

THE CONDON GLOBE.

FRIDAY, MARCH 22, 1895.

THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

GIVE THE DEVIL HIS DUES.

The press, with a few honorable exceptions, has been filled with vituperation and unjust criticism of the eighteenth biennial session of the Oregon legislature which closed at midnight February 23. It seems to be fashionable of late years to sneer at the legislature and whatever it may do or leave undone. With an air of superior wisdom and virtue, which seems to afford them great pleasure and adds largely to their self-importance, certain editors who know little and care less about the interests and wishes of the people, assume that everything that was done was wrong, and they object to all that was done and to all that was not done. They charge sins of omission, and find nothing to their liking. They are shocked beyond measure at the extravagance and profligacy of the men they helped to elect. They declare they never saw anything like it before—they are the worst lot of men that ever disgraced legislative halls.

At every succeeding session these stale slanders and silly lies are repeated and worked over in every conceivable form. Unlike the tailings of a placer mine, the more they are worked the richer they appear to be. As far back as the memory of man runneth, these birds of evil omen, who defile their own nest, and assert that they are the only truly good and perfectly honest people on earth, have declared that each legislature was the worst ever known and the like of it could never be seen again.

But at the next session they contradict themselves, and say it is far worse than the other, which they said could never be equalled, and so on from one absurdity to another, always declaring that the last was the worst. A man who maliciously misrepresents a private citizen, and injures him in the eyes of his neighbor can be persecuted and punished in the courts. But the men who are elected by their fellow-citizens to make laws, elect U. S. senators and perform other important duties, have no protection in the courts. This system of misrepresenting and grossly slandering legislators, in a manner that would not be tolerated among neighbors, has become an evil and needs reforming more than anything in American politics. It is corrupting the minds of the people and breeding discontent, suspicion, jealousy, envy and crime.

In the matter where the most fault has been found, it was just the opposite of what has been charged. It has been criticized more for extravagance than for any other thing, when in fact the last legislature was one of the most economical legislatures this state ever had.

The estimates made by the outgoing secretary of state, Hon. Geo. W. McBride, now United States senator, for the next two years amounted to about $500,000 less than they were the last two years, and the legislature followed his estimates almost to the letter and appropriated about $50,000 less for the years 1895 and 1896 than the preceding legislature appropriated for the years 1893 and 1894. This is one of the greatest reductions ever made in Oregon, and it is doubtful if there is another state in the union where expenses are less in proportion to the population than they will be in this state during the next two years. The state tax levy for the present year is only 3 mills, one of the lowest ever known. In the matter of committee clerks there were about 50 less than two years ago. Economy was practiced in every department.

The election of Hon. Geo. W. McBride to the senate of the United States will be worth vastly more to the people of this state than all the money appropriated by the legislature for its expenses.

and the expenses of all the state institutions and the entire state government during the next two years. He will represent the people correctly on the money question and in all other matters, and his election will be worth more to Oregon than anything that has occurred in many years.

This legislature was composed of men of ability and character, and it did splendid work. Oregon will be fortunate if her next legislature shall be as economical and accomplish as much good for the people as the present legislature.—Eugene Journal.

The days of the cayuse are numbered and the stockman must from this on breed a good heavy draft horse. It has been the custom of horse raisers in the west to turn the mare on the range and never see the colt, except to brand it, until it is driven to market, and yet people wonder why horses are so cheap. They refuse to breed what the market wants, and the market refuses to pay a decent price for the common horses that are presented for sale. The whole world wants a heavy draft horse. We can raise them in Oregon as well as anywhere. Electricity and steam have supplanted the light and medium weight horses, but the heavy draft horse is still in demand. It is to the butcher we must look if we would know how to breed cattle for profit, and it is to the city contractor we must refer if horse-raising is to be made profitable. Of course the heavy horse will not do for farm purposes, but you can not aim too high. The aim must be to breed a heavy horse for the city and in so doing you will have plenty of medium horses for agricultural purposes.

The GLOBE reaches its 4th milestone with this issue. While we look back over the past and reflect that the GLOBE could perhaps have been made a better paper, yet it affords us considerable satisfaction to know that during the four years of the paper's existence Condon has made all of its great permanent improvements, also that the GLOBE has been a journal of more or less progressive ideas, advocating such measures as have been taken to further the interests of our little city. The GLOBE has always been fearless and outspoken, and it is no great wonder that some do not look upon the paper with any great favor, yet in the main we have many good friends that we appreciate very much. And now with the kindest of feelings for all, with hatred toward none, we begin the work of another year and trust that all of our supporters will appreciate our effort sufficiently to give the GLOBE the healthy patronage it merits and deserves.

In the house of representatives during the recent session of the legislature there were 384 bills introduced. Of these, 142 passed that body, 121 died in the hands of committees, and 121 died either in failure to pass, by indefinite postponement, by being tabled or being withdrawn. Of the 142 that went to the senate only 42 passed that body. The senate passed 110 of its own bills, of which 49 were passed by the house, twenty-three died in the hands of the various committees and thirty-eight were disposed of in the various ways of indefinite postponement and want of passage. Thus altogether ninety-one bills passed both houses and eighty-seven became laws but they are principally charter bills.

Lord has a private secretary at $1200 a year yet the legislature allows him a stenographer at $1600 and adds to his salary $500 a year, so at the first jump he costs the taxpayer for his term $8000 more than Pennoyer. This is a small item of the promised economy. Why don't the papers that howled so much about Pennoyer's salary of $1500 a year note this difference?—Ex.

A Philadelphia advocate of the single tax theory was putting the thing rather strong when he said it must be either single tax or civil war. The single tax may come some day, but this country isn't likely to have another civil war.

Notwithstanding the stringency of the times, the Washington legislature passed a bill appropriating $980,000 for a new capitol building at Olympia.

How to Cure Rheumatism.

ARAGO, COOS CO., OREGON, Nov. 10, 1893.—I wish to inform you of the great good Chamberlain's Pain Balm has done my wife. She has been troubled with rheumatism of the arms and hands for six months, and has tried many remedies prescribed for that complaint, but found no relief until she used this Pain Balm; one bottle of which has completely cured her. I take pleasure in recommending it for that trouble. Yours truly, C. A. BULLOCK. Fifty-cent and $1 bottles for sale by L. W. Darling & Co.

Our local druggist desires us to publish the following extract from a letter of Chas. M. Gutfield of Reedley, Fresno Co., Cal., as he handles the remedy referred to and wants his customers to know what a splendid medicine it is: "It is with pleasure I tell you that by one day's use of Chamberlain's Cough remedy I was relieved of a very severe cold. My head was completely stopped up and I could not sleep at night. I can recommend this remedy." A cold nearly always starts in the head and afterwards extends to the throat and lungs. By using this remedy freely as soon as the cold has been contracted it will cure the cold at once and prevent it from extending to the lungs. For sale by L. W. Darling & Co.
