

THE CONDON GLOBE.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 6, 1897.

THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

With a wheat crop of 575 million bushels in sight in the United States and an unusually light crop predicted in all the other great grain producing countries of the world the prospects of the American farmer are bright. The recent issue of "Bradstreet's," which is usually very conservative in its views as to the business future, calls attention to the fact that the stock of wheat in hand at present is unusually light, being only 75 million bushels, while nearly all the great grain producing countries of the world have unusually light crops this year. Recent reports, it says, from Russia, Germany, France and Hungary point to decreased wheat harvest, and that India will hardly supply her home demand, with like reports from Australia and Argentina and adds: "This brings the United States to the front as a prominent wheat exporter under similar conditions to those which existed in 1870 over the revival succeeding the great panic after five or six years of retrenchment and economy." The same publication calls attention to the fact that during the month of June there was an advance in cotton, cotton seed oil, tobacco, bacon, lard, rice, corn, oats, barley, peas, milk, wheat and other farm products.

A young school ma'am at a recent examination gave the following definition of man: "Man that is born of woman is of few days and full of microbes. Most men are born. I never heard of but one that wasn't, and he was made out of mud just for a sample. He was split half way up and has since learned to walk on the forked end and chew tobacco. Man's life is full of disappointments. He goes forth in the morning like a lion and leaves the wood for his wife to chop, and in the evening he starteth home and the sidewalk raiseth up and smiteth him. He has the grip on road working days and walks 35 miles to a circus. He will tell you just what to do in case you have the smallpox or yellow fever, and then send ten miles for a doctor when he gets the stomachache. Tell a man he is greasy and dirty and he gets on the prod, but say he is sick and full of grit and it pleases him. Man's days and dollars are numbered and his system is filled with gall."

The London Globe says that the Japs can easily whip the United States. Probably the Globe speaks from a standpoint of malice. Those who have been "licked" are usually inclined to encourage another to do the fighting thereafter. There were people who said the United States would be "licked" in 1773 and 1812, but they proved to be mistaken.

It is really too bad that such a bright light as the editor of the Fossil Journal possesses in his brain should be hid away in the mountains of the southern part of Gilliam county. And it was an unfortunate thing for the great American people that the "editor" did not give them the benefit of his "brilliant" opinions prior to the convening of the Chicago convention a year ago, so that the democracy might have selected some other standard bearer than the gifted orator of the Platte; for this learned recent subject of Queen Victoria has discovered that Mr. Bryan is a most ordinary individual mentally and as an orator has dozens of superiors in the state of Oregon.

The criticisms which the fossil editor made of the speech are prejudiced and partisan from start to finish, still the Oregonian quotes them in full as coming from an "independent and entirely nonpartisan paper," when it is a well known fact to all who have read the Fossil Journal for the past five years that it is and has been one of the most narrow-minded and radical partisan papers published in the Inland Empire; its editor is and has been ever since he landed on American soil (which is not so many months ago) a pronounced republican, and has ever taken his ideas from the paper that now quotes him as an independent.

Roseburg Review: The Oregonian reprints an article on Mr. Bryan from the Fossil Journal, published somewhere in the bunch grass country and going weekly to probably 100 subscribers, which it characterizes as an "independent, clearly non-partisan paper." The article in question gives a good idea of what the Oregonian considers fairness, consisting of a column of unjust and unfair abuse of Mr. Bryan.

[As a sample of the Journal's "influence" in "supporting" McKinley, the usual republican majority of 200 in Gilliam county was reduced at the November election to 70. But as the "honor and integrity and very life of the nation were at stake," the Journal's concealed aim had to do some pretty hard work to "save the nation." Bah!]

JAMES W. SMITH

Desires to inform the people of Gilliam county that his business is running on full time at the old stand—Union Block, Arlington, Oregon; that the flashy, misleading newspaper advertisements and circular letters that are flooding the country have not affected his trade; but on the contrary, sales have been increasing. His many old friends and customers realize that no business man will give away something for nothing. What he loses on the "baits" he will more than doubly make up on the other goods he sells his customers. Look out for snares. One of our greatest statesmen 40 years ago truthfully said: "You can fool some of the people all of the time, and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

James W. Smith's immense stock of goods will speak for him. Call and examine the largest stock of goods ever shown in Gilliam county. His stores are loaded from floor to ceiling, and as regards prices he will endeavor to keep in the "procession."

Many of the lines are bought direct from the East in large quantities for cash, which enables him to give his customers great inducements to favor him with their patronage.

He sells the Oliver Chilled plows and extras, including the New Departure two and three gangs, also the John Deere plows of all kinds, the Studebaker, Bain and Racine wagons, hacks and buggies, the Standard, Acme and McCormack mowers, reapers and hay rakes, the latest improved Pitts threshing machinery, the up-to-date old reliable Hodge steel-frame headers, Holt Bros. Combined Harvesters, Etc., Etc.

Camp and sheepmen's supplies a specialty. Highest prices paid for hides, pelts, etc.

When in Arlington call and get prices before closing deals elsewhere.
