

The silly season seems to have set in at Washington. Of all ridiculous proceedings in public life that have ever been witnessed, nothing more absurd has been seen than the action of the tariff managers. From beginning to end the whole business has been characterized by a series of blunders, disgraceful wrangling, petty jealousies, bitter animosities, rivalry for leadership, and last, but not least, a species of corrupt jockeying that would more become the race course than the senate chamber. And now, to cap the climax, when the public has been led up to the expectation of a final settlement of differences and the probability of an agreement, the conferees flare up and get further apart than ever. Out on such statesmanship! In silliness it could not be exceeded by the inmates of a lunatic asylum. But if the silliness were all, we could endure it better. There is harm, positive harm, to every industrial interest in America resulting from this congressional child's play. Here the whole country has been waiting for the conference committee to put an end to tariff agitation, and just as the public gets within sight of recovery there comes another hitch and further delay. The business interests cannot stand these frequent disappointments. The strain is too intense. The return of confidence cannot be stayed much longer without fatal results. Our finances will soon be in a condition from which even tariff legislation cannot extricate us. And yet the silly game of bluff goes on in the halls of congress.—Telegram.

Later. The notorious senate tariff bill passed the house Monday last at 6 o'clock, by a vote of 162 to 105, so that all that remains to make the bill a law is the signature or silence of the president. Eleven democrats voted against the bill.

It is only a few years since the United States was the greatest naval power on earth. This was during and just after the civil war. Then the navy was allowed to decay and the people claimed that in the event of a war with a great power the United States could produce a navy in a few months that would beat anything afloat. Wiser counsels prevailed, however, and now after working eight or nine years and spending millions of dollars, our navy is getting into the first rank. The nations of Europe understand how necessary time is to the successful completion of any work, and they are now building ships with reference to the requirements of their navies ten years hence. The position of this country is its greatest safeguard, but in the event of a war, our country, the wealthiest in the world, should be able to go more than half way and to defeat any navy in existence just as it can defeat any force of men however great.

We learn that the project of holding encampments of the several regiments of the Oregon National Guard has been abandoned for this season. Governor Pennoyer is not favorable to the scheme. General Compson went to Salem last week for the purpose of interviewing the governor on the subject, but he got no satisfaction, and the taxpayers of the state are glad of it. The "soldiers" can do better service for their country in the harvest fields for the next couple of months.

The Astoria Budget man solves the mystery of the hard times as follows: The price of wheat is going up. Hops is advancing a little in price. Salmon has an upward tendency. There is going to be a demand for all the products of this country, and despite all efforts of office seekers and politicians to hold the hard times until after the fall elections, they will fail, and the country will be prosperous once more. You can bet all of your dust on it.

The war between Japan and China shows that the Japs have advanced in civilization, while the Chinese have stood still. In every fight the Chinese have been out-generaled and out-fought. Outside of one or two really great men, the Chinese are a thousand years behind the times. Japan seems to have the best of the argument, as well as of the fight, and while acting for herself it is evident she also knows how Russia stands in the matter.

Remember, if you can get out of debt this year stay out of debt. The greatest cure for hard times would be to abolish the habit of running in debt. It is the curse of the age. The wise man stays out of debt.

INGERSOLL ON DIVORCE.

"I believe in giving to the wife a divorce for the asking, but I do not believe in giving a divorce to the man unless the woman has violated the contract of marriage. My reasons are these: It is against the best interests of society that children should be born of hatred or loathing. No woman should become a mother against her will, and the government should not employ its force in compelling a woman to remain under the roof of the man whom she hates, but so long as the woman keeps her contract the man, if he is able, should be made to take care of her. She dowered him with her youth and beauty, and she should not be left in her old age helpless and homeless."

No woman could surely object to such a divorce system as this one, unless possibly she might be affected by the idea that it wasn't giving the man quite a "fair show." What could be more satisfactory to the woman who had made a "good catch" than the idea that so long as she was true to her husband he could not get free and would be forced to support her, while if she could find a larger purse or a finer position at hand she, by the mere asking, could throw aside her husband.

The colonel evidently believes in woman's rights, but not in equal rights, at least not so far as divorce is concerned.

In speaking of marriage, Colonel Ingersoll has declared it the most important of all institutions. The family, he says, is the unit of the nation, and to preserve the family, it is not wise to give the money-making man the right to divorce his wife for any less cause than the breaking of her marriage contract. Very well—then under Colonel Ingersoll's divorce system we would find a new style of marriage contract coming in vogue. If marriage comes to be regarded as a legal status the result of a legal contract and nothing more, and the divorce laws allow the woman greater divorce privileges than the man, then the contract of marriage will be so framed that what might be termed a limited marriage, will be effected.

"Real marriage," says Colonel Ingersoll, "is born of true affection, and the ceremony of marriage is only the outward evidence of an inward fact. A man and woman are really married as long as they really and truly, and in the highest sense, love each other. When they cease to love each other the marriage has ended. No matter whether there has been a divorce or not, the marriage is gone."—East Oregonian.

It is only a question of time until a railroad connects The Dalles or some other Eastern Oregon point with Reno, Nevada. A road is already built and in operation for ninety miles north of Reno into Harney lake valley, and the track is graded thirty miles further. It would open up the eastern side of the Cascade range and consequently furnish an immense supply of timber, which will be needed in the near future.

Recently the writer referred to Coxe as the originator of the style of pilgrimage that bears his name. Apology is due to Col. Watterson, who 17 years ago proposed to lead 100,000 unarmed Kentuckians to Washington to see Tilden inaugurated, and probably would have done so if he could have found that number of Kentuckians willing to leave their revolvers at home for a few days.—Times-Mountaineer.

Senator David B. Hill has come out strong for the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people. He says if they were elected in this way they would be more in sympathy with the people and less perverse and obstinate, and less favorable to private and trust interests.

The house says senators ought to be elected by the people; the senate says nothing—and doesn't saw wood—but the senators draw their salaries with remarkable regularity and forethought.

Nothing annoys the keeper of a railroad restaurant more than to have one customer ask in a rather loud tone, of another: "Have they ever tried plating war ships with this kind of sandwiches?"

In Chicago more than 50 per cent of the voters are foreign born and in New York 49.93 per cent. These facts, if kept in mind, will explain much that would otherwise be puzzling.

HIGHEST HONORS GIVEN

To Dr. Price's at the World's Fair. (Chicago Tribune.)

For leavening power, keeping qualities, purity and general excellence the World's Fair jury decided that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder had no equal. On each of its claims it was awarded a first prize or a diploma. All the baking powders entered for prizes were subjected to a most exhaustive examination, and the jury was the best equipped of any ever got together. Their verdict was supported by the testimony of Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, Dr. Wiley is an expert on food products and the highest authority on such matters in America. This verdict settles a long debated question as to which among the many baking powders is the best.

The Chinese pay their doctor only so long as he keeps them in health. They believe in preventing rather than curing disease. This is sound sense, and one of the strongest recommendations of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, a medicine which not only cures diseases but prevents them.

Ayer's Ague Cure is an antidote for malaria and all malarial diseases, whether generated by swamp or sewer. Neither quinine, arsenic nor any other injurious drug enters into the composition of this remedy. Warranted to cure fever and ague.

When the scalp is atrophied, or shyn-bald, no preparation will restore the hair; in all other cases, Hall's Hair Renewer will start a growth.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhoea, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all druggists.

"Only the Scars Remain,"

Says HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., who certifies as follows:

Mother Urged Me

to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by all druggists.

My boy was taken with a disease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is inclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability. WM. ROACH, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by all druggists.
