

Portland advertised the launch- ing of the torpedo boat destroyer, "Giddings", as an attraction for the Fourth, and then to remind the people that the boat would not be finished before September, haul- ed her propeller on a wagon in the parade. "Anything to draw a crowd" is the way Portland advertises her blowouts.

The nineteenth annual conven- tion of the National Editorial Association met in Portland last week and enjoyed a pleasant and profitable meeting. Many subjects of interest to the profes- sion were discussed and many good suggestions were made as to the proper way to conduct a news- paper. The visiting editors were delighted with Portland and Oregon and there is no doubt but that the advertising the state will receive as a result of their visit will consider- ably increase the recent large in- flux of desirable settlers to the state.

The sword which is to be present- ed to Brigadier-General Summers by the people of Oregon, upon the arrival of the Second Oregon from the Philippines, has arrived in Portland and is said to be a beauty. The handle is of an- tique silver, the hilt of Ameri- can gold, bearing the seal of Oregon, and the blade is of fine Damascus steel heavily plated with silver. The blade bears an appropriate inscription and the sword is said to be one of the finest ever seen in the United States. The first cost (manu- facturer's price) was $350.

Friends of the Oregon volun- teers will hope that the people of Portland will do a better job cele- brating "when the boys come marching home" than they did on the Fourth-of-July. Portland people seemed to be satisfied with the recent patriotic demonstration, but the "country cousins" who happened to be in the city on that day, and who are accustomed to the article of Fourth of July, as dished up in country vil- lages and small cities were sur- prised at the tameness of the affair. Any town in Eastern Oregon can give the metropolis cards and spades and beat her celebrating, difference in population being con- sidered.

"Dear Sir:—The people of the southwest part of Grant county Oregon, are going to allow no sheep to summer on the head of the south fork of Beaver creek, Clear and Warm Spring creeks. This is intended to give due notice in time; as the old saying goes, a hint to the wise is sufficient. Yours Most Respt. COMMITTEE." These letters are typewritten, and while the author may occupy a high position among his fellow cutthroats he is a most miser- able grammarian and for this alone deserves swift punishment. It is signed "Committee." Committee of what? Can it be the committee which for years have dominated affairs in Grant county and the result of whose handiwork is best shown by the statement that the county's indebtedness is over $130,000. A "committee" in- deed! "Not a going to allow sheep" on the public domain. By what authority is this order made? There is none, except that which is invoked by the lone highway- man or the sneaking bands of kuklux that once infested the half civilized districts of Missouri and Arkansas, some of which seems to have been transplanted to Ore- gon.—Crook County Journal.

Dont's for Married People. Don't nag. Don't gossip before children. Don't refer to your wife as "the old woman". Don't use slang or profanity be- fore your children. Don't keep harping on the sub- ject of "mother-in-law". Don't get in the habit of sewing on your own buttons. Don't let your children talk dis- respectfully of their elders. Don't forget the promises you made when you were married. Don't leave the house in a temper. It will upset your whole day. Don't imagine that yours is the only baby on the face of the earth. Don't neglect to raise your hat when you meet your wife out of doors. Don't allow your children to know that you have ever had oc- casion for altercation. Don't be afraid to apologize, even if you have not been the cause of the quarrel.

Mrs C. T. Pinkham, and children, are visiting Mrs. Pinkham's parents at Pine Creek this week. Rev. E. E. Carren, will preach in the Congregational church next Sunday evening at 8 p. m. Sam E. Van Vactor and W. L. Wilcox with their families spent Tuesday on a fishing excursion to Thirty Mile. They report a good catch. Clyde Frazer, oldest son of J. R. Frazer, was taken suddenly and alarmingly ill at Trail Fork last Friday, with bilious cramp colic. Dr. Lina was summoned to attend him and the young man was able to be brought to town Monday, since which time he has been slowly improving. Charlie Fix is starting in to improve his property on a somewhat large scale. The main building will be raised to three stories and will be fitted up for sleeping rooms in connection with the Delmonico restaurant. A square front will be put on the entire length of the property and also a double porch.
