being a brave, aggressive man, Harry grabbed a revolver and started on a run for the palace inclosure. Being more or less of a fool, I suppose, I ran after him without any revolver. Being a dog, Pierrot ran after us both.

"When we reached the palace we found the entire army just drawing into line in front of it. There was all the thunder of the captains and the shouting which a man's heart could wish. The army had come to make a demand on the king, and was prepared to enforce it with bullet and bayonet.

"Now pretty much everything on that trip had been arranged for Pierrot's amusement. So when he saw the gloriously caparisoned army drawn up in the glare of the palace lamps he supposed it was there as a part of his fun. With a bark and a bound he started to enjoy the army.

"Wow!"
"When Pierrot started for the army the army saw him coming. With his bow legs, wide jaw and red, overhanging jaw, he seemed a ravening beast. His onslaught was quick and noisy.

"The army stood its ground a moment, and then began to beat a retreat. The retreat was in an instant a rout. The rout became a scramble, with the dog take the hindmost for every man's motto. This was all the more fun for Pierrot. He gave expression to his joy in wild yowls of delight. Every few moments a gorgeous officer or slightly more subdued private would come leaping through the trees in a 'yellow cloud of fear,' Pierrot playfully cuffing his heels until attracted by some other scattered remnant of the leaguer host.

"The rebellion was suppressed, Kalakaua was maintained on the throne and Hawaii was again at peace—all on account of Harry Gillig's bull pup."—San Francisco Examiner.

Early English Umbrellas.

Two centuries ago the umbrella was known and used as a sunshade. Ben Jonson and Beaumont and Fletcher alluded to it. In 1713 it was used as a rain protector. Gay in his "Trivia" speaks of the "umbrella's oily shield," which was recorded as a kind of sou'-wester material more serviceable than gingham or silk, which was used in its construction at that period.—Detroit Free Press.

While waiting at a station in South Carolina one day I was joined by a man who carried an old fashioned satchel on his shoulder, and who had evidently walked many miles through the mud. He was fully 60 years of age, scrawny and homely, and he simply nodded to me and sat down on a bale of cotton. In about ten minutes along came a woman in home spun, fully his age and about as homely. She had also had a long walk. She nodded to me and sat down on another cotton bale. Not a word was said between us for ten minutes. Then as the whistle of the train was heard in the distance she said to the man:

"Then, Jim, you ar' gwine off ter jine the Mormons?"

"I am, Hannah," he replied.

"An' you won't take me?"

"No."

"And I'm to be left?"

"Yes."

"And it won't do no good to argify?"

"Not a bit."

"Well, then, good-by to you."

She started forward with extended arm, but passed his hand and seized the satchel and flung it thirty feet away. Then she grabbed him by the hair and they went off the platform into a mud hole together, and as the train moved away she was on top and jamming his head into the old gold soil and saying between the jabs:

"Want to jine the Mormons, do you? Want to leave the old wife who's dun lived with ye forty years? Want to jine—jine—jine, you old rabbit, you!"

Fifty passengers gave her three cheers and a tiger as she got a new hold on his patriarchal whiskers.—Detroit Free Press.

"Don't believe it kin."

"No, indeed, mum. Chicago is goin' to the dogs fast. People there are awful poor, while in Kansas City I find everybody is jine rollin' in wealth, and real estate's a-boomin'. Fast trains from Kansas City to New York won't stop at Chicago in another year."

"What have you got to sell?"

"Soap. Something new. Only $1 a cake."

"I'll take two."—New York Weekly.

—all the proper functions of womanhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the remedy. It regulates and promotes their action, and removes the obstructions and suppressions which cause trouble and misery. At the two critical periods in a woman's life—the change from girlhood to womanhood, and, later, the "change of life"—it is a perfectly safe and an especially valuable remedial agent, that can produce only good results.

It's a powerful, invigorating tonic, and a soothing and strengthening nerve; a legitimate medicine—purely vegetable, perfectly harmless—and carefully adapted, by an experienced physician, to woman's delicate needs.

For all the derangements, irregularities, and weaknesses peculiar to the sex, the "Favorite Prescription" is a remedy so certain that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't give satisfaction in every case, the money is returned. No other medicine for women is sold in this way. No other medicine can be.

VILE AND UNWORTHY

Of consideration are nostrums of which it is asserted—and there are many such—that they cure immediately bodily ailments of long standing. There are none such that can chronic disorders cannot be instantaneously removed. Continuity in the use of a genuine medicine, such as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, will eradicate chronic physical evils. Not the least of these last in the force of its opposition to medicine is constipation, to the removal of which, if persisted in, the Bitters is particularly adapted. Constipation of the bowels is a complaint which should be dealt with early and systematically. So are its usual attendant, liver complaint and dyspepsia. For these, for malaria, rheumatism, kidney trouble, and more recently "la grippe," this highly and professionally commended medicine is an undoubted specific. Nothing can exceed it, more over, as a means of imparting strength to the feeble and nervous.

If the time spent in looking for trouble could be turned to sawing wood, mighty few people would suffer from cold.

ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY.

W. J. Arkell, publisher of Judge and Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, writes: "JUDGE BUILDING, Cor. Fifth Ave. and Sixteenth St., NEW YORK, Jan. 14, 1891.

"About three weeks since, while suffering from a severe cold which had settled on my chest, I applied an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER, and in a short time obtained relief.

"In my opinion these plasters should be in every household, for use in case of coughs, colds, sprains, bruises or pains of any kind. I know that in my case the results have been entirely satisfactory and beneficial."

Colorless, Emaciated, Helpless A Complete Cure by HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

This is from Mr. D. M. Jordan, a retired farmer, and one of the most respected citizens of Otsego Co., N. Y.

"Fourteen years ago I had an attack of the gravel, and have since been troubled with my

Liver and Kidneys
gradually growing worse. Three years ago I got down so low that I could scarcely walk. I had no appetite and for five weeks I ate nothing but gruel. I was badly emaciated and had no more color than a marble statue. Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and I thought I would try it. Before I had finished the first bottle I noticed that I felt better, suffered less, the inflammation of the bladder had subsided, the color began to return to my face, and I began to feel hungry. After I had taken three bottles I could eat anything without hurting me. Why I got so hungry that I had to eat 5 times a day. I have now fully recovered, thanks to

Hood's Sarsaparilla
I feel well and am well. All who know me marvel to see me so well." D. M. JORDAN.
