ALL OFF WITH CONDON.

The Arlington Independent disposes of the proposed railroad to Condon in a rather summary manner. The last issue of that journal gives the following ultimatum on the railroad proposition: "J. Q. Jameson, chief engineer of the Oregon Southern Ry. Co., was at Condon Saturday looking over the country in that vicinity. Mr. Jameson was not disposed to express himself on the subject of his visit to that portion of the country, but it is evident from his convergence. county, but it is evident from his conversation that the survey is purely preliminary, and that the O. R. & N. Co. have so immediate intention of building a road into that country. It is true that a surveying party is pushing its way up the John Day and Rock Creek, but the route is found, so far, to be inexpedient. The creek is not a favorable route on account of the hundred little crooks and curves from one end to the other. A Condon route is entirely out of the question. Too many ravines break into that secontry and the per cent of grade is too high. Rock Creek is as near to Condon as a road is likely to be surveyed and that is not feasible from the fact that too many bridges would have to be maintained. Bridges are perishable, therefore they are to be avoided in railroad constructing. The editor of this paper made a trip over a good portion of this country with Mr. Jamieson and gained much personal information in regard to the survey."
