

THE CONDON GLOBE.

THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1895.

THE HUNGER FOR LAND.

Forty years ago substantially all the country lying west of the Missouri river was embraced within the public domain. Arable land was as free as the water in the streams that coursed across it. The supply seemed inexhaustible, and the government found it necessary to hold out special inducements to lure settlers into the farther west, in the Pacific Northwest going so far as to denote 640 acres to a single settler and his wife. Recently we heard the exciting spectacle of nearly 200,000 racing and struggling to acquire a reserve just thrown open to entry. And the land in this reserve is of a character that few would have taken a quarter of a century ago.

Out of this spectacle little can be seen that is not tinged with a melancholy aspect. If the arable land is not quite exhausted, the time is certainly near when it will be. A government which has given with lavish hand for more than a century can give no more forever. Henceforth it must live entirely off its people. Henceforth the deserving homeseeker must make terms with the speculators and the land grant railroads, and the surplus population must settle down to hard conditions of tenant life.

There is evolution if not revolution ahead. A nation which has never known landed want, which has stimulated and fostered the moving and the developing spirit of its surplus population and its border elements, can not face right about to the conditions long ruling in Europe without suffering inconvenience and trouble. The United States having long fostered the land seeking appetite must now expect to encounter some distress in dealing with that appetite. Either immigration must be checked, the people educated to acceptance of the changed conditions, or the prevailing system of the land tenure will have to be modified or revolutionized. The American spirit is not a tenant spirit. It craves a free land title, and to satisfy that craving will hardly quibble at an undertaking having for its purpose restrictions upon the ownership of land. The American people are not likely to make one bite of the Henry George cherry, but they may be expected to do considerable nibbling within the next quarter of a century.

Senator McBride is the first native Oregonian to be elected to the United States senate from this state, an honor he is said to pride himself upon very greatly. He is the 14th man in the procession of Oregon senators. Only one of these was a native of other than America—Baker, who was born in England. Pennsylvania was the birthplace of three—Harding, Kelly and Mitchell; New York of 3—Smith, Williams and Dolph; Maine of two—Nesmith and Grover. Lane was born in North Carolina; Stark in Louisiana; Corbett in Massachusetts; Slater in Illinois. The first senators were Jos. Lane and Delazon Smith, elected in 1853; next elected, 1860, J. W. Nesmith and E. D. Baker. General Baker was killed at Ball's Bluff, and Benjamin Stark was appointed to the vacancy, which was subsequently filled by legislative election of B. F. Harding. This brings us down to 1864, when Geo. H. Williams was elected. The other elections were: 1866, H. W. Corbett; 1870, J. K. Kelly; 1872, 1885 and 1890, John H. Mitchell; 1876, L. F. Grover; 1878, S. H. Slater; 1882 and 1888, J. N. Dolph; 1894, George W. McBride. Mitchell was the youngest of all at the time of an election, being 37. Harding and Corbett were elected at the age of 39; Nesmith and McBride at 40; Stark and Williams at 41; Dolph at 47; Baker at 49; Kelly at 51; Slater at 52; Grover at 53; Lane at 57. It is a little remarkable, perhaps that so many of the ex-senators are still living. Smith died in 1860; Baker in 1861; Lane in 1881; Nesmith in 1885. None of them are very young, either. Stark is 75, Grover and Williams 72, Slater 69, Corbett 68, Dolph 60.

A close friend says that ex-President Harrison's law practice during the last eighteen months has paid him more than his salary while president. It is easy to understand why General Harrison is not worrying about who shall be the next republican candidate for president.—Inter-Ocean.

Wilson's Resort.

I have just bought and taken charge of the Barr saloon in Condon and kindly invite my friends to call in and see me when they feel like enjoying themselves at a game of pool and billiards.

CHAS. C. WILSON.

HOW TO STUDY PROPERLY.

Study is like a dinner. The viands must be well chosen and eaten slowly, not devoured, then well turned over in the mental stomach for awhile until with ease and comfort they are perfectly digested and furnish nutriment to the brain. Most students study without thought, which is like eating without digesting. Others read merely as a fad and soon forget all that they may have learned.

The most satisfactory method of study is the digestive. It is the thorough one—the one that gives strength to the brain. Take the subject you are studying. Read a few pages, as the case may be, then put the book down and think on what you have read. Turn it about in your mind from every standpoint. Do not accept it immediately. Argue for and against in your mind. In other words, masticate it. You need not be at your leisure to do this. Do it in your walks, in your idle moments, at any time. When you have satisfied yourself on the subject go on with a little more in the same way. In a short time you will find yourself a more thorough student than if you had read all at a sitting. The best educated man in the end is the man who learns slowly, but surely.—New York Advertiser.

The Oldest Man On Earth.

The oldest man in the world is a citizen of Bogota, in the Republic of San Salvador. This new Methuselah, says the Chicago Tribune, declares that he is one hundred and eighty years old, and it would seem he flatters himself, for neighbors give the assurance that he is older than he says he is.

He is a half-breed named Michael Solis, whose existence was revealed to Dr. Louis Hernandez by one of the oldest planters in the locality, who as a child knew Solis as a centenarian. They have found in 1712 his signature among those of persons who contributed to the building of a Franciscan convent which exists near San Sebastian. His skin is like parchment, his long hair of the whiteness of snow envelops his head like a turban, and his look is so keen that it made a disagreeable impression on the doctor.

Interrogated by the doctor, he answered complacently that his great age was due to his regular mode of living, and to his never giving up to any excess of any sort whatever.

"I never eat but once a day," said he, "but I never use any but the strongest and most nourishing food. My meals last a half an hour, for I believe it is impossible to eat more in that time than the body can digest in twenty-four hours. I fast the first and fifteenth day of each month, and on those days I drink as much water as I can bear. I always let my food become cold before I touch it. It is to these things that I attribute my great age."

Teacher's Examination.

Notice is hereby given that the regular quarterly examination of candidates for teachers' certificates for Gilliam county, will be held at Condon, Gilliam county, commencing on Wednesday, November 13, 1895, at 1 o'clock p. m. Applications for state and life diplomas will be considered at the same time.

Mrs. W. B. Meek, who resides at Camptonville, Cal., says her daughter was for several years troubled at times with severe cramps in the stomach, and would be in such agony that it was necessary to call in a physician. Having read about Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy she concluded to try it. She found that it always gave prompt relief. It was seldom necessary to give the second dose. "It has not only saved us lot of worry and time, she says, "but also doctor bills. It is my opinion that every family should have a bottle of this remedy in the house." For sale by all druggists.

To the Public.
