THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM

CLEVELAND'S CABINET.

So far, the following persons have been offered and accepted cabinet positions: Walter Q. Gresham of Illinois, secretary of state; John G. Carlisle of Kentucky, secretary of the treasury; Daniel S. Lamont of New York, secretary of war; Wilson S. Bissell of Buffalo, portmaster-general; Sterling Morton of Nebraska, secretary of agriculture; Geo. A. Jenks of Pennsylvania, attorney-general.

Judge Gresham, who has the highest and most important position in the cabinet, was, until just recently, among the most prominent leaders of the republican party, and nearly received the republican nomination for president four years ago against Harrison. Since that time he leaned gradually toward democracy, and at the last election he "flopped" completely and came out flat-footed with the dem-

Mr. Cleveland's position from the first has been that in the selection of a secretary of state he did not propose to stand strictly by party tinued in various parts of the earth limits. He has all along said that he wanted the best man that could be found in the country. He wanted a man strong and learned, of perfect personal and public integrity and one who held to an unusual degree the confidence of the people. This ideal was more closely filled by Judge Gresham than any other man Mr. Cleveland could think of.

Of Judge Gresham's great ability and high character there can be no question. He is thoroughly American in all his instincts and training. He is devoted to the principle upon which the Democratic party won its latest triumph, and to the establishment of which it is pledged. On the tariff, the finances and the currency, on civil service reform, on force bills, and on pension reform he is in strict accord with the declared doctrines formulated at Chicago. He is known throughout the land as a stern foe of the selfish spirit of plutocracy. Apart from the fact that Judge Gresham is a man of the highest character and of decided ability, his selection is a new guarantee of the disregard of narrow political consideration on the part of Mr. Cleveland. The appointment is regarded with enthusiasm in the West.

Senator Blackman's insurance bill, which is now a law, providing that any company which writes a policy hereafter in Oregon shall be compelled to pay the full amount of the policy where the loss equals the same is a highly meritorious measure, and will do much to make insurance men come to time with the full amount of their risks, withment, scaling down because of age of policy, etc., a petty form of thievery which they have been uniformly practicing on policy holders for years past, in Oregon almost more than in any other state. Anything that will insure the public fair treatment in such matters is deserving of support and commenda-

HOW IT IS MEASURED.

The distance around the earth is not measured directly. Such meththe physical difficulties, could be surface with a corresponding arc of the heavens. The measurements have been made in many parts of the earth's surface. For example, of the methods used we may describe that of Richard Norwood. On the 11th of June, 1633, he measured the measured the distance between the copy tree of en two places partly by chain and partly by pacing, and determined the degree as 367,176 feet. More accurate methods of measurement LAND OFFICE AT THE DAMES, On., Jan. 3, 1893. are now used, but the general principle may be seen. Lines have been measured at the equator and also in February 24, 1803, viz. the polar regions. In 1735 a French expedition under Godin, Bouguer and De la Condamine measured an arc of 3 degrees 7 minutes in Peru, the arc intersecting the equator. On account of the great physten years. In 1736 a similar expedition under Maupertius measured an arc in Lapland near the polar circle. It is from such work conthat the shape of the planet and the distance around it have been

General Compson is accredited with securing two appropriations for the Oregon National Guard at the hands of this legislature. The Gullixson bill, giving them $40,000. has passed both houses over the governor's veto. The Ford bill, to give the National Guard $60,000, in lieu of the mill tax, also passed both houses. That gives the state militia a cool hundred thousand dollars to operate with the coming two years. The governor cannot well veto the Ford bill without restoring the mill tax of both the militia and state university, and adding considerably to what they will now receive. Ford claims there was an understanding that if he would increase the sum carried in his bill from $15,000 to $30,000 a year, the governor, s veto of the Gullixon bill should be sustained. But Gullixon and his friends went back on that and the result is a double on that and the result is a double. on that and the result is a double appropriation through combinations.
