

Every merchant in Condon is filling his shelves with fresh goods for the winter trade which reminds us that a comparison of their prices with those of the catalogue sent out by the big department stores is rather favorable to the home merchants.

The Boers seem to mean business. Their "ultimatum" was followed up by active warfare and they seem to be making themselves quite a nuisance to the English. When they found England was spoiling for a fight they took the (John) Bull by the horns and went at it. There are plenty of people who have not a drop of Dutch blood in their veins whose sympathies will be with the Boers. It looks to be a one sided struggle however and there is little doubt of the final outcome.

Admiral Dewey is not likely to be bamboozled by the politicians. If he has any political aspirations he is keeping them to himself. If he finally determines to go into politics he will go in as he went into the harbor of Manila. He will just slip in when his opponents are not expecting him and take possession before breakfast.—People's Republic

At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Union Pacific Railroad Company held recently at Salt Lake the company's preferred stock was increased $25,000,000 and its common stock $7,718,000 for the purpose of converting at par the outstanding Oregon Short line and Oregon Railroad & Navigation companies' bonds. From this proceeding it would appear that it is the intention of those in control of these properties to wipe out the name and character of both the O. S. L. and O. R. N. and write instead U. P. from Omaha to Portland.—East Oregonian.

ADVANCED VIEWS.

"I declare myself a socialist. I believe in national paternalism, in governmental ownership of all industries. The competitive system of labor is today the curse of the toilers. There is no hope for the betterment of the evil conditions which now exist as a result of the antagonism of capital and labor, save in the establishment of a socialistic form of government"

These words were the keynote of an address delivered the other day to an audience of union workmen at Spokane by a special agent of the federal bureau of labor sent there to investigate the Coeur d'Alene riots and other labor difficulties. The speaker was Adalbert M. Dewey cousin of the admiral, and historian of the Dewey family. His words created a considerable sensation.

Speaking of the Coeur d'Alenes, Mr. Dewey said:

"I, who am one of you, say to you that labor organizations can not afford to stand sponsor for crime."

This won applause. The speaker also counseled his hearers to moderation in the use of intoxicants, to the end that they might never while under the influence of liquor be caught to bring discredit upon organized labor. He refused to discuss the report he will make on the Gardner riot, saying it must be given out through the department first and not from him.

The meeting was of representatives of all labor organizations of Spokane to report to Mr. Dewey data concerning all labor difficulties there in the past five years.

"Do we encounter the trusts?" said a leading hardware merchant in conversation with a Los Angeles Herald reporter the other day. "Well I should say so. We can't get away from them. They are all around us and we meet them at every turn. The worst of it is that they not only fix the prices we must pay for goods, but they also fix the prices we must sell for. They are making mere agents of the merchants, and they allow so small a margin that merchants can hardly do business on it. The trusts are getting all the advance. "In the matter of nails, the price has gone up more than a hundred per cent. Six months ago we could sell for $1.90 a hundred and make a fair profit; now we have to charge

$4.30 and we make very little. A part of this is due to freight rates, however. Six months ago we could get nails in lots of 300 kegs at 50 cents a hundred pounds; now we get a minimum rate of 71½ cents a hundred in lots of 600 kegs. On a consignment of 400 kegs the rate is ten cents more, and on 300 kegs ten cents above that. The discrimination is against the small shipper every time.

Take the matter of pipe. That is all controlled by the trust. Six months ago we could sell two-inch pipe at $9 65 cents a hundred feet and make a profit of 15 per cent; now we have to pay $21 for a hundred feet and we make less than 5 per cent.
