THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

ROBBING THE PEOPLE.

The maximum number of soldiers in active service in all the armies of the United States at any time between Sumpter and Appomattox was 698,802, or, in round numbers, 700,000. This information is taken from the government records.

While this is true it is also true that there are 850,000 on the pension rolls drawing pay for valiant service in defense of their country. It plainly reveals that there are a large number of thieves on the pension rolls who have committed perjury in order that they might assist in robbing the people.

And to such men as these, politicians have thrown sops in exchange for their votes for years past. The country has been ruled by them. It is time the pension robbery should quit and the honest old soldier should be the first to meet the duty in defense of the country and his own rights.

The most effective way of purging the pension list of frauds and cheats is for congress to provide for the publication of a list of pensioners in each county, in the most widely-circulated newspaper in that county. Together with the name of the pensioner should be given the disability upon which the pension was granted and the amount paid. We are confident that the mere passage of such a law by congress would cause the striking or withdrawal of thousands of names from the pension list before publication could be made. Swindlers should be made to feel the heavy hand of the law.—New York Sun.

We are indebted to Hon. J. R. Ralston for the following interesting intelligence: It is not generally known that there positively exists a marked boundary line between Canada and the United States. Most people suppose the line to be "imaginary." But the fact is, the boundary is distinctly marked from Lake Michigan to the Pacific by cairns, pillars of iron, earth mounds and timber clearings. There are about 400 of these marks between the Lake of the Woods and the foot of the Rocky Mountains. The British have placed one post every two miles and the United States have alternated between each of the British posts. The posts are made of cast-iron, and on their faces are the words: "Convention of London, October 20, 1818." Where the line crosses through lakes, small mountains of stones have been built, rising eight or ten feet above the level of high water mark. In the forests, the line is defined by felling trees, making a clearing for a space of a rod wide.

A bill has passed both houses and been sent to the president, providing that all filings and proofs can be made before Commissioners of the U. S. circuit court and county clerks and county judges, under the Act of June 3, 1878, for the sale of lands more valuable for timber and stone than for agricultural purposes. This will be a great convenience for persons taking lands under this act, as heretofore it was necessary to go to The Dalles land office to file, and subsequently take their witnesses there also to prove up. The price of timber or stone land is $2.50 per acre. Residence and improvements are not necessary in order to make proof. Simply file, and the advertising then commences for proof, which must be made and money paid at same time according to date of notice, after the ten weeks and not less than ninety days from filing.

The Astorian is the first, and as yet the only paper west of St. Paul, to use a type-setting machine. The type-setter, manipulated by intelligence back of it, of course, does the entire composing work of the paper, 70,000 lines per day.

CANADA WANTS TO BE ANNEXED.

There is no questioning the fact that the inevitable destiny of Canada is annexation to the U. S. How soon the time will come we cannot say, but it is already a live and burning question in Canada, and sentiment favorable to it is growing constantly and rapidly. The press of the dominion is discussing the question with great freedom, and it is only necessary to glance over the columns of the Canadian papers to see that the idea already has a strong hold upon the public mind.

In a sentimental sense, Canada is absolutely loyal to England, yet all her interests plead with her to obliterate the border line that now separates her from the United States. Nothing but a customs union with her colonies could have alleviated the situation, but this has been deferred so long that, as Lord Salisbury confessed, it is hopeless now to attempt it.

The Buffalo Express says: "Canadian annexationists should remember one thing, however. So long as there is an element in their country which is intensely hostile to the United States, this country will not admit Canada. If they are ever going to join their fortunes with ours, they must do it unconditionally. The United States could not afford to annex a land in which there would be an opposition party always fighting to secede."

An exchange says that the post-office department has refused to accept the resignations of fourth-class postmasters or make appointments except in places where the postmaster dies or absconds. The department has learned that postmasters are resigning and securing the appointment of democrats or mugwumps, and oftentimes selling their business to the new man as a part of the consideration. Fourth Assistant Rathbone who has charge of these matters, says that it is unfair to the new administration, and the department does not care to be a party of such bargains and sales as many of them seem to be.

The state board of equalization Monday discussed the mortgage assessments. Attorney-Gen. Chamberlain was before the board and gave the opinion that the law contemplated that all real property, including mortgages, should be assessed at its full value. He believed that the board had the power to add to or deduct from the several classes of real property such percentage as would bring the property to its full value. The equalization of real property commenced "Tuesday. No final decisions have yet been reached on personal property.

Salem Statesman: In a letter to the state board of equalization, the assessor of Wasco county said his aim had been to assess mortgages at 75 per cent of their face. The Malheur assessor says he assessed mortgages at their face. As usual, the Multnomah assessor took them at 50 per cent, while nearly all of the other counties considered mortgages worth dollar for dollar and so assessed them.

The law to make train wrecking a capital offense would meet with general approval. The recent attempts to wreck Southern Pacific trains have intensified popular feeling upon this subject. It is not easy to imagine the horrors that might result from the wrecking of a passenger train. No mercy should be shown a fiend that would deliberately endanger innocent lives.

Susan B. Anthony thinks we are on the verge of an era of unmarried women, because young men do not make enough money to support their wives, and there is such a craze for dissipation among them that the women would rather go into a store for almost nothing than to take chances on marrying.

It must be dreadful when a professional singer knows that she has lost her voice. But it is still more dreadful when she is not aware of the fact.—Exchange.
