per ct. difference. Royal Baking Powder

Strongest, Purest, Most Economical.

As to whether any of the baking powders are equal to the "Royal," the official tests clearly determine. When samples of various baking powders were purchased from the grocers, and analyzed by the United States Government Chemists and the Chemists of State and City Boards of Health, the reports revealed the fact that the "Royal" contained from 28 per cent. to 60 per cent. more leavening strength than the others, and also that it was more perfectly combined, absolutely pure, and altogether wholesome.

As most of these powders are sold to consumers at the same price as the "Royal," by the use of the Royal Baking Powder there is an average saving of over one third, besides the advantage of assured purity and wholesomeness of food, and of bread, biscuit and cake made perfectly light, sweet, and palatable.

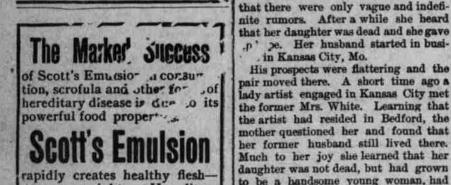

The official reports also reveal the presence, in other powders, of alum, lime or sulphuric acid, by which their use is made a matter of grave danger to the consumer. Whenever a baking powder is sold at a lower price than the "Royal," or with a gift, it is a certain indication that it is made from alum, and is to be avoided under all circumstances.

THE LONDON POLICE.

WHAT ASSISTANT DISTRICT AT-TORNEY WELLMAN OBSERVED.

The Force in the British Capital Something to Be Proud Of-Free from Political "Pulls"-Promotion Dependent Wholly Upon Merit.

During my visit to London I spent con-siderable time investigating the police force of that city. The listory of the London police has yet to be written, and a very curious record indeed would be that of the successive changes, always in the direction of improvement, which have been made in the constitution, the discipline and the dress of the metropolitan and city police since the force, established by act 10 of George IV, commenced duty on Sept. 29, 1839. Although the blundering and inefficient force of police constables had by this time discarded their swallow tailed coats and their stovepipe hats, the city authorities, excepting for a very short period in 1848, hesitated to provide the force with any weapon whatsoever excepting a lantern and a rattle.

Even as late as 1860 the metropolitan police force numbered only 5,300 consta-bles, although the city had over 3,000,000 inhabitants. At present its total strength in habitants. At present its total screngtu is 14,061, maintained at a cost of a little over £1,000,000 ($5,000,000). This civilian army was practically founded by the sec-ond Sir Robert Peel while home secretary, and was bitterly opposed in the outset by a large section of the public press. The London police force, once a national scan-dal, has now become, however, the par-donable pride of every inhabitant of the

is a sinle commissioner called the chief commissioner of police. He is appointed by the queen and holds his office for life. A general in the army of twenty years' standing is always selected for the placesome soldier who has distinguished himself for his executive ability. The present chief commissioner is Sir Edward Brad-ford, K. C. B., K. C. S. T., who organized the king of Persia's cavalry some years ago. His-salary is £2,500 or $12,500. This Thursday there was an affecting reanion of a mother and child after a long commissioner has the appointment of three separation. Twenty years ago, in Buf-falo, resided Mr. and Mrs. White and assistant commissioners at a salary of £1,500 ($7,500) and allowances of about £500 a year extra. These assistants are chosen from the ranks of barristers who trouble, and husband and wife separated. White, retaining possession of the child, removed to Bedford, O. There the little have distinguished themselves for upward of twelve years in the criminal courts. Next in rank come four chief constables, one was brought up in the belief that her who likewise must be chosen from the list of army officers in good standing. Years passed away, and both White and his wife married again. White marthe French people seems to have driven some of them to their wits' end in order to satisfy the appetite in an inexpensive manner. In 1862 a Frenchman invented and obtained a patent on a process for making sparkling wine or champagne at a price bringing it within the reach of all. His process is to take a bottle of ordinary still wine and pour into it a certain quantity of "Dutch bronze powder." The waiter then is instructed to shake the bottle violently before serv-ing it to the customer. This, the inventor says, "will disturb the brilliant particles of powder, causing them to circulate through the wine, giving it the appearance of a high grade sparkling wine." Dutch bronze is chemically known as bimuriate of stannan, and is poisonous. It is that substance in mauve ink which so quickly eats away a steel pen.-New York News.

Pure Food in Congress.

Fure Food in Congress. The act of Congress authorising the examination of the baking powders has resulted in a most unprecedented com-pliment to the Royal Baking Powder. The tests were made in the government laboratory at Washington, and the offi-cial report shows that the Royal is su-perior to all others in leavening strength —being over 30 per cent. above the av-erage. The report also shows the purity of the Royal Powder and the wholesome-ness of its ingredients.

of the Royal Powder and the wholesome-ness of its ingredients. This is probably the highest compli-ment of an official character ever paid to a proprietary article, though no more than the great army of baking powder consumers would expect in behalf of their old friend and favorite. The result of the official examination, as thus detarmined will of course make as thus determined, will, of course, make she "Royal" the standard for government purchases.

"Reading of the reception the Indians received in church Sunday, and the fact that they attended the theatre Monday evening, recalls a funny incident that appened when they were in Chicago en route to Washington. The manager who has charge of the visiting Indians thought he would amuse them by taking them to the theatre in the evening. He never for a moment thought that tragedy would rouse the warlike nature of which the Sioux is so abundantly endowed. Well, he got them into several boxes all right, and everything went well until the third act.

"The play was a heavy tragedy, and in this act the heroine was to be killed. The minute the villain attempted to strike the woman with a knife three of the Sioux rose from their seats and actnally prepared to leap over the boxes onto the stage for the purpose of rescu-ing the heroine. The theatre was soon in an uproar, and it was only by remov-ing the three refractory Indians from the theatre that the actors could proceed. eatre that the actors could proceed. That also explains why they were taken to see a light opera in Washington."— Philadelphia Press.

Russia's Watchful Eye.

There was a meeting of representative railroad men and steamship managers in St. Petersburg to discuss the feasibility of introducing "round trip" tickets in the interior of Russia. Such tickets would be of great benefit to those who have business in the Volga district, and make short trips from one city to another by the steamers on that river, and also to excursionists along the railroad lines. But this measure is discountenanced by the police authorities.

At present there is an officer stationed by every ticket office who may examine the passports of the travelers, without whose permission no ticket can be sold. But if round trip tickets should be issned, the holder of a return ticket to any place may sell it to another person, and the police would be unable to keep its eye on the traveling public.—Exchange,

Any one visiting London for the first time is stunned on week days by the tour billion of movement in its streets and the constant eddies at all the great crossings in the whirlpool of its business life such as no other city in the world can show. It is estimated that over 20,000 vehicles pass the estimated that over 20,000 ventcles pass the Bank of England each day. Such a thing as a block or stoppage in the stream of ve-hicles for more than a moment is never al-lowed to occur, thanks to the skillful man-agement of the police under the present perfect system. There is an officer at nearly every street corner, and any driver or cabman who advances a yard beyond the upraised hand of the officer may expect to have his number taken and is certain to have a two pound fine to pay. If he drives on his license is forfeited. This is not a rule simply, for the law is invariably en-forced, and the consequence is absolute order and freedom from blocks.

The police seldom use force. It is not necessary in a city where the laws are en-forced with unfailing promptness and cer tainty. In consequence perhaps the most unruly class of men in the world-the London cabbies—stand in absolute awe of the police. This feeling is shared equally by all tradespeople. I was assured on the best anthority that there was not a disorderly house or policy shop in the en-tire city of London with its 690 square miles and its streets and roads measuring 6,600 miles in aggregate length and over 5,000,000 inhabitants. It is commonly said of London that there are more Scotchmen there than in Edinburgh, more Irish than in Dublin, more Jews than in Palestine and more Roman Catholics than in Rome. Nothing is allowed to be sold in the way of either food or drink after 12 o'clock, and every public restaurant or bar must be closed by 12:30. This rule is kept to the very minute, or the license is forfeited. Nobody once convicted of even a misde meanor can obtain a license for a bar or public house in London.

The fidelity and bravery of the London police were well shown in 1864 when a couple of officers on duty at the parlia-mentary building discovered a lighted dynamite cartridge in the hallway directly under the hall in which the house of comunder the hall in which the house of com-mons was sitting at the time. The two men seized the cartridge together and ran with it burning in their hands out into the open courtyard, where it exploded. Both men are crippes for life. Both are deaf and blind, and one has lost his reason. They were at once promoted to the rank of ser-geants and pensioned for life.
