LOCAL NEWS.

County Clerk Butler, of Wheeler county, was in town Tuesday.

F. F. Jancke, of Portland visited his brother-in-law J. F. Reichert last week.

A. Geener left Tuesday for his home in Salem. He went overland via Prineville.

J. K. Fitzwater left Sunday for Wyoming to look after his sheep interests in that state.

Manly Keizer was seriously ill the first of the week but under Dr. Luna's care is now better.

Cooke Bros butchered a five-month-old calf last week that dressed 350 pounds. Who can beat it?

S. B. Barker and F. M. Plitor returned from Grant county Monday, where they bought 2500 head of sheep.

Mrs. Dan Rinehart left Tuesday morning for Lane county where she will visit relatives for several weeks.

Hon. Charles Hilton was a passenger on the north bound stage yesterday enroute from his Pine Creek sheep ranch to his home in Portland.

Mrs. Dr. Baird, a female physician came in on yesterday's stage. Condon appears to be the Mecca of medical men and women, this season.

Jay Bowerman, Oscar Portwood and Bob Wain went down to the Maddock ranch Sunday on a fishing trip. They don't talk much since their return.

Mr. and Mrs. S. V. Moore left for Bingham Springs, near Meacham, Tuesday, to spend their summer vacation. They went via Arlington and O. R. & N.

Perry Ham was over from Lone Rock yesterday getting rid of a severe case of toothache. Dr. Luna removed the offending molar, and Perry went home happy.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Pentecost, of near Mayville, were in town Tuesday on business. Mr. Pentecost says the wheat crop in his section will average 15 bushels per acre.

Charlie Pinkham took his father to Arlington Sunday where the old gentleman took the train for his home in San Francisco, after a very pleasant visit with his son and family here.

W. L. Wilcox and Sam E. Van Factor with their families returned Friday from their camping trip on Thirty mile. They report a good time. They caught 183 trout on the trip and waxed fat accordingly.

The telephone line had reached a point near the old Keizer place Tuesday and the men who are doing the work expect to reach Condon in about two weeks. The ridge seems to be pretty rocky digging which accounts for the slow progress made.

Frank E. Edwards, son of W. J. Edwards, of Mayville, who has been in the Philippines with the Second Oregon for the past year, passed through Tuesday on the stage on his way home. Mr. Edwards was severely wounded in the thigh during the campaign but has entirely recovered now and is feeling first rate.

The town of Fossil shows its enterprise by advertising its excellent public school in the Journal, thereby inviting outside pupils to attend the school and with their tuition, help to swell the funds of the district. Other towns with good schools follow the same course and by so doing make money for their district. Why not Condon.

Mrs. P. H. Stephenson and son Marvin and Miss Belle Darling left last week for an outing in the mountains of Grant county. They went as the guests of R. G. Robinson's family, of Lone Rock. P. H. took them to Lone Rock Thursday where they joined the party, proceeding towards the "high places" next day. They expect to be gone about a month.

Condon had quite a sensation last Thursday evening the cause being an inebriated woman. She had been employed as cook in the hotel for a few weeks, and attended strictly to business until Thursday when she proceeded to fill up on booze and make Rome howl. She succeeded admirably and next morning was given her time and took the stage for Portland, "be gorra".

Now Robert B. Scott, of Ohio, comes to the front and offers to buy a seat in Congress. He is willing to put up $10,000. His plan is to give his entire property for the education of four youths whom his constituency may delegate to be sent to college. This is rather practical, especially in Ohio, where politics are run on a strictly financial basis. Mr. Hanna seems to have the Ohioans pretty well educated in election schemes.—Times Mountaineer.

Maitre Labori, the leading counsel for Dreyfus was shot by an assassin on Monday morning while on his way to the court room at Rennes. Labori was that day to cross-examine Mercier the former minister of war and who is the chief accuser of Dreyfus and it was expected that he would crush him with the searching character of his questions and to prevent this the lawyer was shot down. Labori is still alive and his assassin is still at large.

A warrant was sworn out before Justice Neal Monday, for the arrest of August Anderson, on a charge of assault and battery, the charge being preferred by his wife, May Anderson. The couple had not been living together for several months, and it is alleged that August met his wife on the road, and by force compelled her to go home with him and stay over night. Constable Knox went after Anderson Monday evening but failed to find him. Mrs. Anderson has commenced proceedings for a divorce.

This is no Kick; Only a Few Facts.

We have received a copy of the beautiful souvenir, "The Picturesque Northwest," issued on account of the recent meeting of the National Editorial Association, at Portland, by the American Type Founders' Co. and Pease Bros., of that city. The publication is "a thing of beauty," being replete with excellent half tone engravings of Oregon scenery, buildings, industries etc., and also contains many well written descriptive articles of the different sections of the state. It is to be regretted that the persons who compiled the work did not give more attention to accuracy in their statements, however, as the admission of a single mis-statement into such a publication only tends to weaken the good effect of the entire work. It is also a matter of regret that the work should be made to appear as discriminating against any town or section. Whether or not such an omission was studied, we do not pretend to say, but it is a fact that the only mention of the town of Condon is in the following paragraph which we find in the "write-up" of Arlington:

"When the county of Wasco was divided in 1885, Arlington was designated as the county seat of the new county of Gilliam, and retained it through two contested elections, the county seat subsequently going to Condon on account of county division."

The "write-up" of Gilliam county also names Arlington as the present county seat, which shows either dense ignorance or a desire to be unfair on the part of the writer. These statements have been used more than once lately in alleged newspaper "write-ups" and it is time the stereotyped mis-statement was consigned to the melting pot. The facts are that county division had nothing to do with the removal of the county seat to Condon for the reason that there has been no division of any part of Gilliam county since its segregation from Wasco until the creation of Wheeler county last winter. Condon became the county seat because it was the wish of the people of the county as expressed at the polls, and it so remains, and no perverted statements made either through ignorance or malice can change the facts.

Our neighboring town, Fossil, is given a neat "write-up, a pretty half tone view of the town and a picture of our friend, Jim Stewart, which should be taken by him as excellent grounds for a libel suit, but the "write-up" is spoiled by the foolish mis-statement that "the town has just finished an excellent water system and the place is lighted with gas and electricity."

The facts are that Fossil has no water system and that the citizens are being poked up nearly every week, by the Journal, for their fossil-like inaction in the matter, while their electric and gas lights are small private institutions in which the town has not the slightest interest.

Condon don't need such advertising. She already has the county seat, and a fully equipped water system, acetylene gas—and some of the natural articles—an efficient fire department, a brass band, five church organizations, pretty girls galore, smart babies by the dozen, and behind the town is one of the richest agricultural and stock raising sections in the northwest—a section that produces the wealth and furnishes the trade for the entire county of Gilliam.

Struck Water.

Bill Cooke floated into our sanctum on a sea of smiles last Friday and rose to remark that he had the floor and an item. We didn't question Bill's right to be heard, as he is bigger than we are, and he at once began to unbosom himself. The item proved to be to the effect that on Thursday evening the drill struck water in the well being sunk on the Cooke ranch and that after a hard half-day's pumping they found that no head-way was being made towards pumping the thing dry. The well is 113 feet deep and has nine feet of water and the supply seems to be inexhaustible. This strike is of great importance to that section of country as it has proven that an inexhaustible supply of water can be had by going after it. The water was found in a bed of quicksand which in itself is pretty good evidence that the supply is unlimited.

Certificates Granted

The three candidates for teachers' certificates, at the examination last week were all successful, and each one received her certificate Saturday morning. Miss Grace Balding received a second grade and Misses Nora Miller and Stella Adlard each received third grades.

Teachers' Institute.

The annual county normal institute for Gilliam county will be held in Condon, September 4, 5, and 6th, 1899. Superintendent Daggett has secured C. W. Durette and Miss Octavia Drake, as instructors. Mr. Durette is one of the best institute workers in Oregon. He has just filled his second year's appointment in Lane county. Superintendent W. M. Miller says of him: I consider him, not only the best institute worker I have employed, but the best I have heard. He presents his subjects in a forceful, energetic and taking manner. The teachers of this county are to be congratulated on securing such able talent for their institute. Miss Drake will have charge of primary work and methods. State Superintendent Ackerman will be present two days and lend his aid to make the coming institute the best in our history.

S. P. Shott, who recently sold the Sumpter News and announced through a number of papers that he would engage in mining and real estate business must have suddenly got enough in those lines as he now announces through the Oregonian that he will soon start a new paper at Hood River. S. P. will soon have worked every town in Oregon.

That Fish Story.

The plain unvarnished facts are these: Van was fishing one day in Thirty mile, when suddenly an immense trout grabbed his hook viciously, snapped the fine silk line (warranted as though it had been paper, and sullenly retired into a cavern beneath an overhanging ledge of rock. Van was disgusted but not disheartened. Next day he secured a heavier and stouter line and tried it again. The result was the same only that after snapping the line and swallowing the hook, the fish reared up on his hind legs and made faces at Van and gave him the h rse laugh. This was too much for any high spirited citizen to stand, and Van vowed a vow that he would conquer that fish and donate his carcass to the editor for brain food. Next day he secured 100 feet of stout rope had a hook made from a five foot crowbar, baited it with one of W. A. Campbell's latest stories, tied the other end to a tree and awaited results. In about two minutes pandemonium was popping in that pool. The fool fish was firmly fixed on the crowbar, but from the fuss he was making, it did not seem expedient to try to land him by hand. It was then that Van demonstrated the superiority of mind over matter. He had heard that wetting a rope would cause it to contract, and without loss of time he began carrying water from the creek in his hat and pouring the same on the rope and in an hour and twelve minutes he had the fish drawn out high and dry on the bank.
