

THE CONDON GLOBE.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER, 6, 1895.

THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

A very commendable law was passed in Pennsylvania, which provides for the maintenance of parents by their children. The new law says that in addition to the remedies now provided by law, if any male child of full age, being within the commonwealth, has neglected, or hereafter, without reasonable cause shall neglect to maintain his parents not able to work or sufficient ability to maintain themselves, for any alderman justice of the peace or magistrate, upon affirmation made by said parent or parents, or by other person or persons, to issue his warrant for the person and bind him over with sufficient surety to appear at the next court of quarter sessions, there to answer the charge of not supporting his parent or parents. Upon conviction, the court shall direct the payment of sums as it may deem necessary, not exceeding $50 per month for the maintenance of such parent or parents, and the party shall be committed to jail until such sentence is complied with, or good security is given that said sum will be paid.

It has been said that women are no better than men. No one that knows anything believes this. They are better for the simple reason they were born to be better. Of course there are women that are bad. They did not get that way without the help of man, neither did they without their own consent. Women are great gossips, and as they grow older they grow worse. Their gossip is generally harmless, never getting as dirty and vile as the other sex. The worst gossip is the fellow that makes a business of knowing all about the ladies of the neighborhood and whose opinion of their character is always low. Such a fellow is of no use to himself, much less to the world, and the quicker he departs from this mundane sphere the better for mankind.—Goldendale Sentinel.

Will Always Command a Good Price.

When railroads first made their appearance in Europe the owners of horses predicted the same fate for their animals that the lovers of the bicycle predict for that animal today. The steam engine revolutionized the system of public conveyances, and the alarmists said "the horse must go," just as they say now. And for a time the noble animal fell in market value, just as it has fallen at present. There was a time in Europe when poor plug horses could be had for the asking, but, strange as it may appear, the iron horse, instead of driving the horse from the road, created a demand for it, and so it may yet be with electricity and bicycles. The scrub horse will, no doubt, have to go, and so much the better, but even now, if one wants a good horse, it can only be had at a good figure, and the knowing ones say that history will repeat itself on this point, and that good roadsters will before long, command nearly as good a price as of old.—San Francisco Call.

Mrs. S. A. Kell, of Pomona, Cal., had the bad luck to sprain her ankle. "I tried several liniments," she says, "but was not cured until I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm. This medicine is also of great value for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the chest, pleurisy and all deep-seated and muscular pains. For sale by L. W. Darling, druggist.

Mrs. E. E. Davis, of San Miguel, Cal., says: I am trying in a measure to repay the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the great good their remedy has done me. For years I was a constant sufferer from weak lungs and bronchial asthma. My rest at night was disturbed by a hacking cough, so that I felt miserable the greater part of the time. Many remedies recommended by friends were tried, none of which proved suitable to my case. I did not experience any beneficial results until I began taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. After two bottles of the large size have been used I am pleased to state, my health is better than it has been for years. The soreness has left my lungs and chest and I can breathe easily. It has done me so much good that I want all who are suffering from lung troubles, as I was, to give it a trial. For sale by L. W. Darling, druggist.
