

THE CONDON CLOBE.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1899. THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

THE COEUR D'ALENE TROUBLE.

About 100 men are still confined in the "bull pen" at Wardner, Idaho, for alleged complicity in the destruction of the Bunker Hill & Sullivan mill last April.

From the paper above referred to we make the following extract:

"About a week ago the inmates of the bull pen were discovered in the act of tunneling out and while it must be generally admitted that persons imprisoned on charge of crime forfeit in a great measure their standing and respectability by attempting to escape from the officers of the law.

Nevertheless self-preservation is the first law of nature and to escape is the natural inclination, and after remaining in the bull pen for five long weary months, without charge or trial, while two sessions of the district court of Shoshone county have been held, and with the further knowledge that the civil courts have been barricaded against them by the Krag-Jorgenson rifles of Governor Steunenburg, the attempt to escape was not natural and we doubt if in all Idaho there can be found ten persons who would not make the attempt under like circumstances, but for this attempted escape a punishment is imposed upon them.

They were ordered to dig a ditch nine feet deep around the entire prison, which order they stubbornly refused to obey. Their refusal was not only human but just. The prisoners in the bull pen are convicted of no crime and under the law of this country are presumed innocent until proved guilty and no officer, however great, has any moral or legal right to compel them to do manual labor against their will. They are entitled to wholesome food, comfortable beds and decent treatment and can in no sense be rightfully treated as felons until judgment has been passed upon them by the courts of the country. But it appears that the authorities have no regard for law and decency, and when the prisoners refused to work at manual labor at the command of Captain Edwards and without remuneration they were placed on a bread and water diet. All the straw was taken from their bunks and they are compelled to sleep on the hard boards. Refreshments of every kind are denied them. Those addicted to the use of tobacco are refused it. They are compelled to stand up in line in the boiling sun seven hours per day and denied the right to take a step or move a limb under pain of death. Such cruelty is without a parallel in this age of Christian civilization."

Every man who was implicated in the riot of last April should be prosecuted to the full extent of the law but, if the above statements are correct, it would seem that persecution and not prosecution is the method being employed by the state and military authorities in the Coeur d'Alene. If the charges which have been iterated and reiterated by the Tribune for the last five months are true, there can be no doubt but that the state authorities have trampled the law under foot to as great an extent as the rioters did. If they are not true why do the authorities not stop the publication of the paper. If the Tribune's charges are false the office should be closed and the editor should be locked up. If they are true the governor and his subordinates should be impeached, removed from office and sent to the penitentiary.

The British government has sent a rush order to a firm of Chicago horse dealers for all the 1200 pound horses, suitable for artillery purposes, the market will afford. They will pay $125 per head. Thus far should we go towards an "Anglo-American" alliance but no farther. We can well afford to furnish John Bull with horses and mules, and other war supplies, but for heaven's sake don't let us tangle up with him in any brotherly-love-conquer-and-christianize-the-world business. We have enough troubles of our own.

The Oregonian quotes a New York paper to the effect that the high price of beef to the American consumer is due to the fact that American packers are selling beef in England at a loss of $1,000,000 a month in order to drive Australian beef from that market and to "play even" they have raised the price to the consumers at home. That is the method employed by trusts in more cases than one. The "dear people" pay all sorts of profits and expenses to the trust magnates and then shout themselves hoarse for the politicians who wink at trusts and make their robberies legal and respectable.

The legislature of Oregon could protect the people of the state against the outrageous charges of the express companies for services between points within the state. Particularly are these charges excessive on smaller packages sent from Portland to points in Eastern Oregon. For carrying and delivering a package under eight pounds from Portland to Pendleton the charge is beyond reason, being nearly as much as for a similar package from Chicago to Pendleton. The Portland merchants should use their influence with a view of lessening these charges of the express companies, as the discrimination against Portland has the effect of driving a considerable business east that belongs by right to Portland tradesmen. In matters of this kind the Portland business interest is derelict, not seeming to care to what extent extortion is resorted to so long as it is not directly attributed to it. The express companies should be made to reduce their rates on the smaller packages to something near the level of rates charged for similar service by the express companies in the East, and the business men of Portland should take the initiative in the matter, and if necessary, correct the abuse by act of the legislature. Since the express companies take advantage of every opportunity to cinch the public the least they should expect is that the people will make use of their powers to protect themselves against extortion. The charges of these companies concern every citizen of the state, as they unnecessarily add to the cost of living, so that big dividends may be paid to stockholders who have no interest in the country or the people, otherwise than to exact all the traffic will bear.—East Oregonian.

DON'T TAKE A HEADER.

Don't take a "header" until you have seen the Old Reliable Hodges No. 2 or Center-Drive Header. We can furnish either, and a careful examination of the latest type of Hodges Steel Headers will convince you that they are just what we claim them to be—the most perfect model in the Header line yet produced.

In spite of the unwarranted assertions of some, it is a well known fact that more Hodges Headers are made every year and sold—and stay sold—than of all other makes combined; that more Hodges Headers make merry music in the harvest fields of both continents than were ever constructed by all other manufacturers of this type of harvesters. For 30 years Hodges Headers have been the leaders in their class.

No feature of these machines has been considered good enough that could be improved upon, and we now say with confidence, that it is, as it has ever been, the peer of all alleged rivals in simplicity of construction, ease of operation and beauty of finish.

If you are not interested in headers let us show you the Milwaukee Chain Drive Mower, or other good mowers we have, the Lad and Leslie Steel Hay Rake, or other graders we have, the Lowell track and rear, which reduces harvest expenses, in short let us show you the latest machine from a thrashing machine to a repair link.

Remember we are headquarters for machine extras. Call and see us. SHURTELL & WEIR CO. ARLINGTON, - - - OREGON. DROP IN AT COE'S SALOON Next Door to Bowling Alley Arlington, when you feel like enjoying a first-class CIGAR OR MILWAUKEE BEER ON DRAUGHT. All kinds of first-class liquors on hand.
