THE CONDON GLOBE.

THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1900.

NOTICE.

The GLOBE invites correspondence from all sections of Gilliam county. We aim to make this paper the leading news medium of the county and invite our friends to assist us by sending in the news of their respective neighborhoods. Correspondence must be signed by the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith, and the editor assumes no responsibility for opinions expressed by correspondents.

A $100,000 damage suit has just been filed against Hon. H. W. Corbett, of Portland, for "swiping" the ardent affections of the young and beautiful wife of another man. Mr. Corbett "denies the allegation and defies the allegator" and at once proceeds to announce himself as a candidate for United States senator which he intimates he might not have done had the damage suit not been started. Mr. Corbett is a shrewd politician and well he knows that no better credentials could be presented in the legislative circles at Washington than the papers in such a suit. If he is elected he should carry Washington by storm. Even his advanced age will be overlooked.

A WARM ESSAY.

In a little country school not far from this city, literary exercises are held regularly every Friday afternoon during the term. A twelve-year-old boy read an original essay on "The Newspaper." This latter-day youthful Solomon treats his subject thusly:

"Newspapers are sheets of paper on which stuff to read is printed. The men look over the paper to see if their names is in it and the women use it to put on shelves and sich. I don't know how newspapers came into the world. I don't think God does. The Bible says nothing about editors and I never heard of one being in heaven. I guess the editor is the missing link them fellers talk about. The first editor I ever heard of was the one that wrote up the flood. He has been here ever since.

"Some editors belong to the church and some try to raise whiskers. All of them raist hell in their neighborhoods and all of 'em are liars, at least all I know and I only know one. Editors never die. At least I never saw a dead one. Sometimes the paper dies and then the people feel glad but some one starts it up again. Editors never went to school because editors never got licked. Our paper is a mighty poor one but we take it so ma can use it on our pantry shelves. Our editor don't amount to much but paw says he had a poor chance when he was a boy. He goes without under clothes in winter, wears no socks and has a wife to support him. Paw hasn't paid his subscription in five years and don't intend to."—Princeton Record.

THE STATE FAIR.

The State Board of Agriculture is making a great effort this year to make the state fair a representative agricultural and live stock show. The premium list is out and is being thoroughly distributed through out the state and personal efforts are being made to attract the attention of farmers and stockmen to the very liberal premiums.

Several counties in the state are preparing a county exhibit for the fair, for they realize it will be a good opportunity to advertise their county in a most practical way.

Each exhibit will be a lecture room, and an object lesson to the home seeker, where he can get information, along intelligent lines, and will be worth many dollars in advertising the county's resources.

The live stock show will be, without question, the best ever held on the coast. Breeders all over the country are preparing to exhibit at the fair this year. There is an opportunity here in Oregon for the farmers who have been running in debt raising wheat, to turn their attention to the profitable production of beef, mutton or pork or engage in dairying which has already taken its place as a leading paying industry in this state. There is a demand for the best specimens of all breeds, which will continue to grow for years to come, and there is nothing that will encourage these industries so much as stock shows at state and county fairs.

Portland is soon to have a crematory. The plant will comprise a chapel, furnace room and columbarium the latter being designed as a receptacle for urns containing the ashes of bodies cremated. This will be the first crematory erected in the Northwest and it may be considered a step forward on the part of Portland people. The incineration of the dead was practiced from earliest antiquity by the most enlightened and progressive nations and it is a matter of wonder that the more revolting method of burial in the earth should have obtained in later times. From a sanitary standpoint—for the welfare of the living—every argument favors cremation and condemns burial and from a purely sentimental standpoint the same statement might truthfully be made. When death comes the body must sooner or later return to the elements and it is less revolting to think of that process being accomplished in a few moments, by the purifying effects of fire than to think of the slow process of decay, lasting for years, through which the body must pass after burial. The objections to cremation are mostly based on predjudice but this, like other relics of an age outgrown, must soon give way before the onward march of a higher civilization.

You assume no risk when you buy Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The Hudson Pharmacy will refund your money if you are not satisfied after using it. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful remedy in use for bowel complaints and the only one that never fails. It is pleasant safe and reliable.

The Spokane Spokesman-Review furnishes the following interesting analysis of President McKinley's address to the committee which notified him of his nomination:

"7074 words were devoted to money and silver.

313 words to imperialism and the Philippines.

242 words to praise of republican record.

126 words to protection..

82 words to China.

75 words to Hague conference.

66 words to Hawaii.

57 words to Spanish war.

23 words to Cuba and Porto Rico.

0 words about trusts."

The Cigars are on Us.

"The CONDON GLOBE of yesterday in replying to the communication of S. B. Barker speaks of the failure of the Arlington National Bank. We wish to remind the brother that the Arlington National Bank is a very live institution and has never failed, but that its resources are constantly increasing. The GLOBE very likely inadvertently said Arlington National Bank instead of First National Bank, but we trust he will be careful not to overlook the fact that the Arlington National Bank is still doing business at the old stand."—Arlington Record.

Call up the gang brother first time you catch us in Arlington. The treats are on yours truly.

A Good Cough Medicine.

Many thousands have been restored to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. If afflicted with any throat or lung trouble, give it a trial for it is certain to prove beneficial. Coughs that have resisted all other treatment for years, have yielded to this remedy and perfect health has been restored. Cases that seemed hopeless, that the climate of famous health resorts failed to benefit, have been permanently cured by its use. For sale by The Hudson Pharmacy—C. W. Crosfield, mgr.

Fires in Wheat Fields.

The following from the Walla Walla Statesman should serve as a warning to all wheat growers and threshermen to exercise extraordinary care against fire this season. On account of the rank growth of all vegetation early in the season danger from fire is much greater than in former years:

"Sparks from a traction engine on the farm of John Spreitzer in Spring Valley started a fire in his wheatfield which was not extinguished until over 600 acres had been destroyed. Wheat in one place had been threshed and the outfit was being moved to another field, when crossing a flat stretch of ground sparks from the engine dropped into the straw, and almost before the men had time to attempt to check it, it had gained great headway and spread with remarkable rapidity. Mr. Spreitzer lost about 200 acres, Willis Engels the same amount and Dan McCoshum a large amount. Mr. Spreitzer's grain was insured, but it understood the balance burned up was not.

"Straw is unusually heavy and thick this year, and being quite dry, it is a difficult matter to extinguish a fire when once started. Up to date there has been as many as 15 fires in different wheatfields, causing an aggregate loss of 1000 acres of grain."

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Cholera Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—MRS. CURTIS BAKER, Bookwalter, Ohio. Sold by the Hudson Pharmacy.—C. W. Crosfield, mgr.
