

W. J. BRYAN'S CONVENTION SPEECH.

The Eastern press, in spite of its opposition to Bryan, is loud in its praise of his convention speech. One special correspondent, to "the gold bug press," speaks of it as follows:

Last of all came Bryan. He administered the coup de grace to the rising hopes of the adherents of the single standard. He tripped lightly up the steps of the platform, as lightly as George Fred Williams had done on the preceding day. As he stood before the convention, pale, modest and unassuming, he looked the perfect picture of Samuel J. Randall (the great Pennsylvania statesman) a real tribune of the people. His voice filled the hall, apparently without effort; his gestures were the acme of grace as he paced backward and forward on easy familiarity with his hearers. There was no self-consciousness in either action or utterance. The words poured from him in rhythmical volume, burnishing his ideas and facts until they shone like diamonds. His tropes, similes and metaphors were marvelous. The whole speech was iridescent. The delegates sat as though enchanted, breaking into applause at odd moments as though touched by electric wires. It was a display of eloquence pure and undefiled, something that recalled the days of Sergeant S. Prentiss, or of David Paul Brown. Henry Clay himself could not have created so great a furor.

I shall not attempt to describe it. Pale and exhausted, but with flashing eyes and a smiling face he was raised to the shoulders of the Nebraska delegation while the guidons of three-fourths of the states were around him. There was an ocean of applause. While it lasted those bearing the guidons marched in procession around the delegates shouting choruses of satisfaction. It was a tribute never before paid to a living orator. The vote was taken and the fight was won. The gold men had made their final stand and been defeated.

Mrs. William J. Bryan, the wife of the democratic nominee for president, has a great liking for politics. She studied law in Illinois and was admitted to the bar when Mr. Bryan took her to Nebraska to live in 1887. She is a charming woman and is as great a favorite in Lincoln as her husband. She was one of the organizers of Sorosis, the leading woman's club of Lincoln, and is also a member of the W. C. A. and other societies. Mr. Bryan says she is invaluable to him in suggestions and in the preparation of speeches and in advice as to points and methods. Her tastes are essentially literary and she has written much for various causes. Their children are very bright and are pretty and well bred. Mr. Bryan lives in a roomy and commodious dwelling in a pretty part of Lincoln. His family consists of Mrs. Bryan, Ruth, aged 10; William J., jr., aged 6, and Grace, aged 4, and with them are also Mr. and Mrs. Baird, Mrs. Bryan's parents.

Has any man in Polk County ever thought of the amount of money expended for tobacco in the county? Thousands of dollars are spent annually for that noxious weed that might be saved at home and put in circulation would people determine to do so. As good tobacco can be raised in Polk county as anywhere in the Southern States and if farmers would go to raising it pretty extensively they might retain more dollars in their pockets. The time has come when farmers must produce all the necessities of life that can be produced here, if they expect to prosper in agriculture pursuits.—West Side.

Somerville Journal: Hogg—Do you see that man over there? He has a great war record. Penn—Impossible! Why, that man is too young to have fought in the rebellion. Hogg—Yes, but he has been married seven times.

SUMMONS.

In the Circuit Court for the County of Gilliam, State of Oregon. John F. Pennybacker, Plaintiff, vs. John F. Turner, R. Emma Turner, Harry Grubb, Charles H. Dodd & Co. and L. O. Ralston, Defendants.

To John F. Turner, R. Emma Turner and Harry Grubb, defendants: In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit on or before the first day of the next regular term of the above entitled court, to-wit: Monday, the 21st day of September, 1896, and if you fail so to appear or answer, for want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in said complaint, to-wit: Judgment against defendants John E. Turner and R. Emma Turner for the sum of six hundred dollars ($600.00) in U. S. gold coin, with interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent per annum from the first day of May, 1884, until paid, and for the sum of thirty-seven dollars and fifty cents ($37.50) with interest thereon from the first day of May, 1894, at eight per cent per annum until paid, and for the further sum of sixty dollars ($60.00) attorney's fee, together with the costs and disbursements to be taxed in this suit; and that the mortgage described in plaintiff's complaint be foreclosed and that the premises therein described, to-wit: The east half of the east half of section eight in township one south, of range twenty-one east, Willamette meridian, situated in Gilliam County, State of Oregon, be sold to satisfy said judgment; and that said John F. Turner and R. Emma Turner and all persons claiming by, through or under be forever barred of all right, claim or interest, except as redemptioners under the statute, and for such other and further relief as the court may seem just and equitable.

This summons is published by order of W. L. Bradshaw, judge of said court; made and dated on the 20th day of July, 1896.

Last Summer one of our grand-children was sick with a severe bowel trouble. Our doctor's remedies had failed, then we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief. We regard it as the best medicine ever put on the market for bowel complaints.—Mrs. E. G. Gregory, Fredricktown, Mo. This certainly is the best medicine ever put on the market for dysentery, summer complaint, colic and cholera infantum in children. It never fails to give prompt relief when used in reasonable time and the plain printed directions are followed. Many mothers have expressed their sincere gratitude for the cures it has effected. For sale by all druggists.
