Management.

Nobody likes being managed. The secret of management is not known to all, but those who have learned it from the good fairies, who preside over domestic tranquility have attained breck rank among the fortunate of the world. There is everything in taking people at the right moment and in suggesting an arrangement instead of ordering an arbitrary change of base. "My cousin Cornelia," said a lady, "always has her own way, without ever seeming to want it. Jabez, her husband, constantly proposes things in a masterful fashion, which he imagines first occurred to his own brain, the truth being that he is merely carrying out what Cornelia determined upon before the good man had so much as had a glimpse of the situation."

A secret of successful management in the home campaign is briefly stated in a sentence, "Keep your temper and do not antagonize any one." "I am leaving home for a week," a mother observed, "and I have given Phyllis charge of the house, her father and the boy."

"But Dorothy is the older daughter, is she not?" was the inquiry of the person addressed.

"Yes, Dorothy is the older, but not the wiser in this particular instance," said the mother. "Dorothy never conciliates. She asserts and endeavors to enforce her wishes. The result is strife and bitterness. Phyllis is gentle and patient. She yields in minor matters and only makes a stand where something worth struggling for is involved. I go away with a light heart when it is a question of dropping my cares into the hands of Phyllis."—Harper's Bazar.

MOTHERS

recovering from the illness attending child-birth, or who suffer from the effects of disorders, derangements and displacements of the womanly organs, will find relief and a permanent cure in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Taken during pregnancy the "Prescription"

MAKES CHILDBIRTH EASY

by preparing the system for parturition, thus assisting Nature and shortening "labor." The painful ordeal of child-birth is robbed of its terrors, and the dangers thereof greatly lessened, to both mother and child. The period of confinement is also greatly shortened, the mother strengthened and built up, and an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child promoted.

RISQ'S CURE FOR

CHILDREN WITH ALL KINDS OF CONSUMPTION

A CUTE LITTLE MAN.

HAPPY CHANGE ENABLED HIM TO FOIL THE ROAD AGENTS.

He Kept His Own Counsel Until the Journey Ended and Then Saved His Neck by Explaining—The Old Lady With Money In Her Shoe Had to Give Up.

"One day in 1879," said an old stage driver to a newspaper man, "the Black Hills coach left Cheyenne for Deadwood with eight passengers—seven were men, one was a woman. As they journeyed toward Deadwood they conversed among themselves. Each expressed different opinions as to the probability of a hold-up. Some said they would hide money under the cushions, others would surrender what bills or gold they might possess, while two or three men exhibited revolvers and vowed that they would make resistance. The woman said she had only $100 in the world. She had come out west to make a living by keeping a restaurant in the mining camps and had done very well until a fire destroyed her property and her investment. She was going back to her son in New England to spend the remainder of her days upon the farm. The safest place imaginable, in her opinion, was the sole of her left foot, and she had accordingly placed two $50 bills inside her shoe."

"There was a small man seated in the corner next to the driver. His hat was pulled well over his eyes, and he kept constantly in his lap a small black valise. He took no part in the conversation, and it was not long until the passengers, who received rather curt responses to such questions as they addressed to him, began to regard his actions with suspicion."

"Well, the coach rolled on toward Deadwood. Next morning toward 9 o'clock the expected robbers appeared. The messenger was shot and slightly wounded, the horses were held and both driver and messenger compelled to dismount and put up their hands. The passengers were ordered out of the coach, and it is needless to say that they obeyed with alacrity. The three men who were to resist the robbers were so awed by the presence of several large revolvers thrust in their faces that they gave up their treasures with little remonstrance. Said one of the robbers, 'It's agin our rules to bother women, so, old girl, we won't search you. While two of the desperados went through the pockets of the men another happened to see the small man in the corner. 'Hello,' said he, 'here's one in the coach. Come out of there.' The man appeared, but without his little black valise. He was very poorly dressed, thin, pale and affected by a hacking cough. Said he: 'Boys, I hain't got much—only a few dollars. I am going back east to die. If you take what little I got, I won't have no money to get meals. My railroad ticket ain't any use to you. If you will let me alone, I will tell you where you can get $100.'"

"At this the poor old woman turned pale and some of the passengers began to mutter."

"'All right,' said the spokesman of the bandits, 'we'll search you, and if you ain't lying we'll let you go if you'll tell us where we can get that $100.'"

"So they searched him and found $7 or $8 in silver in his pockets, which they let him keep."

"'Now,' said the consumptive looking man, 'if you'll make this old woman take off her left shoe, you will find next to the sole two $50 bills.'"

"The robbers compelled the old woman to loosen her shoe and found the money." Upon this they took their departure, and the journey toward Deadwood was resumed.

"Scarcely had they entered when a torrent of abuse was poured upon the small man. 'You villain,' said one, 'you ought to be hung.' One of the men called to the driver to stop. The man in the corner was dragged out of the coach, and the excited passengers were about to string him up to the nearest tree."

"'One minute—just one minute!' pleaded he. 'It is only 10 or 12 miles to the next station, and it is customary in this country to give a man a little show for his life. I beg of you just go that far, and if I can't properly explain you can hang me.'"

"The driver told the passengers that the men at the station would not interfere if the suspect could not make a proper defense, so they all re-entered the coach and proceeded upon their journey. There was little said during the next hour and a half. The man was closely watched by the male passengers, and escape for him was impossible."

"As the buildings of the station came into view upon the coach suddenly swinging around a bend in the road the small man brightened up considerably. 'Now,' said he, 'I will tell you. We are perfectly safe here, as this end of the line is free from robbers. I have $25,000 in my grip, and the only way that I could save it was by diverting the attention of the robbers to some one had to be the lady. That is why I have kept my own counsel during the journey.'"

"As the coach rolled up in front of the postoffice he opened his valise, presented the old lady with six $20 bills and in addition gave each of the other passengers sufficient money to cover his expenses to Deadwood."—San Francisco Examiner.

Mrs. C. P. Huntington recently got a new maid. She instructed her about the arrangement of her bath. "You will prepare my bath every morning and every night," she began. "Mon Dieu!" exclaimed the new maid, "two baths a day! Why, my last lady took one in a week, and the little children only took one a week too." "Poor little wretches!" exclaimed the new mistress. And she tells the story in the same spirit, but she does not tell whom her maid lived with before she got her. The two baths a day are supposed to have an effect in keeping down her flesh.—Philadelphia Press.

LIKE A SIEVE. The chief function of the kidneys is to separate from the blood, in its passage through them, of certain impurities and water particles which make their final exit through the bladder. The retention of these in consequence of inactivity of the kidneys is productive of Bright's disease, dropsy, diabetes, albuminuria and other maladies with a fatal tendency. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a highly sanctioned diuretic and blood purifier, impels the kidneys when inactive to renew their sifting function, and strain from the vital current impurities which infest it and threaten their own existence as organs of the body. Catarrh of the bladder, gravel and retention of the urine are also maladies arrested or averted by this benign promoter and restorative of organic action. Malaria, rheumatism, constipation, biliousness and dyspepsia also yield to the Bitters, which is also speedily beneficial to the weak and nervous.
