THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

THE LAW ALL RIGHT.

S. F. Examiner.

The opponents of the ballot law are at last compelled to admit that it has "come to stay." The ease with which the people accustomed themselves to the new conditions, and the universal admission that it secures secret voting, has settled so much. But they are now to the fore with suggestions for amending the law to recover for the machine some of the power it lost when the official ballot was adopted. The fact that nearly 2,000 voters of this city did not vote for mayor, that over 3,000 did not vote for governor, and that still greater numbers neglected certain less important offices is made the ground for urging that the legislature amend the law to provide for "straight voting" by printing the party ticket in parallel columns and allowing the voter to stamp a single cross for a straight ticket.

A study of the returns does not show need for any such provision. On the contrary, it proves that the people are willing to make up their own tickets, and would be discouraged instead of helped in making a choice by separating the candidates for various offices by putting them under a party heading instead of under the heading of the office for which they are running.

The voters of San Francisco showed the most conscientious spirit in their voting. They went through the list of nearly four hundred candidates with a care that could not have been expected. Even on school directors there were nearly 500,000 crosses stamped. If every man who expressed a choice at all on school director voted for twelve this would mean that over 40,000 voters made a choice on this office. As many did not vote for the full number it is pretty certain that above 50,000 voters stamped their choice for the school board. Over 530,000 crosses were marked for free-holders—an office in which few are supposed to feel an interest. If every voter who had a choice among candidates voted for the full number of fifteen this means that over 35,000 voters expressed their choice on this office. But as many voted for less than the full number it is probable that over 45,000 voters took part in selecting these officials. The system it is plain puts the choice of officials on those who feel an interest in the office. Those who do not care who is elected governor pass the office in voting.

The theory on which straight tickets are sometimes given the preference on ballots is that the people do not have the interest or intelligence to pick out officials for themselves, and turn this duty over to the various conventions. The voters then decide which convention did its work most to their satisfaction. This arrangement may be necessary in some places, but not in San Francisco. It is the testimony of the election officers that there were few straight tickets voted in the late election. In some of the precincts there were not five straight party tickets found during the whole count. It is probable that not 10,000 out of the 61,000 ballots cast had straight party tickets stamped on them.

When this is the case it is absurd to say that straight tickets should be favored by the law. The present arrangement puts together all the candidates for each office, and the voter has only to follow them down and stamp his choice at each. Under the party column arrangement the 50,000 voters who want to vote a mixed ticket would have to hunt all over the ballot to find their men—and thus save the 10,000 "straight voters" the trouble of going once through the list. The ballot law is all right. The only trouble is in the count. It is undoubtedly desirable to lessen the labors of the voters and the size of the ballot by cutting down the number of offices—a measure that would also shorten the time of the count. But the arrangement of the names on the ballot is the best that can be had, and the legislature should keep its hands off that part of the law.

It is the belief of the world that wheat has reached its lowest point, and that in future it will be higher. A slight advance has been noted of late in most of the markets of the world. It is possible that there will be no great or rapid advance, yet the tendency will be upward. With the prospect of better prices for wheat, producers will not diminish their acreage but will, if possible, cultivate more. We hope, however, that the idea of diversified farming will not be lost sight of in consequence of this slight rise in wheat.

The press of the state is speaking quite freely of the growing tide of immigration from the East to Oregon. The forerunners of an army of several hundred thousand people are now arriving on every train. The hundreds of thousands undoubtedly are to come in the next two years. No one can doubt that the population of Oregon will double within five years and contain nearly a million people. Thousands of families in the Dakotas, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas will come to Oregon in the next six months. These states have all been more or less afflicted with drought, short crops and intolerable suffering from hot weather the past year. In some of those vast areas were literally burnt up by the heat and drought, causing great suffering, destitution and depopulation. The people in those sections have food for neither themselves nor stock, and have no water or fuel. About 50 families are now on the road headed for Oregon, and between 400 and 500 families from Nebraska will also soon start to find homes in Oregon. Gilliam county should make an effort to secure a portion of this immigration. This county is able to support a population of 100,000. At present it has only about 3,500. We want thousands of people, but we don't want thousands of people who reach here dead broke. We want people with some money, not necessarily fortunes; but enough so that they will be self supporting. Don't come here to be supported—we are not a poor house, but come with enough to settle upon and improve the millions of acres of the fine government land; divide up our farms into orchards, and smaller wheat fields, or perhaps better still, with money for manufacturing.

The postmaster general recommends free postage for newspapers. That's right—that's the only way to spread knowledge among the people.

What is the longest word in the English language? Smiles, because there is a mile between the first and last letter.

Speaks for Itself.

New York, Dec. 3, 1894.

To the County Clerk of Gilliam county, Condon, Oregon.

Dear Sir:—To aid me in completing pending negotiations for the completion of a portage railroad around the dalles and a line connecting steamers, it is necessary for me to show that the traffic tributary to Columbia and Snake rivers is sufficient to pay the expense of their operation and interest on the investment. For this purpose I would ask you to furnish me the statistics, and where these are lacking; agricultural, stock, mineral, fruit and miscellaneous; your estimates of the quantity and description of all products produced in your county in 1894, naming tons or bushels. Also the number of tons of commodities or freight shipped into your county per annum.

Also how large a percentage of the total products would be hauled to the river with an open river at rates of freight from one-third to one-half the rates now charged by the railroads.

Also your opinion as to the probable increase of production in your county, if an open river enabled a freight rate of one-half of that charged now upon different commodities received by or shipped from your county.

As it is the intention to have our project completed by the time the Cascade locks are finished, an early answer will be important.

Yours truly,

PAUL F. MOHR,

Christmas Tree.

Arrangements are about completed for the Xmas tree and entertainment which is to be held in the Congregational church on Christmas Eve (Monday evening). It is the design of the committee that all the children in Condon and vicinity receive a present.

All presents for the tree should be handed to the committee at the church not later than 5 o'clock Monday evening.

An interesting time is assured and all children included, are invited.

Our Christmas tree—a beautiful white fir—was brought in from the mountains yesterday.

County Warrants at Face.

I will take county warrants at their face value in trade at my store in Condon.

S. B. BARKER.
People who have tried it, say that there is no better medicine for dyspepsia than Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It may not give one the stomach of an ostrich, but it so strengthens the alimentary organs that digestion of ordinary food becomes easy and natural.

Everybody knows that the conditions for health are not favorable when the stomach, liver and bowels are disordered. In such cases, headache, indigestion and constipation are the result; for all which ailments the proper remedy is Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

No one in ordinary health need become bald or gray, if he will follow sensible treatment. We advise cleanliness of the scalp and the use of Hall's Hair Renewer.

The Public Christmas Tree.

The following from the Harney News seems to hit the nail squarely upon the head:

No one who has given the subject proper thought will regret the absence of a public Christmas tree in Harney this year. The time was, perhaps, when a celebration of Christmas after this fashion was as appropriate as it is commendable, but not so now. The evident object sought in this mode of observance in the years gone by was to please the little ones. But modern custom dictates differently. Only a comparatively few of the children are now privileged to gather fruit from a public Christmas tree. The gifts that are given and received now-a-days from a tree are mostly between grown up people. And a public tree only presents a public display of what the rich can do and what the poor cannot do. Now, those who are abundantly able to make costly presents to their children or their friends, and feel like doing it, should by all means make them; but to make a public display of them to a houseful of poor people is wrong. We have witnessed such displays with feelings of disgust many times. One little child receives from a tree a gold watch or silk dress, and its fair but poor companion, who sits by its side, gets a scanty sack of candy. Whose sympathy would not go out to that poor child? For reasons here given, and for many more that might be enumerated, we are opposed to the modern public Christmas tree.

You Should Get It.

Should get what? Why, The Rev. Irl R. Hicks' splendid Almanac for 1895. It has kindly sent to this office a copy of the same, and we speak advisedly in saying that it is a rare publication—the very latest and best of all that has emanated from the pen and brain and heart of this well-known friend of the public. The history of this man's work—now an open book to all America—and a casual glance at his Almanac for 18 1/2, convines us that this vitally useful and instructive book ought to find its way into every shop, store, office and home in the land. The price of the book—only 25 cents—could not to our knowledge be invested for any one thing more profitably. It contains 84 pages, printed on fine book paper, and elegant covers in colors. It is for sale by all news-dealers. This fine Almanac is given as a premium to every yearly subscriber to the Rev. Irl R. Hicks' well-known and deservedly popular paper, Word and Works. This unique journal is a peerless educator of the masses, and is fast becoming a household guardian and necessity in the homes of America. Those who want to keep up with all the advanced thought of the age in science, religion and all social, commercial, intellectual and domestic subjects, should subscribe for Word and Works. Subscription $1.00 a year. You can send for both direct to WORD AND WORKS PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo.

A Racking Cough

Cured by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Mrs. P. D. HALL, 217 Genesee St., Lockport, N. Y., says:

"Over thirty years ago, I remember hearing my father describe the wonderful curative effects of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. During a recent attack of La Grippe, which assumed the form of a catarrh, soreness of the lungs, accompanied by an aggravating cough, I used various remedies and prescriptions. While some of these medicines partially alleviated the coughing during the day, none of them afforded me any relief from that spasmodic action of the lungs which would seize me the moment I attempted to lie down at night. After ten or twelve such nights, I was and had about decided to sit up all night in my easy chair, and procure what sleep I could in that way. It then occurred to me that I had a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took a spoonful of this preparation in a little water, and was able to lie down without coughing. In a few moments, I fell asleep, and awoke in the morning greatly refreshed and feeling much better. I took a teaspoonful of the Pectoral every night for a week, then gradually decreased the dose, and in two weeks my cough was cured."

Portland Universal Exhibition.

The O. R. & N. Co. will sell tickets for the Portland Universal Exhibition, to be held in Portland between the dates of December 1, '94, and January 15, '95, at $7.20 for the round trip, including two admission tickets to the Exhibition. These tickets are on sale only for train No. 1, leaving Arlington Monday and Thursday nights of each week until Jan. 15, 1895, and are limited to five days from date of sale for return passage.

F. C. HINDLE, Agent,
Arlington, Or.

Any one who has children will rejoice with L. B. Mulford, of Plainfield, N. J. His little boy, five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a last hope and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. I gave it to him next day and a cure was effected. I keep this remedy in the house now and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them and that is the last of it." Fifty cent bottles for sale by all druggists.

Mr. Ira P. Wetmore, a prominent real estate agent of San Angelo, Texas, has used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in his family for several years as occasion required, and always with perfect success. He says, "I find it a perfect cure for our baby when troubled with colic or dysentery. I now feel that my outfit is not complete without a bottle of this Remedy at home or on a trip away from home." For sale by all druggists.

For rheumatism I have found nothing equal to Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It relieves the pain as soon as applied. J. W. Young, West Liberty, W. Va. The prompt relief it affords is alone worth many times the cost, 50 cents. Its continued use will effect a permanent cure. For sale by all druggists.
