THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

WAGES.

From the Hood River Glacier. The advocates of a protective tariff bank upon the credulity of the masses, and successfully. The great showman, Barnum, said the American people like to be deceived, and be told the truth. Protection is a pretty word—rolls smoothly under the oratorical tongue, and does not, from its sugar-coated taste, give notice to the swallower that the real substance of the pill is "discrimination." The whole theory of protection is that it has a sort of general financial reaction, which eventually results in benefiting American labor. First, the masses are taxed to give the American manufacturer higher prices so that he can pay the American laborer higher wages, and the laborer, having more money, will consume more of the agricultural products, and so return the tax through a "home market" to the farmers, who, by the way, pay the whole bill. It will be seen by this that the farmer is enabled, metaphorically, to lift himself out of debt and into affluence by his bootstraps; simply by increasing his taxation to a high enough point. The protectionists (we mean the leaders of those who believe in the theory, and that whether republican or democrat) know that the cry of protecting American labor is simply a cry of "stop thief" to draw attention from the nation's plunderers. They put a tariff on wool to protect American wool, a tariff on iron to protect American iron, a tariff on coal to protect American coal, and they leave labor on the free list. Why? To protect American labor! The Hon. James G. Blaine boasted that "the gates of Castle Garden swung ever inward." And this to admit foreign labor in competition with our own. And what is the result? A steady decrease of wages. Up to within a few years the results of immigration were unnoticeable for the reason that the immense area of public land furnished homes and employment for all. The overflow of population from the East swept over the Alleghenies across Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and the Mississippi valley, and the last wave of the tide broke in Nebraska and the Dakotas. There is no more land. There is no more room for the overflow. The immigrant now comes into direct competition with the American laborer, or the laborer already here. They both want the same job, and the immigrant gets it because he will work cheaper. The next year brings another batch, who in turn compete for the job, and get it because they work still cheaper. This result will go on until wages in this country will reach the level of those in Europe, and the influx will cease, because it will be no longer profitable to come. It is inevitable under our present immigration laws that American labor must come to the level of European labor, because, if no artificial barrier is raised to keep out the tide of foreign labor, wages, like water, will find a level. Yet while this is going on, our friends the protectionists are asking the farmers of the country (who practically pay all the bills) to submit to taxation to protect American labor, keeping in the background the fact that they are also being taxed to protect the foreign laborers that come here to the number of a million a year. "It is a condition, not a theory that confronts us." The protected iron and coal industries employ foreign labor almost entirely. The coal and iron regions are practically a foreign country. In the dispatches of May 5th, one from Duluth says: Matson, the Finlander who was shot by Deputy Sheriff Al Free, at Argonia, died this morning. Two military companies are on the ground. The miners are in a state of frenzy over the killing of Matson, but are awed by the militia. The great difficulty in handling the strikers arises from the fact that fully three-fourths of them cannot talk English. Here is a specimen of protected

American laborers, "three-fourths of whom cannot talk English," and all of whom are in a "state of frenzy" because one of their number was killed by a sheriff while resisting the laws of this country. We are not prejudiced against foreigners because they are foreigners, but we are radical in the belief that the time has come when the stream of immigration should be run through a strainer. "Protection" to American labor demands it! Protection to our system of government compels it. Immigration under proper restrictions is a stimulant, but this country has taken too much. We have been on a spree, so to speak, and that we should be sick is the natural result.

One of the worst monopolies in the state of Oregon is the school book combine. The men who compose this trust are worse than highwaymen, for the latter gentlemen take some chances when they order their victim to stand and deliver. In Minnesota, under the Merrill law, books are sold at less than one-half of the price asked for them here. These blood-suckers do not even let the retailers make a fair profit. This question should be attended to when the next legislature meets. There are hundreds of people in the state whose children cannot attend school on account of the terrible expense of the school books. This is a great abuse. The state might publish its own school books—but probably it would be better to so frame the law that the trust will be compelled to sell the books cheaper—for one-half or one-third the present prices, for instance, and then no doubt leaving a large profit—Salem Statesman.

The subject of diversified farming is one of vast consideration in other countries as well as ours. The sticking to one crop does not pay and should be guarded against. A London paper says that one of the curious changes in England is the increase in the number of acres devoted to fruit farming and market gardening. This increase is shown by the official reports to have been 8339 acres last year, while in the same period the decrease in the acreage of general agricultural land was 150,000 acres. Wheat is a losing crop for the English farmer, but experts say that garden truck, fruit and dairy produce will pay well in any part of England, as the demand far exceeds the supply. Fancy London importing butter and eggs from Australia when the thousands of poor English families could make an excellent living by chicken raising and dairy on the lands that are now used only for pasture or as hunting preserves. Parent—"You need not be alarmed; the Pollard system used in our public schools has no similarity with that adopted by Madalene."—Exchange.

"Was there no one to sympathize with the poor wretch who was being lynched?" "I believe a voice did call out and tell him his necktie was up behind."—Puck.

The Best Medicine.

J. O. WILSON, Contractor and Builder, Sulphur Springs, Texas, thus speaks of Ayer's Pills:

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine I ever tried; and, in my judgment, no better general remedy could be devised. I have used them in my family and recommended them to my friends and employes for more than twenty years. To my certain knowledge, many cases of the following complaints have been completely and by the use of Ayer's Pills alone: Third day chills, dumb ague, bilious fever, sick headache, rheumatism, flux, dyspepsia, constipation, and hard colds. I know that a moderate use of Ayer's Pills, continued for a few days or weeks, as the nature of the complaint required, would be found an absolute cure for the disorders I have named above."

"I have been selling medicine for eight years, and I can safely say that Ayer's Pills give better satisfaction than any other Pill I ever sold."—J. J. Perry, Spottsylvania C. H., Va.
