THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILLIAM COUNTY, OREGON.

PLUMMER'S PLUM.

One H. R. Plummer, of Polk county, has recently made an ugly charge against Governor Geer and one which the people of the state, without regard to party, will hope to see proven, by the governor, to be false. It is to the effect that on the 25th day of April, 1898, Plummer paid Mr. Geer $1000, in consideration of which, Mr. Geer, if elected governor, was to appoint Plummer superintendent of the penitentiary. Plummer claims to hold the governor's receipt for the amount and has gone so far as to have the same published in a Salem newspaper. He further claims that upon the governor's failure to keep his part of the contract and give him (Plummer) the desired plum, he demanded and received his money back with an additional $1000 as damages. We fail to see where Plummer has any kick coming, as $1000 profit on such a transaction is a pretty good "rake off" itself. Taking for granted that the story is true, however, it looks as though Plummer must have regarded the penitentiary plum as something of a pudding or he would not have risked a "blind" of $1000 on a $1500 a year "pot." Plummer should not give such snaps away. The people will soon lose faith in all webfoot politicians and come to regard Salem as being as rotten the year around as it is known to be when the legislature is in session. But seriously, if Plummer's charge is false—and all good people in the state will hope and be inclined to believe it is—the governor owes it to himself and to the people who elected him to bring his traducer up with a short turn and make him suffer the extreme penalty for criminal libel. It is not well that the chief executive of the great state of Oregon should suffer such a stigma.

One "graft" that failed in the last Oregon legislature was the proposed sugar beet bounty law. Those interested ones who were behind the measure were loud in their assertions that this "infant industry" should be protected and fostered or it would flat. Time has proven that without a bounty more beets were grown in Grande Ronde valley this year than last, the present crop being fully up to the capacity of the factory. The people should keep an eye on all such class legislation in the future and all aspirants for legislative honors should be given to understand that they must "stand pat" on such propositions or everlastingly remain at home.

It is astonishing how much encouragement and satisfaction both parties are able to extract from an "off year" election. Bryan is "tickled to death" over the result in Nebraska and McKinley is urbanely exhilarated over the result in Ohio. Mayor Sam Jones, of Toledo, gets "cussed" by both sides and perhaps he enjoys that. Mayor Jones is like a premature peach bloom—he came out too soon and got frosted. He might do better 10 years hence. "The world do move."

Don't forget to study upon the Russian thistle this winter. You may need the knowledge next summer.

The transformation of a band of 300 Indian ponies is thus followed to a conclusion by the Times-Mountaineer: "Art Miller got the ponies for the Linnton cannery. Soldiers in the Philippines get the meat. The Indians convert the purchase price into whiskey and get drunk. The government gets the revenue tax on the liquor. The city gets a fine out of the redmen, and the Indian has a headache left to take home with him."

There is prosperity for everybody but the wheat grower. While the prices of all other products have elevated the price of wheat has steadily fallen. In fact even silver has held its own better than wheat. At this time an ounce of silver will buy in Pendleton more than a bushel of wheat. To war in the Philippines and in South Africa can be attributed the low price of wheat. The heavy demand for transports that these wars brought about has increased the price of charters and correspondingly lowered the price of wheat in the hands of farmers and grain dealers. There is little prospect for the price of wheat to rise, until these wars are brought to a close and transports are no longer needed in the government service. Not until then will charters fall and the wheat grower receive the market value of his product. In short, the wheat producer is paying an enormous fine for the conduct of the war in the Philippines and in South Africa, and it does not set well on his stomach, as these wars are not being waged for his benefit, present or future.—East Oregonian.

THE TRUSTS STILL AT IT.

Prices continue to go up on what you buy. The newspaper gets caught along with the rest of them. The price of paper has gone up 10 to 20 per cent., envelopes 15 to 25 per cent., machinery about the same; type 50 to 60 per cent. Every few days we get new price lists showing a raise and reserving the right to change again without notice. You get a quotation of prices on an article today and when you order tomorrow are surprised to find the price has gone up and you have to pay more. There is no help for it unless you can do without and often you can't. The wholesale firms charge all this to the trusts, and say there is no prospect of any fall in prices. They say they would prefer that prices would fall again, as they could do more business and get better profits. Now, who is getting the benefit of such arbitrary raises in prices? Not the publishers, not the printers, not the readers, not the wholesale houses, but the big capitalists who combine and increase prices, putting the profits in their pockets.—Payette (Idaho) Independent.

The Portland Oregonian has decided that the prize fighter is only interesting as an animal, a trained animal, "like a dancing bear, a circus elephant, a stage lion, or any other creature whose pugnacity, or voracity or other untutored powers and appetites have been tamed, harnessed and exercised for the entertainment or profit of man. This is exactly what a prize fighter is; a human bulldog, washed, groomed, and oiled to meet other dogs; a human gamecock planted in a public cockpit."—E. O.

LONE ROCK.

John Young and wife, of Wagner, visited friends here this week.

The farmers are busy hauling wood, plowing and putting in grain.

Ed Wineland and Jerry Vickers will start out in a few days on a coyote killing expedition.

The Mormons, under the leadership of Elder Harris, closed their meetings and are going to Wagner to commence again.

Rev. I. D. Brown closed his revival meeting Sunday night and went out on missionary work. Will go as far as Fox valley and expects to be absent about four weeks.

Nothing pays so well as advertising, says Mr. Bond. He sold his overcoat for an extra good price because some meddlesome fellows painted a conspicuous advertisement upon it.

The school house caught fire Monday forenoon from the stove-pipe. The children were soon hustled out with their books and by the timely assistance of citizens the building was saved. A large hole was burned in the roof, however.

BEEHER FLAT.

Farmers are busy putting in their crop. Born—November 7, 1899, to the wife of W. R. Ramsay, a 9 1/2 pound daughter. P. M. Jewell has moved to the Geo. B. Duke ranch.

Wheat in this locality is all going south, to Wheeler county.

Beecher can boast of the biggest pigs and potatoes in the county.

Mrs. Jake Ramsay, of Halsey, Oregon, is visiting friends and relatives here.

Sam Leelling and daughter Lulu, have gone to Missouri to visit friends and relatives.

Geo. and Art Smith lost a good sized "shoot" about seven weeks ago and after a thorough search gave it up as missing. Last week Guy Cooper happened to look down an old 70 foot well on the Graham ranch and saw the pig. Help was secured and his pigship was raised to the surface, still living, but a mere shadow of his former self. The boys are positive it must have been in the well almost seven weeks.
