THE CONDON GLOBE.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1898.

THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

To Governor-elect Geer will go forth the earnest sympathy of the people of the entire state of Oregon in his recent great bereavement. The pang of giving up a loved one is bitter enough under any circumsiances, but it must be doubly so when away from home on a pleasure trip. Governor Geer's home-coming on the eve of taking up his official duties is indeed a sad one.

One good thing the late special session of our legislature did was to abolish the useless railroad commission. An effort was made "as a matter of courtesy" to have the thing perpetuated for 90 days longer at a cost of $2,500 to the state, but the house "set down" hard on the proposition. Representative Hawson placed himself on record as being in favor of abolishing the fraud without loss of time.

On a railroad train in New Jersey, the other day, there was a sick soldier going home on a furlough. A large number of young ladies who boarded the train became interested in the uniformed man. They gathered about his couch and ministered to him until their station was reached. Then one of the girls stooped over and kissed the pallid cheek of the soldier, and 15 others followed her example. There were tears in the young man's eyes as the girls left the train, and thereafter he appeared better. Perhaps the proprieties were shocked, but who is there who will say that the girl who led in kissing the soldier boy did not do a commendable act for which she is entitled to as much credit as those who led the charge at Santiago.—Idaho Statesman.

NICARAGUA CANAL.

A party of eight government engineers recently returned from Nicaragua, where they had been engaged in making surveys to determine the feasibility and cost of the proposed canal. They went down there with Admiral Walker and the commission appointed by the government. The admiral and other members of the commission were recalled when the war broke out, but the engineers remained and completed the work.

The unofficial report of these engineers is most interesting. They not only show that the project is feasible, but demonstrate that the canal will cost far less than has been estimated. The Ludlow commission estimated the cost of the canal at $133,000,000. Later Admiral Walker made an estimate of $125,000,000. The engineers now come forward, after an exhaustive investigation, and announce that the work can be done for $100,000,000. They have surveyed every portion of the route and made borings and soundings everywhere. With the data secured by their work in the field, they have made their estimate of the cost, and it may be regarded as the most reliable yet placed before the public. The engineers determined upon a different site for what is called the Ochoa dam. This will obviate the necessity for building the San Juan basin, which would cost $10,000,000.

The report of these engineers will probably go before congress at its next session and should receive prompt consideration. The subject has been through the stage of debate; the people desire the canal built, and the needs of commerce demand it. Therefore there should be very little more time consumed in discussion. All that is needed is the formation of some practical plan of doing the work. The government must assist in some manner, and it should not take congress long to determine what form the cooperation should take.—Idaho Statesman.

The people of Oregon are to be congratulated that the special session has adjourned, and that there will be nothing now to agitate their minds until the regular session which convenes in January next. The special session accomplished some good and some bad work, but take it as a whole, it was the most respectable session we have had for a number of years.—Times-
