The present tendency is to place consumptives in sanitariums where they may be scientifically treated, and where others may be protected from the germ-laden material which the germ-laden material which they may throw off. In Colorado, where there has been a steady influx of consumptive patients, the physicians have found it nectssary that the consumptives should be segregated so as not to inoculate the well with the disease, and wherever they have been heretofore in summer mountain hotels they are now excluded through fear that they will prove infectious. The better knowledge of bacteriology that now prevails has led to LAND OFFICE AT THE DALLES, OR., Sept. 10, 1895. these changes for the good of the whole, but it has also resulted in the protection of the community, by sanitary regulations, from the increase of tuberculosis. Jas. F. Moore, Register. sened in all civilized countries,

We concur with a writer in one of our exchanges who says: Farmers throughout the United States are making a mistake when they fail to plant trees on their land not suited to crops, and along their lanes, fences and highways. Withont any other expense than that of planting the young trees they could provide many fine rows of trees on their farms, all of which would be increasing in value every year. Again, they might plant fruit trees and thus secure abundance of cherries, peaches, apples, plums and other fruits. In all of the Eastern stater the farms are crossed, reand thus secure abundance of cherries, peaches, apples, plums and other fruits. In all of the Eastern stater the farms are crossed, recreased and bounded by rows of peach, cherry and other fruit trees, and the owners look upon these trees as reconnected as reconnected.
