THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

TO DIVIDE GILLIAM COUNTY

Representative Donnelly, of Grant county, introduced a bill in the house on Thursday of last week "to create the county of Wheeler from portions of Grant and Crook." This is the proposed new county about which there has been so much talk lately, and, we might add, so much lying.

What purported to be a map of the new county was published in the Oregonian about two weeks ago, that paper being doubtless imposed upon by designing parties, and the proposed county, nameless at that time, was shown as adjoining, but in no way overstepping or interfering with the lines of Gilliam county.

However, the cat, which Mr. Donnelly and his trainers were so carefully guarding in the proverbial bag, escaped about two weeks sooner than was intended and 48 hours had not elapsed after Donnelly had his bill introduced in the house until it was known all over Gilliam county that the intention of the measure was to cut this county in twain on a line running east and west from Lone Rock by Mayville and on to the John Day river, and attach all the south portion of this county to the proposed county of Wheeler. It was also strongly suspected, and more recent developments have tended to confirm the belief, that the entire plot to steal one-third of Gilliam county was concocted by not to exceed one half dozen men in the town of Fossil on condition that Fossil should be the county seat of the new county. We submit that such on action on the part of a few, for their own personal gain and benefit, is a high-handed outrage on the taxpayers of Gilliam county, and we predict that when their voice reaches the legislative halls at Salem Mr. Donnelly's bill, No. 153, will be buried under an avalanche of votes.

The attention of the Honorable members of the legislature is respectfully called to the fact that this bill has evidently been framed with a view of deceiving them as well as the citizens of Gilliam county; the framers, evidently realizing that no such a preposterous measure as that of cutting off one-third of a county, which now possesses but a little more than $1,000,000 in taxable property, and without even asking the consent of the people who pay the taxes to support the county government, would be for a moment considered by any honorable body of men if its true import was known to them.

From the best information we have been able to gather, the policy of Fossil in the past has been one of expansion rather than of contraction for the county.

Only two years ago an effort was made to annex a portion of Grant county to Gilliam, and the vigorous protest made by the taxpayers, in the form of a petition of over 450 names, all over the county, was proof positive that the people are content with their present boundaries, and that they are determined that they shall remain as they now are.

The GLOBE is of the opinion that our representative, Mr. S. G. Hawson, will be found faithful to the very best interests of the people of the entire county which he represents. His mission at Salem is to build up, not to pull down Gilliam county, and those who, for selfish ends, are trying to disrupt and destroy the county will find in him no tool for their purposes.

The bill introduced by Hon. S. G. Hawson, providing for state aid in sinking artesian wells in the counties containing arid lands, should receive the hearty endorsement and support not only of the members from such counties, but from all members who are solicitous for the best interests of the entire state. There is no suggestion of private benefit or jobbery in the bill, and possibilities of benefit are beyond reckoning. The amount asked for from the state is small and, once the fact is demonstrated that artesian water is obtainable, the benefits that would accrue to the entire state would be enormous. The matter is one of public benefit, not of private gain, and we hope to see House Bill No. 1 go through with a whoop.

ARLINGTON.

Dan Thomas has charge of the Wasco Warehouse, under the new management. We predict a large business for the firm the coming summer.

The ice is running out of the river very fast, but the ferryboat cannot cross as yet on account of the ice being blocked on this side of the river.

The snow at this place is about all gone at this writing (Monday), and two more warm days will clear the ground of snow. The water has all gone in the ground and will do much good to the grass and crops.

All the sheep that are being fed on Rock creek are reported to be doing well. Most of them are being fed alfalfa hay, which is plentiful and cheap, costing about $5 per ton. We have heard of no loss as yet, except a few on Willow creek.

R. G. Robinson, of Lone Rock, came down last week and put in a bid for the city's share of the water works, his being the only bid put in. The city owns about two-thirds of the stock of the company, but cannot vote it; so, the city really has no say in the running of the water business, and the council concluded to sell the city's stock, but some of the stockholders object to the city selling and may stop the sale. Mr. Robinson proposed to build an extra reservoir and put in a new pumping plant.

In order to give the people of this section of country an idea of what the opening of the Columbia river by putting in some kind of a portage at The Dalles would do for us, I will give some figures which were handed me by a prominent firm of this place:

Portland to The Dalles, 88 miles.

1st class	2nd class	3rd class	4th class.
25c.	20c.	18c.	15c.

The Dalles to Arlington, 54 miles.

1st class	2nd class	3rd class	4th class.
53c.	48c.	42c.	36c.

Portland to Arlington, via O. R. & N. Co., through rates.

1st class	2nd class	3rd class	4th class.
65c.	55c.	63c.	54c.

Now if the river was open so that boats could carry freight direct from Portland to Arlington we would get about the same rate per mile as The Dalles people now get—or about 41 cts. per hundred on first class—from Portland instead of 65 cts., the present rate.

Let's pull together and have an open river. There is nothing that would put more dollars in the pockets of Eastern Oregon farmers than this one thing, and the U. S. government will help do it.
